PRELATES CALL ON MUNDELEIN; JUBILEE TODAY

900 of Clergy to Be in Procession.

Radio station W-G-N on the Drake hotel will broadcast Cardinal Mundelein's Silver Jubilee service of Thanksgiving this morning beginning at 10:30. The service also will be broadcast in part by the Columbia Broadcasting company and in part by the National Broadcasting company.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

All was in readiness last night for the massive spiritual tribute to Cardinal Mundelein today in Holy Name cathedral. During the day dignitaries and priests, led by Cardinal Hayes of New York and the Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, papal delegate to the United States, were arriving for the cardinal's silver jubilee from nearly every state in the Union and from all the continents of the world.

The visiting priests, bishops, abbots, and archbishops were deployed about the city yesterday meeting old friends and seminary classmates among Chicago clergy. Cardinal Hayes and Archbishop Cicognani were escorted to the cardinal's palace at State parkway and North avenue by Bishop Bernard J. Sheil and the Most Rev. Msgr. Robert C. Maguire. There they were received by the Chicago jubilarian and Mayor Kelly. It was learned yesterday that Cardinal Hayes will celebrate his 67th birthday today. When the two cardinals met, Cardinal Hayes paid tribute to the long friendship existing between them.

Brings Good Wishes from New York.

"I am overjoyed to find myself here on the occasion of your silver jubilee," Cardinal Hayes declared, as he greeted Cardinal Mundelein. "I come as a friend of more than 50 years' standing. Memories crowd in upon me as I present the felicitations of the people of your old home. New York rejoices at the success of its illustrious son."

Archbishop Cicognani also congratulated the Chicago cardinal on the twenty-fifth anniversary of his elevation to the rank of bishop. He said Cardinal Mundelein's "successful efforts had been greatly appreciated by the holy father." Mayor Kelly spoke on behalf of the people of Chicago, voicing pride in the cardinal's achievements both as a churchman and citizen.

The committee announced yesterday that a tribute from Pope Pius would be read at today's service by the Most Rev. Msgr. J. Gerald Kealy, rector of St. Mary of the Lake seminary, Mundelein.

Procession This Morning.

The service will begin at 9:45 this morning with a majestic procession, which will include two cardinals, the apostolic delegate, 17 archbishops, 87 bishops, 11 mitered abbots, and 800 priests. The procession will move from the Holy Name school and the cathedral rectory into the cathedral to the music of the papal march and three other selections played by a symphony orchestra.

The music of the solemn pontifical votive mass of thanksgiving, which is to give setting to the ancient liturgy, will be under the direction of the Rev. Dr. Edwin V. Hoover and Prof. Otto Singenberger, with Albert Sieben at the organ. The St. Mary of the Lake seminary choir and the Cardinal's Cathedral choristers, 225 voices in all, will sing the entire mass of Montani, "Missa Festiva." As the apostolic delegate and his attendants enter the edifice five voices, singing a cappella, will render "Tu es Petrus," by Perosi.

Jubilarian to Deliver Sermon.

When Cardinal Hayes and his suite mount the special throne on the gospel side of the sanctuary, Singenberger's "Ecce Sacerdos" will be sung. Then as the cardinal jubilarian ascends the archiepiscopal throne of the see of Chicago, the entire chorus and full orchestra will peal forth Saint-Saëns' "Laudate."

After the mass has been offered by Cardinal Mundelein he will ascend into the pulpit to deliver the sermon of the occasion, and the great service will close with Acovacci's festival Te Deum.

The officers of the mass, in addition to Cardinal Mundelein as the celebrant, are to be the Most Rev. Msgrs. Francis A. Purcell, D. J. Dunne and Thomas P. Bona, and the Revs. Thomas F. Fiel, James Hishen, Walter Frasnacht, and Charles Marcinkiewicz. The knight escort will be Joe W. McCarthy, K. S. G.

START THUNDER OF FINAL PLEAS IN INSULL TRIAL

U. S. Sums Up; Case to Jury Saturday.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Thunder to the right, thunder to the left, the jurors in the Insull mail fraud case faced the opening of the last pre-verdict stage of the big trial yesterday in Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson's courtroom.

While Forest A. Harness, special assistant to the United States attorney general, shouted arguments at the jurors and pounded his fist on the pulpit-like stand that had been placed in front of the jury box, atmospheric artillery bombarded the dark horizon beyond the windows.

It seemed a fitting accompaniment to the story of the tremendous crash related by Mr. Harness and to the thoughts of might-have-been that hovered around the grim rows of the sixteen defendants sitting behind Samuel Insull.

Lists Three Phases of Case.

"There are three major phases to this case," said Mr. Harness, leaving a bedtime thought for the jurors at adjournment time last evening. "The first is the concealment of assets, the second the manner in which the defendant company [Corporation Securities] treated stock dividends, and the third is market rigging."

Chart 22 had been wheeled into position by the darkening windows. The prosecutor pointed to it with accusing finger.

"We claim it was fraudulent to follow that type of accounting principles," he cried. "These three things made up the gigantic and monstrous scheme, made it possible to cheat the public out of $100,000,000."

Acquittal Motions All Denied.

Mr. Harness began his review of the case after all motions had been cleared out of the way and the court had denied the pleas of 11 of the defendants for directed verdicts of not guilty. The pleas of the other six were denied last Saturday. Now the defendants were all in the same boat, for weal or woe.

The case will go to the jury next Saturday morning, under the present plan. Mr. Harness will conclude his summary this morning. He will be followed by Attorney Charles Lounsbury, opening for the eight defense lawyers. The defense will have the floor until next Thursday afternoon.

Then the rebuttal will begin with an argument by Leslie E. Salter, special prosecutor who has conducted all the courtroom work in the case. United States Attorney Dwight H. Green will finish the rebuttal Friday afternoon and the jury will be charged on Saturday morning.

Attorneys to Focus Evidence.

In view of the complicated and technical nature of the evidence, which has been largely a matter of book accounts and opposing theories of accounting, the summations of the attorneys are regarded as of unusual importance. They will bring the case to a focus, each from his own point of view. The charge of the court, which is expected to include comment on the evidence, is also awaited with unusual interest.

Mr. Harness brought his own focus to a gloomy view for the defendants. The whole thing, he told the jury, came down to a simple scheme to swindle, cheat and defraud the people out of more than $100,000,000. He gave a synopsis of the indictment charges, all of which, he declared had been proved.

Five Points of Argument.

He divided this into five essential points as follows:

1. The defendants guaranteed the safety of the money invested in Corporation Securities stock because the company was based on great physical properties.

2. The yield of 6 per cent or more interest which was promised was not based on truth.

3. The defendants stated that more than 90 per cent of the holdings of the company were invested in the Insull operating companies.

4. They stated that Corporation Securities common stock was a safe and sound investment and the best buy on the market.

5. They promised the dividends on common stock would be paid from earnings and income.

Tells Stock Selling Campaign.

A nation-wide campaign was launched, Mr. Harness said, "to sell common stock of Corporation Securities through Halsey, Stuart & Co., and Utilities Securities company by the use

New Galaxy of Stars Is Found; Outshine Sun

Cleveland, O., Nov. 19.—The discovery of 1,700 new variable stars, each a new "yardstick" for fathoming the depths of space and the bringing up to a total of 125,000 of the census of faint nebulae, were reported here today before the autumn meeting of the National Academy of Sciences by Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard college observatory.

This large group of "supergiant" stars, none shining with a brilliance less than 20,000 times the brightness of our sun and most of them 30,000 times as bright, was discovered in a hazy patch of diffused light in the sky known as 30 Doradus. Their existence was unknown until the hazy patch was photographed in red light.

In an illustrated address before an audience of 2,000 invited guests on "variation and evolution among the stars," Prof. Shapley presented the latest map of the universe, with many previous blank spots filled in with literally thousands of new "island universes," in which our sun and our earth, along with the other planets in our solar system, would be lost like insignificant specks of dust.

Tells of Investigation.

Earlier in the day Dr. Shapley addressed the academy proper on the results of the latest investigation at Harvard on the variable stars, those stellar bodies which by the periodic fluctuation of their light have furnished to man new measuring rods of the universe, at distances hundreds of millions of light years away from our earth.

Seven hundred of the new variable stars, Dr. Shapley reported, have been found within our own galaxy, or the galaxy of the milky way, which in itself contains a hundred billion individual suns. This study of our milky way, Dr. Shapley stated, "contributes slowly to our increasing knowledge of galactic dimentions, as well as to this central problem of the evolution of stars and of the stellar universe."

A thousand additional new variable stars have been found within the past few months in the system known as the small cloud of Magellan, a relatively near galaxy, 90,000 light years away.

Shown on Photographs.

These 1,000 new variable stars, Dr. Shapley stated, were found through an examination of new photographs made at the Bloemfontein station of the Harvard college observatory.

The small Cloud of Magellan, companion of that other system known as the large Cloud of Magellan, also contains 900 other variable stars, which had been observed before. The latest discoveries thus bring the total of variable stars in this system alone to 1,900.

A total of 1,300 such variable stars have also been observed in the large Cloud of Magellan, 600 of which were added only last year. The total new variable stars in the two Clouds of Magellan has thus been brought up to 3,200, more than doubling the number previously known.

GERMANY BANS TIME CLOCK PUNCHING IN FAVOR OF BUGLE CALLS

GOTHA, Germany, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Time clock punching, an institution of the "pernicious capitalistic era" introduced here from the United States, is ended for German factory workers.

Robert Ley, Chancellor Hitler's trade union commissioner, today decreed the time clock's eternal banishment, and inaugurated in its stead a national system of morning bugle rallies for the German laborer.

"The degradation of working men and women to mere file numbers was brought about by Marxism and by capitalism from overseas," said Ley at a rally during a surprise visit. "We are going to put labor on a personal basis in Germany."

Indirectly he referred to the United States as a bad influence for the introduction of this and other "soulless" labor systems.

TWO TRY SUICIDE LEAPS INTO RIVER NEAR EACH OTHER

The almost simultaneous attempts of two persons, a girl and a man, to drown themselves in the Chicago river within three blocks of each other afforded a puzzle early today to the Central police.

The girl was pulled out of the river by John Mayer, 19 years old, 855 Lill avenue, after she had jumped from the Wabash avenue bridge.

At the same time Sergt. John Payton of the detective bureau caught a man as he was climbing over the railing of the Clark street bridge, evidently getting ready to jump.

Neither the man nor the girl would give their names to the police and they would not tell why they tried to drown themselves. They insisted they did not know each other.

A card with the name C. J. Rasmussen was found on the man. He was lodged in the Central station. The woman, who is about 20 years old, was taken to the county hospital.

Doctor Saves Ailing Sailor 625 Mi. Away

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Nov. 19.—(AP)—For three days and nights a physician labored to save the life of a patient he may never see, and neither of them today probably knows even the other's name. It happened in the Caribbean.

The American steamer Algic was steaming toward Barbados, 625 miles southeast, last Thursday. The chief engineer doubled up with abdominal pains. His captain ordered him to bed.

Freighters of 5,496 tons gross register do not carry medical experts aboard, but the captain knew a very sick man when he saw one.

Describes Symptoms.

He sent out a wireless message for advice, and the United States coast guard cutter Unalga, stationed here, responded. The Algic's skipper described his patient's symptoms and the medical officer aboard the coast guard cutter told him what to do.

He ordered ice packs to be prepared and alternated with hot water bottles on the patient's abdomen. Then, as the sick man's condition changed, he ordered stimulants, then opiates, then orange juice with brandy. At times he ordered the patient placed in a half reclining position and at other times he directed him placed flat on his back.

Ship Hurries to Port.

The freighter's captain watched his chief engineer closely and reported, across hundreds of miles of sea, his temperature, pulse, and respiration, together with the relative degrees of pain and ease.

Meanwhile the engine room crew, without its chief, labored to hurry their ship toward port. They made Bridgetown at 2 a. m. yesterday. As the Algic dropped anchor a launch pulled up alongside with doctors. They took the sick man ashore, put him in a waiting ambulance, and hurried him to a hospital cot.

It was declared the actress had not been seen since she left her Beverly Hills home last night to attend dinner at a friend's home. The friend said Miss Brady failed to keep the appointment.

Horner Asks for Renewal of Sales Tax

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Extension of the two per cent Illinois sales tax for an indefinite period was urged by Gov. Horner upon the fourth special session of the 58th general assembly as it convened late today.

The governor believes, he told the legislature, that this levy upon the retailers of the state has successfully passed the experimental stage during its 15 months of operation: "has been found practicable and efficient," and should now become a permanent part of the revenue system.

In his optimism, Mr. Horner hopes that the bill will pass both houses this week and the legislature again be dissolved until its successor meets for the six months' regular session in January. As both houses convened late in the day it could not immediately be ascertained whether sentiment among the members would permit such swift action.

Battle Looms in House.

In the senate Francis J. Loughran [Dem., Chicago] will handle the bill as he did last year when it went upon the statute books. He introduced it and secured its immediate advancement to second reading without much argument.

Sinnett had no trouble in sending it to second reading in his chamber. There was a half-hearted protest from Republicans, but the vote was 45 to 22. A small membership was present, so it was not possible to foresee how formidable this opposition might become.

The house will be the scene of the main battle, if there is one of consequence. There the Democrats number 77, just the necessary majority.

Outside Opposition Undeveloped.

What opposition the bill will have outside the legislature was not clearly shown as the session opened, for representatives of merchants' associations will hold their fire until tomorrow. Some are in Springfield determined to fight it to the end, for they consider it an unfair and additional burden upon the storekeepers.

Since the governor is proud of the fact that the sales tax replaced the state levy on real estate, he is exceedingly anxious that it be extended beyond July 1, 1935, when, according to the present law, it will pass from the statute books.

Governor's Argument.

In part, the governor's message read:

"When a tax upon the occupation of retailing tangible personal property was first proposed in Illinois it was an experiment so far as our state was concerned, and considerable opposition was voiced. However, after more than 15 months of experience with it, it has been found practicable and efficient.

"Of course, payment of taxes in any form, like other duties of citizenship, are necessary and indispensable in exchange for the services that government furnishes to the individual and for the privilege of living in an orderly civilization. No tax of itself is popular; it can only be said to be popular in the sense that it is preferred over other taxes. In this sense, the retailers' occupation tax has met with favor in Illinois. Property owners have welcomed this step for their relief which has eliminated the state tax from their tax bills."

$14,000,000 IS ASKED OF 4,000 STOCKHOLDERS

$60,476,000 Overdue, Court Is Told.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation yesterday filed suit against Gen. Charles G. Dawes and the other 4,000 stockholders of the Central Republic Trust company for $14,000,000.

The suit, brought in the United States District court here, disclosed that $60,476,437 remains unpaid on the famous "Dawes loans," totaling $80,000,000 made in 1932 by the RFC to the old Central Republic Bank and Trust company, the Dawes bank. The loans were arranged shortly after Gen. Dawes retired from the chairmanship of the RFC.

The action is for the purpose of collecting from the stockholders on their double liability under the banking laws for a part of the unpaid balance of the debt to the RFC. The bank is nominal defendant in the action.

Shortly after the bill was filed Federal Judge John P. Barnes issued a temporary order enjoining any other creditor from filing a similar bill in court to collect from stockholders pending further action of the federal court in the bill filed by the RFC.

Expect Auditor to Act.

The bill states that State Auditor E. J. Barrett has had an examination made of the assets of the bank and the complainants are informed that he is about to take it over, for liquidation under the state law. The defendant bank is a state institution.

According to the bill, the bank still owes the RFC $7,722,268 on a loan dated June 29, 1932, and $52,754,169 on a second loan on Oct. 6, 1932. The original amount borrowed on the first loan, it states, was 30 millions and on the second loan 50 millions. Gen. Dawes resigned as head of the RFC on June 15, 1932.

The Central Republic Trust company is the shell of the old Central Republic Bank and Trust company. It has not been functioning as a bank of deposit since Oct. 6, 1932, but has been in gradual process of liquidation. The debt to the RFC is the principal liability of this bank. Other debts have been largely paid off.

Hold $14,000,000 Stock.

The suit affects 4,000 individuals who hold a total of $14,000,000 worth of stock, but it in no way affects the City National Bank and Trust company, which took over the deposits of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company two years ago. The City National, of which Gen. Dawes is now chairman, is a highly liquid institution, having taken over from the old Central Republic cash equal to its deposits at the time it was organized.

The bill asks that the federal court determine whether recovery can be made of $14,000,000, the amount of the defendant bank's capital stock, from the stockholders under the double liability law and, if the court finds that such recovery can be made, that a receiver be appointed to collect the money for the RFC and for other creditors of the bank. Each stockholder would be liable for $100 for each share of stock he or she held.

RFC Has the Whip Hand.

The bill sets forth that the RFC loan to the Central Republic has been in technical default since Dec. 24, 1932. When the credit was made it was purposely made for short terms, the idea being that it would be extended from time to time as it came due. By declining to renew the loans the RFC held the whip hand over the institution, being in a position of being able to crack down and call for a receivership at any time.

Gen. Dawes, a former Vice President of the United States and former ambassador to the Court of St James, had no official connection with the Central Republic Bank and Trust company and its predecessor, the Central Trust Company of Illinois, during his absence from Chicago in these positions

Gen. Dawes yesterday arrived in Hot Springs, Ark., to join a party of notables being entertained by H. C. Couch, who is a former director of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, holding that office in the time the "Dawes loan" was made.

Owen D. Young Is Guest.

Owen D. Young, chairman of General Electric company and prominent Democrat, is another guest at this gathering. Dawes and Young were met at the train by Senator Joe Robinson and Rudolf S. Hecht, head of the Hibernia bank in New Orleans and

The suit lists members of the Dawes family as holding 10,438 of the bank's 140,000 shares of capital stock with a par value of $100 a share. Although Gen. Dawes is listed as having only 52 shares, the family corporation, Dawes Brothers, Inc., 208 South La Salle street, is down for 9,786 shares.

Another large block is held by the Greenebaum family, whose bank was merged with the Dawes bank. The family's holding is listed as 5,586 shares, with the largest individual holders named as James E. Greenebaum, of Highland Park, 1,277 shares; Mrs. Julia F. Greenebaum, 667; M. E. Greenebaum, 1,650, and M. E. Greenebaum and Julia Greenebaum, jointly, 267.

William C. Freeman, vice president of the Central Republic Trust company, who has been in active charge of the bank since the resignation of Joseph E. Otis Sr. several months ago, said last night that the bank had not been notified in advance of the action of the RFC officials in filing the suit.

"The bill," he said, "asks for a receiver to handle the money that may be collected from the stockholders, but it does not necessarily mean a receivership for the bank. Appointment of a receiver for the bank would be up to State Auditor Barrett.

Now Under RFC Supervision.

"We hope that the present management will be allowed to continue. The Reconstruction Finance corporation is actually in charge and the liquidation is being carried on under RFC supervision. There is no business reason whatever for a receivership for the trust company."

State Auditor Barrett could not be reached last night for comment on the RFC statement that a state receivership of the bank is imminent. Attachés of his office said, however, that such an action had been under consideration. William L. O'Connell, in charge of all state bank receiverships, is in Washington.

The RFC sent two attorneys from the capital to help in bringing the suit against the stockholders here. They are Stanley Reed and Harold Rosenwald.

In an interview on Aug. 13 Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the RFC hinted that some action might be taken to apply pressure to the stockholders. At that time, however, Mr. Jones said that the corporation did not expect to take much, if any, loss on the Dawes loan, but that it might take five or ten years to liquidate the collateral securing it, much of which is real estate.

History of the Loans.

The RFC loans to the Dawes bank were made during the financial crisis two years ago. Coming to Chicago after retiring as RFC chairman, Gen. Dawes found that the Central Republic, because of prolonged bank runs, needed cash. Declining to take only a small loan to meet the emergency he insisted that it be "all or nothing." He was prepared to close the bank if the RFC was unwilling to lend enough to pay off the depositors in full. Other banks, fearful of what might happen to them interceded for him, and a loan was arranged.

History of the Loans.

The RFC loans to the Dawes bank came in June of 1932, after Chicago and New York bankers had held a series of meetings in an effort to determine how to save the institution, weakened by prolonged bank runs. It was generally believed that the collapse of the Central Republic would be followed by the closing of most of the banks in the middle west and that it might have effects over the whole country.

Gen. Dawes, who only a fortnight before had resigned from the chairmanship of the RFC, and who had come out to Chicago to try to save his bank, refused to consider loans amounting to approximately to $15,000,000 from the New York and Chicago banks or a small loan from the RFC. He insisted on "all or nothing."

An all night meeting preceded the granting of the loans by the RFC. A telephone wire to Washington was kept open while the matter was discussed. The RFC was reluctant to make the loans, but it finally agreed when the other banks, fearful of what might happen to them, interceded for Dawes.

It was later disclosed that one of the most powerful factors in the matter was President Hoover. His secretary, Theodore G. Joslin, revealed in a magazine article that the President had worked over an entire week-end on the situation because he believed that 20,000,000 depositors in the United States would have been directly affected by the Dawes bank's failure. Mr. Hoover, in campaign speeches later in 1928, defended the loans.

$10,000,000 of Loan Not Taken.

The loans were originally for a total of $90,000,000. All but $10,000,000 of this credit was taken.

Cancellation in 1932 of the $700,000 per year lease of the Central Republic Trust company—the Dawes bank—by the 208 South La Salle Street Building corporation was the basis of one of the objections filed yesterday in the federal court to the findings of a referee in bankruptcy with reference to a petition for a reorganization of the building corporation.

Attorney Harry A. Ash, in behalf of himself and other petitioning creditors, said the cancellation of the lease of the Dawes bank, which was to run thirty years, was a voluntary action, and he insisted the bondholders should not be penalized because of it. Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan is to hear his objections today.

HOLD UP BANK MESSENGER.

Three robbers yesterday held up Stanley Godzich Jr., 5681 Higgins avenue, a messenger for the National Security bank, 767 Milwaukee avenue, as he came out of the rectory of St. Stephen's Catholic church, 923 West Ohio street. They took $330 and $65 in checks.

ROOSEVELT PUTS OCEAN HERO ON SAFETY WATCH

Capt. George Fried Heads Ship Inspectors.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—In his small white cottage nestled in a clump of Georgia pines, President Roosevelt today settled down to the simple life of a southern country squire.

The President rose late after his three day inspection tour of the Tennessee valley. After breakfast he drove about alone in his manually operated car paying calls to old friends and for his first look at the new unit of the main hall of the Foundation he established for treatment for paralytics.

Takes Plunge in Pool.

In the afternoon he took a plunge in the patients' pool. As he tossed about a large water ball with fellow bathers his laugh rang out over the pool.

His only official business of the day was to wade through four days' mail and appoint Capt. George Fried, sea hero, supervising inspector of the bureau of navigation and steamboat inspection. The post had been vacant.

Capt. Fried, who will have charge of all merchant marine inspection from headquarters in New York, has saved the crews of three vessels at sea. His most notable exploit as commander of the Manhattan of the United States Lines, was to stand by for thirty hours in a storm tossed sea to rescue the crew of the British ship Antinoe.

To Meet 5 Governors.

Tomorrow evening the President will receive the governors of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Florida to confer on problems of the southeast. This is his sole appointment for the day.

Next week Senators Joseph T. Robertson, of Arkansas, senate leader, and Pat Harrison of Mississippi, chairman of the senate finance committee, will arrive here for a conference on the administration's program for the next congress.

The President hopes to have that program completed before his return to Washington on Dec. 4. The two senators will aid in putting into shape the budget, a compromise soldiers' bonus plan, ratification of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway treaty, unemployment insurance and revision of the NRA.

CHURCH GROUP'S REPORT ASSAILS FOOD DESTROYING

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 19.—(AP)—The board of home missions of the Methodist Episcopal church today received and referred to a committee a report of its executive secretary condemning government destruction of foodstuffs and asked for "a genuine solution of fundamental economic and social problems."

The report of the Rev. Dr. E. D. Kohlstadt, executive secretary, said, in part:

"Curtailment of production and destruction of foodstuffs and supplies for want of which thousands of people are actually suffering; the slaughter of scores of cattle while hungry humans looked on with consternation; the shipment of fish from Wisconsin to Gloucester, Mass., for welfare distribution, are tragic illustrations of faulty methods and indicative of procedure that cannot be countenanced by Christianity."

Fear Fog Will Prevent King Opening Parliament

LONDON, Nov. 19.—(AP)—A busy parliament will begin its sessions tomorrow, but there was a question—because of a dense fog pall—whether the king's physicians would allow him to risk exposure to the raw atmosphere to open it. The state opening includes the king's drive from the palace to parliament with processional pageantry. In the event of cancelation, parliament will be opened by the royal commission headed by the lord chancellor.

Raymond Moley Reported Again Advising Roosevelt

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Raymond Moley was reported today in high quarters to have returned to the right hand of President Roosevelt.

The one time "brain truster No. 1," whose star in the Washington government ascended speedily and with a scintillating brilliancy, only to fall and lose color a year ago, has returned in recent months to become the right bower among the chief executive's advisers on things politic and economic.

Inner administration circles are giving the former undersecretary of state much credit for originating the idea of the recent truce, struck by "big business" and the "New Deal" as a united move for recovery.

Proposed Coöperation Plan.

Those close to the situation assert that he first sold to the President the idea that the New Deal must have the coöperation of business in order to accomplish the goal of his administration. Then, they say, he sold the idea to business groups that unless they worked hand in hand with the New Deal there was little hope of improving economic conditions and increasing employment.

Further, they contend that Moley, writing in his magazine "Today," opposed the gubernatorial candidacy of Upton Sinclair, former Socialist running under the Democratic label in California, and that the administration thereafter quickly turned a cold shoulder to Sinclair and his "end poverty" program.

Visits Made Unobtrusively.

Moley now slips quietly into Washington from New York from one to two times a week to confer with the President at the White House in unannounced evening sessions. Frequently he is a dinner guest, but little is known publicly about his movements and the many leaders in official life he contacts during his visits.

In recent months Moley has done much of the research work in preparing material for Mr. Roosevelt's radio fireside chats and other speeches. His intimates say that he actually has made the first drafts of speeches along lines suggested by the President and that they go over some of the speeches together after Mr. Roosevelt has revised and put them in his own language.

The obscurity in which Moley works is said by his friends to be pleasing to him in that it gives him an opportunity to accomplish many things without appearing in the public picture.

AAA TO BEGIN ITS 2D CORN-HOG PAYMENT SOON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—The Agricultural Adjustment administration announced today that distribution of the second instalment of corn and hog contract checks, totaling 92 million dollars, would begin within the next few days. Payments on the first instalment, to reach 137 millions, now stand at 129 million dollars, officials announced.

The second instalment checks will go out as rapidly as compliance certificates come in from the 1,150,000 participating farmers. Illinois' share of the 92 millions is estimated at $16,417,579, Iowa's at $30,930,530, Indiana's at $10,316,729, Wisconsin's at $3,343,333, and Michigan's at $1,344,436.

Turn to Permanent Plan.

With the corn-hog reduction program for 1935 already announced, as well as the terms of the wheat program and the intention of continuing the cotton acreage reduction, AAA officials today turned their attention to permanent regimentation in addresses before the Association of Land Grant Colleges.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace told the college representatives that only "a most astounding" increase in imports would make permissible a restoration of normal agriculture production. Unless and until the nation decides to buy more abroad, he said, "we must continue with some modification of the agricultural plan just about as we have in the past year."

Secretary Wallace said he could well sympathize with farmers who desire to return to normal production, but if this was to be their final decision they would have to make effective presentations at tarif hearings. Their refrain must be, Wallace said: "We want more imports, we want more imports."

Predicts O. K. from Illinois.

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Illinois farmers will approve practically all the changes in the 1935 AAA corn-hog contract, it is predicted by officials of the University of Illinois college of agriculture.

As one of the leading corn-hog states, Illinois had approximately 124,000 contracts in the 1934 program. Between 19 and 21 million dollars in estimated benefit payments will come to Illinois farmers if they participate in the new program approximately as they did in that for 1934, it was estimated.

TWO FLEE PRISON HOSPITAL.

Springfield, Mo., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Louis Robinson, 35, and Samuel Huggins, 34, escaped from the federal prison hospital here today. They drove off in a prison truck which Huggins, a trusty, had been using to haul trash.

PUSH GRADE CROSSING ELIMINATION WORKS AS PROJECT OF PWA

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)—A grade crossing elimination plan costing many millions of dollars and capable of putting thousands of men to work today took more definite form as part of the new public works program.

How much money will be turned into the work of building bridges and underpasses remains to be determined. It has been estimated that elimination of all crossings would cost, at a minimum, several billion dollars.

The bureau of public roads was disclosed today to have supplied the Public Works administration with a list of hundreds of projects which could be started almost immediately. These would cost upward of 250 million dollars.

Secretary Ickes already has indorsed grade crossing elimination as one phase of the new public works program. Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of transportation, is heartily back of such a plan.

The argument has been presented that the cost is one that belongs to the federal and state governments rather than to the railroads, and efforts have been made to have this theory accepted as a matter of policy.

Eastman has supplied Ickes new data on engineering studies, indicating that approximately 35 per cent of the cost of grade crossing projects would go for labor and much of the remainder for materials.

MEDICAL LEADER CONFERS HERE ON SOCIALIZED PLAN

Dr. Bierring Back from New Deal Parley.

Dr. Walter Bierring of Des Moines, Ia., president of the American Medical association, which is opposed to the national administration's proposal for socialized medicine, was not free to discuss that subject when he arrived in Chicago yesterday. He had been attending a three day conference in Washington last week relative to the socialization proposal and government officials asked that secrecy be maintained for a short time, he said.

Dr. Bierring consulted here with Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical association, who intends to write an article for the next issue concerning the government hopes of "social" medicine. Dr. Bierring is to return from Iowa, where he is state health officer, for a meeting tomorrow night when he will speak before the Chicago Medical society on "Plans for Economic Security."

All Foes of Socialization.

Dr. Fishbein said Dr. Bierring and the heads of other affiliated medical groups, such as the American College of Physicians, the American College of Surgeons, and the American Public Health association, are opponents of social medicine, but this did not affect their appointment to the technical staf of the committee on economic security appointed by President Roosevelt. This special committee was named to consider unemployment insurance, nursing, hospitalization, old age pensions, and socialization of medicine. The technical staf consists of 11 physicians, including Dr. Bierring.

Last week Secretary of Labor Perkins announced in Washington that the New Deal social reform program would be adopted in congress this winter, according to reports received by Dr. Fishbein, but Dr. Bierring said the technical staf of the committee expects the President to be guided by its report.

Two Chicagoans Added to Group.

It was decided in Washington to give the committee more time for study of the subject and to add two physicians to the staf. Those selected are Drs. R. G. Leland and A. M. Simonds, both of Chicago. Dr. Leland is director of the bureau of medical economics of the American Medical association in the Chicago headquarters, and Dr. Simonds is assistant director.

The Medical association, through its house of delegates, selected from each state, reaffirmed its opposition to socialized medicine last June. Dr. Fishbein said. It was his opinion that while the other social security plans will be passed that there will be some hesitancy on the part of the administration to legislate for the socialization of medical practice if an adverse report is made by the technical staf.

The staf is to reassemble in Washington within a short time, at the call of the committee.

Boy Dies of Meningitis; Slight Injury Is Blamed

Meningitis that is believed to have developed from a slight cut received on a school playground several days ago caused the death in the West Suburban hospital yesterday of Norbert Stengler, 10 year old son of George Stengler, 4107 West 26th street, owner of the Crawford Coal and Feed company. Physicians said the disease is not of the epidemic variety.

ASKS $12,000,000 U. S. FUNDS FOR RELIEF IN STATE

Commission Computes December Needs.

December relief needs for this state were fixed at $13,475,897, another high record, as the Illinois emergency relief commission last night dispatched a request to Washington for $12,061,388 to help meet the requirements. The total is $1,109,190 more than the estimated expenditures in November, for which month the Federal Emergency Relief administration cut $1,049,015 from its allotment.

Ninety-seven per cent of the December relief funds will be federal money, since an estimated $1,064,509 which will be held over from this month came from the same source, making a total of $13,125,897.

Farm Projects Given Up.

The funds held over were intended to carry out several experimental relief projects in November, chief among them the plan to transplant destitute Illinois farmers to fertile lands. These projects must now be sidetracked to meet the urgencies of ordinary relief.

Only $250,000 in state funds, and $100,000 in local public funds, will be available as Illinois' contribution toward financing next month's needs, it is estimated.

Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the relief commission, said it would be a week before the amount of the government's grant is learned.

The 25 per cent reduction in the Cook county administrative staf, announced effective Dec. 1, hardly makes a dent in the staggering total required. Mr. Reynolds said yesterday the saving would be about $112,000.

No Work Relief Extensions.

In its efforts to hold down December requirements, the commission ruled that there should be no increase in the work relief program which by the end of this month is expected to employ 110,000 "clients." The commission had planned to have 150,000 members of relief families on this more expensive form of dole by this time.

Mr. Reynolds declared that the increase in expenditures over this month's will be mainly due to an expected addition of 16,000 families to the case rolls, which thus will reach 310,000, and to larger allowances for fuel and clothing because of colder weather.

EXTENDING SALES TAX IS OPPOSED BY FARM GROUP

Asserting that there are serious inequalities in the sales tax, the board of directors of the Illinois Agricultural association yesterday issued a statement opposing the extension of the present sales tax act beyond Dec. 31, 1935.

The board's statement pointed out that the tax was imposed upon only one class of occupations, retailers, and that it bears most heavily on persons of low income since they spend a much larger proportion of their earnings for taxable commodities.

The board urged that legislation be enacted to correct the inequalities and to insure that proceeds of the sales and liquor taxes will be used dollar for dollar to provide further reductions in property taxes.

JAPANESE LINK MURDER MYSTERY TO RED SPY PLOT

Hunt Missing Drawings of Slain Inventor.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HARBIN, Manchukuo, Nov. 19.—Japanese secret service agents and police are striving to solve a baffling mystery of murder and love bound up with hints of theft and soviet Russia espionage. The tragic intrigue came to light here last month when a German engineer, Hermann Strasburg, graduate of a German university, and his young wife were brutally murdered in the chemical works which Strasburg owned. A young employé named Ivanooshko confessed he had killed the couple.

"Discovers" Own Crime.

Ivanooshko crept into the plant on a dark night and attacked Strasburg and his wife with a heavy motor key. Next morning he was the first to arrive at the works, "discovered" the crime and summoned the police. His efforts to conceal his crime might have been successful except for a condition he had not anticipated. As he and the police looked at Mrs. Strasburg, whose skull had been crushed and her throat cut, she gave signs of still being alive.

Appalled, Ivanooshko fled. This aroused suspicion and he was captured. The youth then confessed the murders only to learn that Mrs. Strasburg died without being able to name him as the killer.

According to the young man's story, the murders appeared to have their beginning in a love triangle. Mrs. Strasburg fell in love with Ivanooshko, it was indicated. He tried to break off the affair six months later when he became infatuated with an attractive girl named Vishnevskaia. Enraged, Mrs. Strasburg told her husband of her secret love affair. He began to watch Ivanooshko closely and finally had him discharged.

Youth Sought Revenge.

Fearing that Vishnevskaia would abandon him because he had lost his job, Ivanooshko, it appeared, sought revenge.

This explanation seemed adequate until authorities uncovered a copy of a letter addressed by Strasburg to the local soviet consul. In the letter the engineer said he had invented an autogiro of new design which could remain in the air immobile and rise from the ground without a run. Strasburg requested that a specialist be sent from Moscow to investigate his drawings. The letter also reminded the consul of inventions made by Strasburg in Moscow.

Officials searched in vain for the drawings. A theory of possible espionage was advanced. Authorities began to investigate the possibility that Ivanooshko was a spy for soviet Russia and had invented the story of the love affair to hide his actual objective.

Probe Spy Theory.

Authorities also are investigating as to whether the confessed murderer had been used as a tool by an agent of the GPU (Russian secret police) to get possession of Strasburg's documents. Police, too, are pondering the theory that the inventor had purposely been murdered on orders of the Cheka to get the drawings before he sold them to some other government.

It also has been hinted that secret agents for Russia might have stolen the papers after the crime took place.

ALLMAN ORDERS CHILDREN KEPT OUT OF SALOONS

A police drive on saloon keepers who have been allowing children to enter their places of business was ordered yesterday by Police Commissioner John Allman because of a complaint by the Juvenile Protective association.

The order, given to district captains by telephone, stated there had been numerous complaints that children had been allowed in saloons, either as purchasers of candy, sandwiches and other things sold by the owners, or as entertainers.

The captains were ordered to tell their patrolmen to take "drastic action" if the admonition was not obeyed.

First Suit Under Illinois Tyranny Law Is Approved

Attorney General Otto Kerner has approved a suit for payment of back wages in the amount provided in the photo engraving code against the Northwestern Photo Engraving company, 720 South Dearborn street, F. L. Roberts, acting NRA compliance director for Illinois, said yesterday. The suit for $273.70 is the first of its kind under the state NRA [tyranny] law. An official of the firm said the employé was paid the code rate for a photo engraving apprentice with three years' experience, but claimed five years' experience.

KOHLER DEMANDS COUNTY PAY FOR RIOT DAMAGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sheboygan, Wis., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—The bills for the riots in Kohler village in July during the Kohler company strike were presented to the Sheboygan county board today.

The Kohler company presented a claim for $6,481.71 for damage to its property since the strike began July 16. The Sheboygan clinic and two hospitals presented bills for services July 27 when two men were killed and many wounded in riots. The hospital bills were: Sheboygan clinic, $379.50; St. Nicholas hospital, $279.77, and the Sheboygan Memorial hospital, $226.20.

Company Itemizes Bill.

In its itemized claim the company listed damage to windows, goods, and other property as well as demurrage charges against the company on a number of carloads of material held up for several days during the strike.

In an accompanying communication, the company said forceful picketing started on July 16 and that pickets were armed with clubs, slingshots, and various other weapons. The regular Kohler police force of one night man and one day officer was reinforced by the sheriff and ten or a dozen of his deputies, the communications said, but "these officers obviously were unable to maintain order."

Quotes Letter to Sheriff.

It quoted a letter to the sheriff from O. A. Kroos, secretary of the company, warning that in event of damage a claim would be filed against the county.

It continued further to state that "with the mob in command of the village, committing nuisances where and as they pleased, and terrifying women and children with loud shouting and foul language through the night," the situation continued for two weeks, entirely beyond the control of the sheriff and village police.

Sues Frederick H. Irwin, Winnetkan, for Divorce

Frederick H. Irwin, 554 Orchard lane, Winnetka, was sued for divorce in the Superior court yesterday by his wife, Helen, who charged that he struck her twice this month. She asks that she be awarded the Winnetka home, the family automobile, Irwin's insurance policies, and alimony from his $400 monthly salary as an employé of the Kraft-Phoenix Cheese company. They were married in New York Oct. 9, 1919, and separated last Sunday.

Sues Bus Line for Death of Woman Hit by Rioter

Suit for $10,000 damages against the Chicago Motor Coach company was filed yesterday in Circuit court by Public Administrator Halbert O. Crews in behalf of the estate of Mrs. Mary Julia Kennard, 60 years old, of the Hyde Park hotel. Mrs. Kennard died Sept. 26 a few hours after she had been struck by a metal ball hurled through a window of a bus on which she was a passenger.

AUSTIN HIGH ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT'S CHESS CLASS STARTS TODAY

Higher education today turns to chess, a venerable Persian game which has kept philosophers and kings pulling their beards through many centuries and which the Austin High school department of physical education believes is just the thing to establish sound minds in strong bodies.

The first high school class in chess opens at Austin this afternoon and Miss Louise A. Roberts, mathematics instructor sponsoring the venture, has convinced the department of physical education that properly pushing about kings and knights and bishops provides enough mental gymnastics to qualify the game as a division of athletics. Austin may even award letters to chess players, she said. Players are to derive only mental exhilaration, not academic credit.

The class is expected to enroll twenty students today, and to increase when the chess team aspirants wrinkle brows in their first strenuous workouts.

William J. Rolfe will teach the Austin chess class, which is to meet once a week. Mr. Rolfe is a member of the Metropolitan Chess club, the Illinois Chess association, the Correspondent Chess League of America, and the American Chess Federation.

WOMAN, 65, DIES IN 18 STORY LEAP ON MICHIGAN AVE.

Mrs. Theresa Naughton Ryan, 65 years old, wife of Thomas J. Ryan, 144 North Pine avenue, a retired police sergeant, leaped to her death yesterday into Michigan avenue from the 18th floor of the Stevens hotel. Mrs. Ryan had registered at the Stevens hotel as Mrs. M. Brown of Joliet.

A daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mary Ryan, 124 North Parkside avenue, told Deputy Coroner John J. Butler that Mrs. Ryan was suffering from a nervous breakdown induced by worry. She and her husband, who is 70 years old and retired ten years ago, were able to live comfortably on his pension, the daughter-in-law said, but Mrs. Ryan was concerned over the welfare of her children and grandchildren. There are four sons, Vincent, a mining engineer; Ambrose, Kevin, a west park policeman, and John, a student at Chicago Normal college, and a daughter, Mrs. Eileen Cusack, a school teacher.

The falling body narrowly missed several pedestrians. An inquest will be held today.

43 County Schools Seek Funds from Relief Board

Otto F. Aken, Cook county superintendent of schools, said yesterday that he will petition the Illinois Emergency Relief commission for a grant of $150,000 to enable 43 financially distressed rural and village school districts to carry on their classes to the end of the present term. The petition will be given to W. S. Reynolds, relief commission director.

GUARD DAUGHTER OF OHIO'S NEXT CHIEF EXECUTIVE

Wellesley Girl Threatened by Kidnapers.

Kent, O., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—A threat to kidnap pretty Evangeline Davey, 23, a graduate of Wellesley college, in order to force her father, Governor Elect Martin L. Davey, to make certain appointments when he takes office, was disclosed today by members of her family and state officials.

The girl has been closely guarded ever since the underworld threat was made last Thursday. Three highway patrolmen escorted her to Columbus Saturday to attend the Ohio State-Michigan football game and a Columbus detective remained by her side during the game.

Father Learns of Threat.

Word of the threat reached her father and Francis Poulson, chairman of the Ohio Democratic executive committee, last Thursday, the latter revealed. He said the message came from a friend in Cincinnati who learned of it through underworld connections.

The "friend," whose identity Poulson refused to divulge, told the governor elect that certain underworld characters planned to kidnap Evangeline in order to force him to make certain appointments he would not ordinarily make.

Poulson surmised the appointments had to do with law enforcement. Both Mrs. Davey and Miss Davey disclaimed any fear, while the governor elect attributed the threats to a man regarded as a "loose talker."

Evangeline, who was a member of the 1933 graduating class of Wellesley, is Mr. and Mrs. Davey's only daughter. They have a son, Martin Jr., 16.

Held for Willard Threat.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—United States Commissioner Louis J. Burger today refused to accept a plea of guilty offered by Walter E. Henry, 52 year old former master machinist, who is held on charges of violating the Lindbergh law for allegedly making an extortion threat against Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. Henry was a Bendt employé.

Henry appeared in the courtroom without friends or counsel. The commissioner noted a "not guilty" plea in the case and set bail at $7,000. He scheduled the hearing for Nov. 27. He is accused of sending death threats to President Willard, George M. Schriver, senior vice president in charge of accounting; Charles W. Galloway, vice president in charge of operation, and George Emerson, superintendent of motive power. The letter said they must put 1,500 men to work at the road's Mount Clair shops.

Two members of the Chicago Bears professional football team, who arrived in town from New York last night, must appear at the next session, Dec. 6, of the inquest into the death of Mrs. Nell Walker Ablin, who plunged eight stories to her death from the Commonwealth hotel, 2757 Pine Grove avenue.

Their appearance was ordered yesterday by First Deputy Coroner Victor Schlaeger, after preliminary testimony concerning the death leap had been given by Mrs. Ablin's estranged husband, Irving, and three young women who were present at the drinking party Sunday which preceded the tragedy.

The football players are Bernie Masterson, quarter back and former University of Nebraska player, and Beattie Feathers, star half back.

Masterson, it was testified before Deputy Coroner Louis J. Nadherny who opened the inquest at the undertaking parlors at 2701 North Clark street, had been keeping company with Mrs. Ablin, and received a congratulatory wire from her after the Bears beat the New York Giants, 10 to 9. Feathers, at the same time, received a similar wire from Miss Lucile [Bunny] Moyse, who had been in Mrs. Ablin's room, listening to radio reports of the game.

In the meantime, a chemical analysis is being made of the girl's vital organs.

Sally Rand's Conviction for Indecency Reversed

Holding that Sally Rand's conviction on a charge of staging an indecent performance in the Chicago theater last year was "unsupported by the facts," the Appellate court reversed the finding yesterday. The fan dancer was found guilty in September, 1933, and was sentenced by Judge Joseph H. McGarry to serve one year in the Bridewell and pay a $200 fine. Two months later the jail term was cut to ten days and the fine was allowed to stand.

CITY COUNCIL GROUP ADVISES 3 FEEDER BUS LINES FOR 'L'

Feeder bus service to connect with three north and northwest elevated branches was recommended yesterday by a subcommittee of the city council local transportation committee.

A main feeder line, asked in petitions of residents and property owners filed with the Illinois Commerce commission, was approved, according to Ald. George A. Williston [49th]. This would start at Wilson avenue and the lake and would run thence west to Racine avenue, north to Leland avenue, west to Ashland avenue, north to Foster avenue, west to Kimball avenue, south to Wrightwood avenue, and east to the Logan Square terminal. It would link the Northwestern, Ravenswood and Logan Square elevated branches.

On its own initiative the subcommittee recommended two branch feeder services. One would operate in Foster avenue between Milwaukee and Kimball avenues, and the other would run in Foster avenue between Ashland avenue and the Edgewater Beach-Berwyn avenue elevated station.

HIDE 4 NEGROES AFTER KILLING OF WHITE CHILDREN

Roanoke Police Foil Lynching Threats.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 20 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Sherif T. Wilson Seay of Henrico county said early today that Philip Jones, 25 year old Negro murder suspect, had made a new confession of the murder of Alice and Ellen Hill of Clifton Forge, in which he absolved the three other Negroes held.

Jones denied, the sherif said, that he had raped either of the girls.

The coroner who examined the girls after their bodies were found in a rain-washed gulley near Jones' home said the older girl, Alice, 13, had been raped.

House Reported Burned.

The four Negroes—Jones' wife, Chester Smith, John Pryor, and Jones—were brought here late last night after they had been spirited away from Clifton Forge and Roanoke by police.

In Clifton Forge Jones' house had been burned, reputedly by a mob, which later was said to have congregated in streets of Clifton Forge and voiced threats of violence against the suspects.

On their arrival in Richmond, the Negroes were subjected to another cross-examination by Henrico officers. It was during this questioning that Jones' new confession was made, the sherif said.

Declares Devil Got Into Him.

In his confession Jones was quoted as saying "the devil got into me." He said that he hid behind a bush near his farm and when the two little girls passed by him he leaped out at them, shouting "Boo." He said they both stopped and told him they would tell their father.

Jones said he realized that if his action was reported he would be in danger. He said he took a piece of rope and tied them together. He said he struck the older girl on the head with his gun and as she slumped to the ground he struck the other child. As they lay on the ground he beat them again, the confession continued.

Jones absolved Smith, one of the other Negroes held. Smith, the officers said, is a former medical student at Fisk [Negro] university, Nashville, Tenn.

As both children lay on the ground, Jones said, he picked up his shotgun with which he had beaten them to death, intending to hide it in the woods. The gun, the stock of which was broken, went off as he picked it up, wounding him in the leg.

Sherif Eludes Tennessee Mob.

Shelbyville, Tenn., Nov. 19.—(AP)—A crowd of several hundred persons, enraged over the alleged rape of a white girl by a Negro and threatening for a time to follow officers who had rushed the Negro out of town, dispersed late tonight. Sherif T. E. Gant said the excitement had quieted and the citizens had gone to their homes.

The 14 year old victim of the attack, under care of a physician at her farm home, was reported suffering from bruises and lacerations.

E. K. Harris, Negro, was arrested tonight by Shelbyville police. As angry citizens gathered about the city hall Harris was sent to Murfreesboro in an auto and turned over to Rutherford county officers, who took him to Nashville.

Sherif W. F. McCrary of Rutherford county said Harris had confessed he attempted to rape the girl, but when she resisted and began to scream he released her.

STATE'S EXPERT AIDS UNIVERSAL TRANSFER MOVE

Commerce Group Offers "L"-Street Car Data.

The Illinois commerce commission introduced evidence gathered by its own experts to show the benefits that would result from issuing transfers between street cars and elevated lines, in a hearing yesterday before Robert H. Farrell, an assistant commissioner.

Charles E. De Leuw, a consulting engineer for the commission, was its witness. Mr. De Leuw formerly made traction and subway surveys for the city. He testified that the universal transfer system would be of great assistance to the public and would result in financial benefits to the Chicago Surface Lines and the Chicago Rapid Transit company.

Last May, it became known that the commerce commission was amassing data to support Chicago's case on the city's petition for an order requiring universal transfers.

Declares Expenditures Lag.

The commission officially entered the controversy yesterday and subjected Mr. De Leuw to examination by Lee A. Freedman, its assistant counsel. The witness testified that the Chicago transportation companies had lagged in expenditures for improving their facilities in comparison with similar enterprises in other cities and with motor highway development here.

For example, he asserted, in the last twenty years the surface and elevated lines have spent only $39,000,000 for extensions and improvements in Chicago, whereas in the same period $500,000,000 was spent in New York City for such purposes. In Philadelphia, a city of half Chicago's size, $150,000,000 was spent for transit improvements, he said, in the last ten years.

And in Chicago, $400,000,000 has been spent for the improvements of streets, boulevards and highways to expedite motor trafic, Mr. De Leuw declared. He asserted that this fact alone has served to take from the "L" and street cars much patronage that now travels by automobile.

Cites 350 Neighborhoods.

The engineer offered studies to show that whereas 22 per cent of the city's area now enjoys rapid transit service which is faster than the surface lines, 83 per cent of the city area would profit from the faster travel of a combined service.

Also introduced was a tabulation showing that of 350 representative points about the city, forty-three were those from which riders could get to the loop faster by street cars alone and 307 faster with a combined service of street cars and elevated trains.

At the conclusion of the expert's testimony Harry P. Weber, counsel for the Surface Lines company, moved for a delay of two weeks. When Commissioner Farrell overruled the motion and set the next hearing for Nov. 27, Mr. Weber accused Farrell of discrimination in favor of the city.

MODERATOR SEES IRRELIGION BRING COUNTER REVOLT

Dr. Stocking Puts Hope in Youth.

Hope for the church of tomorrow lies in the dissatisfaction of youth with the irreligion of today, the Rev. Dr. Jay T. Stocking of St. Louis, moderator of the general council of the Congregational and Christian churches of the United States, said last night in an address at the Chicago Woman's club.

Dr. Stocking called the religious situation of today "cloudy and beset with evils," but he saw a bright future if the religious passion underlying the reforms of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries could be revived.

Search for "Something Else."

"Young men and women are coming to me in increasing numbers telling me they can not find satisfaction in these substitutes which have been offered for religion and asking me if there is something else," he said. "In their search for that 'something else' I find the spring of religion.

"We no longer have to prophesy as to what the fruits of disbelief will be, for we can see what they are," he continued. "It has filled our literature with cynicism, our public life with paganism, and the hearts of men with futility."

Revolt Against Irreligion.

Dr. Stocking concluded his address by pointing to the revolt against irreligion manifested in the work of two young poets, Richard Aldington and Paul Engel.

"So you see," he said, "it is impossible to doubt that a revolt against religion such as we have been experiencing will not be followed by a counter-revolt against irreligion."

WOMAN EMPLOYE DENIES AIDING IN ALLIANCE HOLDUP

Miss Veronica Swigon, 22 years old, 2037 Webster avenue, a stenographer, last night vigorously denied the incriminating story told earlier in the day to Assistant State's Attorney Richard Regan by John Siregelas, who is under sentence of one year to life in the penitentiary for robbery on Oct. 5 of the Polish National Alliance, 1406 West Division street. Miss Swigon was held overnight at the Racine avenue station.

Siregelas sent for Prosecutor Regan, who convicted him, and said that the details of the operation of the Alliance were supplied by a girl employé. This girl, he said, provided information on when the vaults would be open and when the most money would be available. He said that she supplied these details in the home of William Kleitz, who planned the robbery, which resulted in the loss of $1,500.

Siregelas was taken under guard from the jail to the offices of the Alliance. He pointed out Miss Swigon. She denied ever having seen Siregelas before or of having any acquaintance with Kleitz.

Honored Today on Silver Anniversary

complete for handling the throngs within range of the loudspeakers about Holy Name cathedral today. Acting Captain Andrew Barry is to command a detail of five lieutenants, 14 sergeants, and 150 patrolmen near the building. Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan will be in charge of several squads cruising the district. Lieut. Edward Kelly and 20 men from the pickpocket division will arrest all known pickpockets.

After the thanksgiving mass the visiting prelates will be guests of Cardinal Mundelein at a luncheon in the Drake hotel. During the luncheon each guest will be presented with a silver medal struck by Pope Pius in honor of Cardinal Mundelein's jubilee. The obverse side of the medal shows the cardinal jubilarian's profile, with his coat of arms on the reverse side.

The Most Rev. Leopoldo Ruiz y Flores, exiled apostolic delegate to Mexico; the Most Rev. Mathias C. Lenihan, titular archbishop of Preslavo; the Most Rev. Edward J. Hanna of San Francisco, the Most Rev. Michael J. Curley of Baltimore, the Most Rev. Alfred A. Sinnott of Winnipeg, the Most Rev. John T. McNicholas of Cincinnati, the Most Rev. Arthur J. Droessaerts of San Antonio, the Most Rev. Edward Mooney of Rochester, the Most Rev. John G. Murray of St. Paul, the Most Rev. Samuel A. Stritch of Milwaukee, the Most Rev. Edward D. Howard of Portland, the Most Rev. Francis J. L. Beckman of Dubuque, the Most Rev. John J. Mitty of San Francisco, the Most Rev. John J. Maiztegui of Panama, the Most Rev. Rudolph A. Gerken of Santa Fe, the Most Rev. James C. McGuigan of Regina, Canada; the Most Rev. Francis Orozco y Jimenez of Gaudalajara, Mexico.

A Visitor from India.

The prelate to come the greatest distance for the celebration is the Most Rev. B. J. Sullivan, bishop of Patua, India. Bishop Sullivan's mission in Patua is largely supported by Chicagoans.

Cardinal Mundelein was praised yesterday in a resolution unanimously passed by the Methodist Ministers' association of Chicago, meeting in the Chicago temple. The resolution cited the "great work he is doing for his church" and added best wishes and congratulations.

Yesterday morning Cardinal Mundelein briefly reviewed his 25 years as a bishop in a talk before a news reel.

He began the story with the background of the defendants, starting with the acquisition of Northern Indiana Utilities by Samuel Insull, their financial troubles and the organization of the Midland United company to take the burden from the Insull pocketbook.

In 1928, he said, Mr. Insull became alarmed over his continued control of the properties and organized Insull Utilities Investments, Inc., to acquire Insull company stocks. Following this, said the prosecutor, it was discovered that the Middle West Utilities company was a white elephant, with its net earnings not enough to pay dividends.

Reorganization of Middle West.

"Faced with the necessity of doing something," Mr. Harness continued, "they determined to reorganize the capital structure of Middle West and devised a plan to get enough money to retire preferred stock and notes. In 1929 Middle West issued rights to stockholders to purchase more shares at $200 a share.

"At that time they could buy on the market for $107. They determined to go into the market. The Insulls and Harold Stuart began to buy in June of that year, paying $170 and pushing the stock up to $310. They had made the rights attractive. Now they had to have a place to dump this stock they had purchased, $13,000,000 worth, and so Corporation Securities was organized in October, 1929.

Mr. Harness characterized as "absolutely funny" the explanation of the defense that the reason the organizers did not want assets of Corporation Securities disclosed was that the market would run wild. He told of Stuart buying units of Corporation Securities stock at $100 a unit, while their salesmen were offering them to the public at $75 and calling them the jewels of the Insull empire.

Prosecutor Charges Fraud.

"It is all right to support the market," said the prosecutor, "but we find Harold Stuart buying 6,650 units of Corporation Securities stock at $96 to $100 a unit, while his salesmen were selling at $75. There was no reason to purchase at this price to protect the market. There was nothing honest about that, and it goes to the heart of this fraudulent scheme.

"Stuart used $3,588,000 to purchase this stock at an excessive price so that the public would think there was something of value here."

The offering circular of Corporation Securities, giving assets of $80,000,000, "was false and the defendants know it," said Mr. Harness. "They say it was on an 'as if and when basis,' but that is not what they told the public. All they had was $7,000,000 in Insull Utility Investments stock and a contract to buy $13,000,000 of Middle West stock. Prospective customers were deceived into thinking the organizers had invested $50,000,000."

The Insull family, the prosecutor charged, made $1,070,000 by selling stock to Corporation Securities at $25 a share more than they had paid for it.

"If they had used proper, sound, honest accounting methods," Mr. Harness said, "they could not have gone to the public with their first annual report showing earnings of $630,000. The first draft of that report showed them that they had a net loss of $174,000. It was then the directors met and decided to handle stock dividends on their balance sheet at the average closing market price of the day of the report."

Organization expenses came in for another blast from the prosecutor. These amounted to nearly $1,000,000 and were charged to capital surplus.

"There is no authority," he said, "for charging organization expenses except against earned surplus."

Mr. Harness will review the last two years of Corporation Securities' history this morning.

ACQUITTAL PLEAS DENIED

Before Mr. Harness began his address to the jury Judge Wilkerson had denied the batch of motions for directed verdicts of acquittal. Arguments on the motions occupied the whole morning and part of the afternoon. In his decision Judge Wilkerson cited several cases touching on the separate provinces of the court and jury.

"As I stated in denying the similar motions at the close of the government's evidence," the judge declared, "a case should not be taken from the jury when the facts and circumstances are such that men of ordinary intelligence might honestly differ on the interpretation.

"I shall not enumerate the acts charged against the defendants. The court is not required to pile inference on inference, conjecture and guesswork to reach the conclusion that there is a connection of each of the defendants with the alleged scheme to defraud. That is a question to be decided by the jury. The motions for directed verdicts are denied."

11 Defendants Lose Pleas.

The 11 defendants for whom the motions were refused yesterday are Stanley Field, Clarence W. Sills, Philip J. McEnroe, John F. O'Keefe, Fred H. Scheel, Robert W. Waite, Frank R. Evers, George A. Kemp, Charles R. Whitworth, Edward J. Doyle, and Attorney Waldo F. Tobey.

These include the six who did not take the stand in their own behalf. They are McEnroe, O'Keefe, Waite, Evers, Kemp, and Tobey.

The six defendants whose directed verdict motions were overruled on Saturday are Samuel Insull, Samuel Insull Jr., Harold L. and Charles B. Stuart, Frank K. Shrader, and Clarence T. MacNeille.

The argument on behalf of Stanley Field, philanthropist, nephew of the late Marshall Field and a former director of Corporation Securities, was made by Attorney Frederic R. Burnham. Field became a director of the company in June, 1930, nine months after its organization, and did not stand for reelection in 1932.

"Mr. Field became a director after the company had put out its common stock issue of April, 1930, and knew nothing of the sales," Attorney Burnham said. "He had no affirmative duty to inquire into the fraudulent actions charged by the government, if we assume that those charges are true, although we deny it. A negligent failure to inquire does not mean the same thing as knowledge and dishonest intent.

Cites His Client's Testimony.

"When I made this motion [for a directed verdict] at the close of the government's evidence the court said it would not be allowed because an explanation of Mr. Field's actions could be given if he took the stand. He did testify and gave an innocent and convincing explanation. He contradicted the government's contentions.

"Inference! Inference! [Mr. Burnham's voice rose to a shout.] The government builds inference on inference, presumption on presumption until the tenuous string will not hold anything.

"Strong analysis by an expert legal mind is necessary in this trial. Mr. Field's case should not be intrusted to a jury which is in a predicament, in a maelstrom of facts, and may misapply principles.

"When did Mr. Field join the conspiracy? When did he say: 'I take this to my bosom. I am guilty?' The government has not shown."

Salter Replies for U. S.

Prosecutor Salter's reply was brief. He said Mr. Field had approved the issuing of $40,000,000 in gold notes by Corporation Securities in October, 1930. Proceeds from the sale of the notes were used to make part of the $56,000,000 payment to Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, for his holdings in the Insull operating companies. The gold note issue was one of the factors leading to Corporation Securities' collapse.

"What did Mr. Field became a director except to lend the prestige of his name?" Prosecutor Salter asked. "He ratified the issuing of 250,000 more shares of Corporation Securities common stock late in 1930 while he was unloading his holdings in Utility Investments. Did he aid or abet in the scheme to defraud? That is a question for the jury to decide."

Plea for Defendant Sills.

Attorney John J. Healy argued for Defendant Sills, who was a vice president of Corporation Securities.

Arguments for Scheel, Waite, Evers, and Kemp, who were officials of Utility Securities company, the marketing concern for Corporation Securities, were made by Attorney Jay Fred Reeve.

Attorney William Haight spoke on behalf of Whitworth, former auditor for Corporation Securities and one of the resident partners of Touche-Niven & Co., accountants.

Motions for Doyle, Tobey, McEnroe and O'Keefe were made by Attorney James G. Condon. Doyle, who is acting president of the Commonwealth Edison company, was a director of Corporation Securities during the same period as Field. McEnroe and O'Keefe were vice president and assistant secretary, respectively, of Corporation Securities and Tobey was counsel for it.

BORAH CHARGES SHOCKING WASTE IN RELIEF COSTS

Gives Specific Cases in New Allegations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho] tonight renewed his charges of "shocking" and "shameless" waste in the administration of federal emergency relief funds, citing examples of sensational costs and irregularities. In some specific instances, which Senator Borah said had been reported to him, the administration costs were far more than the funds distributed.

The controversy between Senator Borah and Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins has been raging since Nov. 9, when the senator issued his first blast. Hopkins replied that he would welcome a congressional investigation and announced he had ordered one of his own. Later he said the administration costs were only 11 or 12 per cent.

Tonight Senator Borah placed the responsibility for finding out about the administration costs squarely with Administrator Hopkins. The senator said the instances he cited were known to the FERA at Washington.

"Demand Personal Action."

"I do not charge that these matters have been brought to the personal attention of Mr. Hopkins," he said. "But the information is there and subject to his call. They seem to me to warant his personal attention."

Senator Borah said he had not charged criminal conduct nor "graft," as we ordinarily use that term, but that "while there is a difference, technically speaking, between graft and waste, when we are dealing with relief funds there is little moral difference."

The senator said the source of waste lay in the administration in the field and charged that those in authority had placed a wholly unnecessary number of persons on the pay roll at salaries beyond what their services justify.

Getting down to his specific instances, Borah said:

"In one city of perhaps 200,000 population there are 806 administration employés in the central office. This is in a middle western state. Their salaries, together with incidental expenses, aggregate 1½ millions a year. Many of the salaries run from $200 to $380 a month.

1,506 Employés in Office.

"In another city in the middle west they have 1,506 administration employés in the central office, their salaries and incidental expenses amounting to about 2 million dollars a year.

"In a southwestern state the administrator declared that the cost of administration was about 25 per cent of the fund administered, and further declared this was modest compared with other states with which he was familiar. I contend that 25 per cent for administration is waste on the face of it.

"I call attention to some figures based upon an official report in another state. This discloses that, for $5.47 expended for relief, $2.68 was expended for administration. Taking 100 counties in the state, the report discloses that the administrative cost in administering $4,700 was $5,100.

LAST OF COUNTY TAX RATES FOR 1933 COMPUTED

The last of the Cook county 1933 tax rates were computed yesterday by County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer, and the county treasurer's office prepared to mail out the first of the new bills Thursday.

Rates announced yesterday were for two townships in the city. The new basic rate for Lakeview township is $6.73 for each $100 assessed valuation, a reduction of $1.17 from the 1932 rate of $7.90. The new rate for North Chicago township is $6.72, or $1.15 less than the rate of $7.87 for the previous year.

George Hagenauer, chief auditor for the county treasurer, said the bills for residents of South Chicago and Hyde Park townships would be the first to be mailed out Thursday. He estimated there would be about 1,125,000 tax bills for the county, of which 525,000 will go to Chicagoans. Unofficial estimates place the 1933 total tax bill at $180,000,000, which is $37,000,000 less than the 1932 total. A possibility was seen that all the bills would be in the mails by Dec. 1, which would make it unnecessary to extend the penalty date, which is Jan. 1, 1935.

The finance committee of the county board failed yesterday to pass the emergency appropriation of $20,000 to finance the mailing out of tax bills, but an effort to pass it will be made at the county board meeting today.

LEGION PREPARES CONGRESS FIGHT FOR CASH BONUS

H. L. Chaillaux Heads Loyalty Drive.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Legislation for immediate payment of the bonus to world war veterans will be the principal legislative objective of the American Legion at the coming session of congress.

That was announced this afternoon when Legion department commanders and adjutants opened a three day conference at national headquarters here.

Appointment of Homer L. Chaillaux of California as national Americanization director was announced. Chaillaux succeeds Russell Cook, Indianapolis, who resigned last week. Chaillaux, born Oct. 19, 1897, at West Baden, Ind., served twenty-seven months in France. He was promoted to a captaincy. A few months after being discharged in the United States he returned to marry a French girl.

Runs Belgrano's Campaign.

Chaillaux was elected state commander of California last year and carried on a vigorous Americanism campaign that resulted in a lawsuit being filed against him by the American Civil Liberties union. He recently won that case.

Coming now from the same state as does the new national commander, Frank N. Belgrano Jr., Chaillaux managed Belgrano's campaign. Belgrano said tonight his administration is pledged to carry out all mandates of the recent national convention in Miami, Fla.

Immediate payment of the bonus, carrying with it a provision that all interest charges be canceled and refunded in cases where the veterans have made loans, was asked by the Miami convention.

Would Reject Compromise.

John Thomas Taylor, vice-chairman of the Legion's national legislative committee, said tonight the Legion would accept no compromise from those demands. He estimated their cost at $2,137,000,000 to be included in the more than $15,000,000,000 of appropriations the new congress will be asked to authorize, he said.

Illinois Legion Will Hold 1935 Convention in Quincy

By a vote of 17 to 13 the executive committee of the Illinois department of the American Legion decided yesterday to hold the 1935 state convention in Quincy. The convention committee had considered Quincy but had recommended Joliet. The convention date will be decided at a meeting of the national executive committee in Indianapolis next week.

MATTIE'S DUPLICATE KEY IS THE UNDOING OF NIGHT WATCHMAN

Harry Lepin, 940 East 53d street, got to worrying about a burglary in his dress shop at 234 East 55th street. So last week he hired James Coleman, colored, to lock himself in the store each night.

The precaution worked flawlessly until yesterday, when Mr. Lepin arrived at the shop to find his stock depleted by 100 dresses and 140 women's coats valued at $2,700. Watchman Coleman was not missing, but he was very sheepish.

"I met a gal named Mattie," Coleman explained. "It gets right lonesome in the store, so I got Mattie a duplicate key so she could visit me. This morning I heard a knock and went to let Mattie in. Two rough men with revolvers pushed me inside and loaded a lot of stuff on their truck."

The police locked Coleman up and said they'd gladly look for Mattie if they could learn her last name.

"THE YELLOW KID" MISSING; $15,000 BOND FORFEITED

Judge Matthew D. Hartigan forfeited a $15,000 bond of Joseph [Yellow Kid] Weil in the Felony court yesterday and issued a capias for his arrest when the "Kid" failed to appear on three charges of operating a confidence game. Attorney Helen Cirese, representing Weil, moved to vacate the bond forfeiture, saying she knew her client had good intentions.

Complainants in the case were Miss Agnes Harter, 6544 Newgard avenue; Otto Clauss, 1837 North Harlem avenue, and Policeman Walter Ganschow, who signed both complaints. Miss Harter charged Weil had duped her of $32,000 in a copper mine deal. Clauss said he was the "Yellow Kid's" intended victim in a $5,000 fake betting coup.

ATTACK LEGALITY OF MARRIAGE OF SMITH REYNOLDS

Divorce in Reno Also Under Fire.

Winston-Salem, N. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)—The validity of the late Smith Reynolds' divorce at Reno and his subsequent marriage to Libby Holman, Broadway singer, was challenged by the Cabarrus Bank and Trust company, co-guardian for the dead tobacco heir's daughter by his first wife, in superior court here today.

The bank's action was taken in its response to a plea filed last week in behalf of Christopher Smith Reynolds, infant son of the tobacco heir and Miss Holman, which made a claim to the entire estate of young Reynolds, estimated at $25,000,000.

Anne Cannon Reynolds, the second, 4 year old daughter of the tobacco heir who died of a pistol wound here more than two years ago, is entitled to at least half of her father's estate, the bank's response asserted, and unless Baby Christopher "shall be able to prove that he is the legitimate child of the said Smith Reynolds, then the said Anne Cannon Reynolds, second, his sole surviving child, is entitled to the whole estate," except the personal property.

Simultaneously, the bank filed a response to the offer of settlement made last week by the brother and sisters of young Reynolds, which was termed "fair, just, and equitable."

R. J. Reynolds, the brother, and his sisters, Mrs. Henry Walker Bagley, and Mrs. Charles Babcock, proposed that little Anne be awarded approximately $9,000,000, Baby Christopher, $6,000,000, and the remainder of about $10,000,000, except $750,000 for Miss Holman, be set aside for the creation of a benevolent foundation in memory of their brother.

TRUCK LICENSE LISTS ISSUED—AFTER 46 WEEKS

Tardiness Cripples Police Departments' Work.

BY HAL FOUST.

Six weeks before the 1934 license plates will become obsolete Secretary of State Hughes is issuing his first registration books this year covering six of the nine classifications of truck numbers. For forty-six weeks of this year, county and city police departments have been without this guide to the identification of truck ownerships.

An Illinois statute provides that the sheriffs and police shall have these registration books and that they shall be prepared and distributed by the secretary of state to assist the constabulary in "the proper administration of the motor vehicle law." The books list the state licenses, with the owners of the vehicles, in numerical order.

Cover Two Classifications.

The lists being issued this week cover all trucks under 3,000 pounds gross weight and all over 12,000 pounds gross weight. Also published for the first time this week are all 1934 licenses for trailers, dealers and motorcycles.

"We didn't publish these books earlier in the year because we wanted to get enough numbers to fill a book before sending them to the printer," said J. J. Nash, head of the automobile license bureau in the office of the secretary of state. "It costs a lot of money to do this printing and we didn't want to go to the expense of publishing a list earlier in the year that would have to be supplemented later."

"Isn't it more expensive, in proportion to the benefits, to issue the books just a few weeks before they will be obsolete?" he was asked.

Points to Innovations.

"Don't forget that this is Mr. Hughes' first year in office and that he has made many innovations for the benefit of the public," Mr. Nash replied. "Next year we'll be able to get these books out more promptly."

Mr. Nash would not venture an estimate of the cost of publishing these registration lists. From private printers, it was learned that the six delinquent booklets represent only a few hundred dollars in labor and materials. It's the tardiness of publication that has aroused complaints from sherif and police departments.

F. D. ROOSEVELT JR. SUED FOR $25,000 BY CRASH VICTIM

Boston, Mass., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Daniel F. O'Leary brought suit today in federal court against Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., son of the President, for $25,000. She claimed the amount as damages growing out of an automobile accident last April.

The accident was said to have occurred in the Jamaica Plains section of Boston when an automobile allegedly driven by young Roosevelt struck the woman.

A writ of attachment was granted by the court today and will be assigned to a deputy United States marshal for service. Young Roosevelt is a sophomore at Harvard university.

It was recalled that shortly after the accident Morgan T. Ryan, state registrar of motor vehicles, said that the streets were ice-covered at the time and no excessive speed was indicated.

Thomas Stops Baldness at these Three Points

NATURE is calling for help when your hair begins to thin at the (1) temples, (2) crown, or (3) frontal point. Thinning hair at these points, or dandruff-infected, itchy scalp should warn you that your scalp needs immediate attention to prevent further hair loss. Heed these positive warnings and have The Thomas' correct the scalp disorder that is causing your abnormal hair loss.

Thomas' scalp treatment ends dandruff, stops falling hair, and grows hair—not by old fashioned hit or miss means—but by an exclusive method which is exact in every detail. The treatment is scientifically sound in that it supplies the functioning stimuli of which the scalp has been deprived through modern living conditions and thus results in healthy, growing hair.

The Thomas' will not accept you for treatment unless they feel reasonably sure that you will obtain satisfactory results. Call at the nearest Thomas' office today, where a skilled trichologist will gladly examine your hair and scalp without charge and frankly tell you what Thomas' treatment can do to help you retain or regain your hair. Remember—the examination in free. If you do not live near a Thomas' office, write for the Free booklet on the care of your hair and scalp.

JAPAN DEMANDS NAVY AS LARGE AS THAT OF U. S.

Willing to Let Britain Have Bigger One.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 19.—Japan is willing to let Great Britain have a bigger navy but she insists that her navy must be equal in size to that of the United States. Sir John Simon revealed this fact today, as the Japanese formally turned down Britain's proposal for a compromise on Nippon's equality demands.

The British foreign secretary made this disclosure to British newspaper editors at a meeting before which he outlined in detail the present situation in the naval conversations.

Simon suggested that the Japanese are trying to drive a wedge between the British and the Americans. According to the foreign secretary, the Japanese position is that they recognize Britain's need for larger fleets, but not that of the United States.

Fear U. S. Naval Power.

The Japanese are afraid of American naval power, he said. While Japan recognizes that Britain needs warships on all the seas and cannot concentrate its fleet anywhere, they believe the Panama canal enables America to concentrate its whole fleet in the Pacific at short notice, thus constituting a menace to Japan.

While determined on equality with the United States in fleet strength, Simon said the Japanese are anxious to preserve the nonfortification clauses covering islands in the Pacific in the present naval treaties.

The British foreign secretary made it clear that Britain would not accept the Japanese's thesis and would not allow herself to be detached from the United States in naval policy.

The Tokio government's rejection of the British compromise plan was conveyed to Simon by Ambassador Tsuneo Matsudaira of Japan. The ambassador submitted his nation's reply to the British suggestions that while Japan's right to theoretical equality might be recognized, the Japanese might agree not to build up to this ceiling.

Insists Upon Equality.

Matsudaira told Simon in general terms that the Japanese would never agree to any such substitute, but must insist on the right of equality no matter what they did after that right is conceded.

He gave the distinct impression, however, according to British spokesmen, that he had not said the final word, that he is anxious the conversations shall continue, and that he hoped some formula of agreement may eventually be framed.

The British do not yet believe Tokio means what it said in this reply, but the Americans do.

The negotiations will be continued on Wednesday when a full dress meeting between the British and Japanese delegations will be held.

Situation Is Analyzed.

If the negotiations collapse, Britain and the United States may agree on a naval program of rough equality. Each country may, as a last resort, decide on the type of ships it wants and work out some table of equality between, for instance, 10,000 ton cruisers and 7,000 ton cruisers, leaving the Japanese to do as they please. If this should prove to be the case, the British foreign secretary believes the Japanese would make a great effort to build up to this level.

The American position is that if the Japanese want to quit the conversations, "Why, we should worry." The Americans are just as determined on the maintenance of the 5-5-3 battleship ratio as the Japanese are on its abolition. Furthermore, the Americans are confident that if the Washington and London treaties collapse they can give the Japanese the race of their lives for naval supremacy.

At the moment the Americans and Japanese are adhering to their own viewpoints, while the British are hopeful they will find some method of settlement. It is a safe prediction, however, that if any middle course is discovered it will leave the American fleet supreme in the Pacific.

Thurston Swanson Cited on Wife's Alimony Charge

Thurston B. Swanson, 2341 Commonwealth avenue, a contractor, was cited yesterday by Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan to appear on Nov. 26 in a contempt proceeding. His divorced wife, Theresia, who lives with her three children at 5059 Sheridan road, from which she has been ordered to move, charges her husband is $6,574 in arrears on his $225 monthly alimony. She says he is living in luxury with his second wife and their child.

ENTERTAIN AT NORTH SIDE COOKING SCHOOL

ORIGINAL DISHES TO BE SHOWN AT COOKING SCHOOL

North Side Sessions to Open Today.

Have you ever eaten apple on egg? On raisins in ice cream? Or sausage in scalloped tomatoes? Or rum in custard pie? Or pineapple soaked in curry powder?

Not many people have, for most of these combinations are original with Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, home economics expert, but some 5,000 housewives of the north side will know how to prepare them by tonight, for the making of all will be demonstrated at 12:30 p. m. today on the stage of the Aragon ballroom, 1100 Lawrence avenue, as the fourth annual TRIBUNE cooking school opens its north side sessions.

One Dish for Each Meal.

In a demonstration called "round the clock with Mrs. Chitwood" she will show the preparation of one dish for each meal in the day.

For breakfast she will have bacon and eggs; for luncheon, creamed ham and rice; for dinner, scalloped tomatoes and cheese. For "trimmings" she will demonstrate the making of vegetable seafood salad, tutti frutti ice cream, rum custard pie, curried pineapple and bran honey date bars.

The cooking, however, will be only half the day; the other half will be a full program of entertainment, starting with community singing led by Carl Cravens with Leon Benditzky, pianist, and ending with the awarding of prizes.

Noted Entertainers to Appear.

Among the celebrities who will gather on the stage to entertain the housewives are John Burdette, Negro baritone, and his "Cotton Pickers" ensemble, featuring Claire Malone, soprano; George Olsen, Ethel Shutta, and a vocal trio from the College Inn of Hotel Sherman; Bob Forsans, W-G-N tenor, and Robert Burns, baritone; dancers from the Betty Jones School of Dancing; Pat Kennedy, tenor, and Capt. Tim Healy of the Ivory Stamp Club of the Air.

A brief talk will be made by Rhea Seeger, TRIBUNE fashion editor. Miss Mary Meade, TRIBUNE cooking editor, will introduce Mrs. Chitwood, and Phil Maxwell will be master of ceremonies.

Among the highlights for the other days of the school are Sophie Tucker, who will appear tomorrow; the Dixiana Showboat Players and Quin Ryan, W-G-N director, Thursday, and Ted Lewis, stage star, Friday.

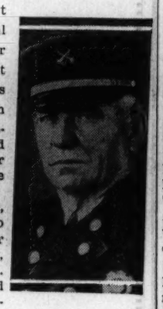
Shortly after Jacob Whren, 70 years old, 5107 Claremont avenue, went to the basement of his home to drink some wine, he began to turn black. He explained he had drunk a bottle of shoe blacking by mistake. At the Swedish Covenant hospital it was said he would recover.

EX-FIRE CHIEF OSWALD TO BE DINNER GUEST

Frank X. Oswald, now a chicken farmer near Ivanhoe, will come back to Chicago on Thursday night to a testimonial dinner in honor of his retirement two weeks ago as chief of the 20th battalion, Rosemont avenue and Clark street, after 48 years in the fire department.



FRANK X. OSWALD.

The fire fighter, 78 years old, is to sit beside Mayor Edward J. Kelly, Fire Marshal M. J. Corrigan, and his former associates around a table in the Social Turner hall, 1053 Belmont avenue.

Former Chief Oswald recalls fires 45 years ago fought with hand pumps. As a captain, he was one of the first to respond to the Iroquois theater fire in 1903, in which 575 persons died. He put in 36 hours without sleep at rescue work after the Eastland disaster in 1915 in the Chicago river. His men say he always went first into burning buildings, and he has had numerous citations for bravery.

Some five years ago Chief Oswald was transferred to the first district, where most big fires occur. Despite his age, he proved so well he could still "take it" that later he was put in command successively of the 13th and 20th battalions.

SYRIA ANGERED BY DICTATORSHIP OF FRENCH CHIEF

Suspension of Parliament Stirs Disorders.

BEIRUT, Syria, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Government guarded today as Syrian nationalists, hostile to the French mandate administration, protested the suspension of parliament.

They sent notes of protest to French High Commissioner de Martel, who made himself virtual dictator of the territory when he suspended parliament two weeks ago, and to foreign consuls here.

Meanwhile in Damascus students went on strike, women paraded through the streets and nationalist Arabs held a mass meeting in a mosque to incite the populace against French rule.

Parliament ordinarily would have begun its sessions today, but it was suspended Nov. 3 because of differences with the government over the economic situation in Syria.

SEEK END OF RULE.

Syrian nationalists, who form the bulk of the educated population of French mandated Syria, have been negotiating with French envoys to end French control. Preliminary discussions started as long as two years ago.

When the French took charge in Syria after the world war they divided the country into two parts and took steps to protect racial and religious minorities from zealotry which had caused revolutions and massacres. This was resented by the nationalist Arabs, but an accord was arranged which managed to keep peace in the country.

It has been long understood that France would like to relinquish her mandate over Syria and wind up her affairs there as England wound up hers in Iraq, with a treaty and admission of Syria to the league of nations.

TUXEDO SOLVES TRAMP'S 24 HOUR STYLE PROBLEM

What will the well dressed bum wear this season? Dinner clothes. Tuxedo suit for breakfast, tuxedo for lunch, tuxedo for dinner, and tuxedo for sleeping.

The new trend in West Madison street fashions became apparent to the Desplaines street police yesterday following the burglary of the Pioneer Window Service company, 1332 West Van Buren street. Albert Cherney, the owner, reported that six suits, an overcoat, and a tuxedo were taken.

Somewhat later in the afternoon, during the heavy shower, a woman glanced from her rear window and saw a dilapidated tramp slouch into a shed in the rear of 317 South Loomis street. Fifteen minutes later as the rain stopped, the same tramp emerged, resplendent in a tuxedo. With a casual glance at the threatening sky, the West Madison street Beau Brummel adjusted his dirty cravat, settled the dinner suit a little more firmly on his shoulders, and set off jauntily down the alley.

The six stolen suits, and overcoat, and the tramp's abandoned clothing were found in the shed.

BRONCHIAL ASTHMA DISAPPEARS

Illinois Woman Has Had No Asthma for Years

In November, 1927, Mollie W. Mahan of Riverside, Ill., started to take Dr. Fugate's Prescription. Read these excerpts from her letters:

Dec. 1, 1927: "The night before I received Dr. Fugate's Prescription I came so near dying I can't explain how I ever lived through it. For the past two years I had not been able to draw a deep full breath without a terrible rattle in my throat. I had coughed until I thought I would die. I had taken shots in my arms until they made me so sick I had to stop. After the first two or three days of taking Dr. Fugate's Prescription I began to feel much better. Today I can breathe deep full breaths without a sign of rattle or "cough."

October 1, 1934, she wrote: "Several years have passed since I took Dr. Fugate's Prescription and no sign of return of Asthma. I have a seven-room house, do all my own work and I am still thanking God for Dr. Fugate's Prescription."

If you have bronchial asthma, try the prescription developed and used for years with unusual success by Dr. Fugate—a treatment that has brought relief to thousands.

CLAIMS GERMANY CAN RAISE ARMY OF 5,500,000 MEN

French Parliament Asked for Huge War Budget.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 19.—The increasing alarm in France over German armaments was reflected today in the chapter of the 1935 budget dealing with the war ministries and the declaration to the chamber of deputies that Germany will have 5,500,000 men available for military action in 1935.

In an analysis of the country's defense needs, Deputy Leon Archimbaud, reporter of the budget committee, in supplementing the information on German armaments which has leaked out of the famous secret dossiers to date, gives a hitherto unpublished official estimate of German effectives.

According to this study, Germany, despite the treaty of Versailles, has a standing army today of 480,000 men composed as follows: Reichswehr, 300,000 men; military trained police, 100,000 men; schutz staffel defense units, 80,000 men.

4,000 Trained Pilots.

Next year these figures will be increased to a total of 600,000 men, it is estimated, the additions being 100,000 reichswehr and 20,000 schutz staffel. In addition trained reserves, mobilized in a few days, are estimated at 4,900,000 men, according to Archimbaud.

The aviation corps, says the report, has between 3,500 and 4,000 trained pilots equipped with a large number of airplanes.

The budget report also devotes considerable space to German industrial mobilization and armaments, mentioning particularly the activity of the famous Krupp works in producing super cannons of the Big Bertha type and huge mortars. Powder plants, too, have increased production.

French budgetary estimates are technically some $30,000,000 under last year, being approximately $370,000,000. The report explains, however, that figure does not include expenses on fortifications, including armaments for fortresses and special supplementary credits of some $60,000,000 which the government is going to ask shortly. Moreover, France will call a larger number of conscripts to training.

"In a few months," Archimbaud said, "Germany will be stronger on land than in 1914. We are far from the treaty of Versailles. Despite the treaty, the league of nations, and the disarmament conference, the enemies of France are intensively preparing for war as though it were to be in the near future. It is by maintaining a strong and well-equipped army that we can hope peace will not be threatened."

There were week-end disturbances among extreme political groups. The Croix de Feu [Cross of Fire veterans] defied restrictions and paraded ten abreast at its Lille convention. Police withheld interference with minor clashes.

CHEMIST'S DEATH FROM FUMES IS HELD ACCIDENT

The death of Dr. Erich Gebauer-Fuelnegg, 32 years old, associate professor at Northwestern university and director of the research laboratories of the Marbo Products company in Gary, Ind., who died Sunday at the Passavant hospital, was held to be accidental by a coroner's jury yesterday.

Dr. Gebauer-Fuelnegg inhaled liquified hydrogen chloride gas Thursday in his laboratory. He and his associates had perfected a new form of rubber which is highly resistent to the actions of oil and weather and may be used in the manufacture of glazed paper.

Funeral services for the chemist, who lived at 2661 Lawndale avenue, Evanston, will be held at 2 p. m. today in the Graceland cemetery chapel. His widow, Marie, and a daughter, Margaret Mary, 15 months old, survive.

AUSTRIA INVITES 4 STATES TO JOIN DANUBE ACCORD

Germany, Little Entente Urged to Participate.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Nov. 19.—Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg of Austria and Premier Mussolini of Italy discussed again today the problem of how to put teeth into the pact guaranteeing Austrian independence. It was the second and concluding conversation which the two statesmen have had in three days.

A brief communique issued after the meeting said that Germany and the little entente of Jugo-Slavia, Czechoslovakia and Rumania again have been invited to join the Danubian agreement for economic and cultural collaboration existing between Italy, Hungary, and Austria.

Pact Open to Others.

The communique said, "It was confirmed in two conferences between Il Duce and Chancellor Schuschnigg that tripartite accords are not exclusive and may be extended to others."

The statement insisted that those entering must recognize "the existing fundamental principle," meaning Austria's right to independence.

The Austrian chancellor, in seeking a Danubian agreement, is following the example of his predecessors, Chancellor Buresch and the assassinated Engelbert Dollfuss. The labored to overcome the feeling of distrust among the countries into which the Austro-Hungarian empire was divided.

Dollfuss' invitation to Germany and the little entente particularly did not meet with the enthusiasm of the latter. The little entente held back on the suspicion that the Italo-Hungarian-Austrian accord was a military alliance. The interception of 50,000 Italian rifles at Hirtenberg, Austria, presumably destined for Hungary, was cited as evidence.

Schuschnigg today referred to an "anti-Austrian campaign." He said it "cannot induce a change of our foreign policy since we are persuaded that it responds to the general European need."

As the Austrian leader concluded his talks with Mussolini, Ambassador Charles Pineton de Chambrun of France returned to Rome from Paris. He began making overtures to the Italian foreign office regarding the possibility of preparing the way for an understanding between Italy and France.

ALIENIST KILLS SELF; WAX MODELS DROOPED AROUND HIS BODY

PARIS, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Police told today of how they had found the body of Dr. Gatien de Clerambault, chief of the medical staf of the infirmary for the insane.

He was shot twice through the mouth, apparently by himself. He lay in front of a mirror, and drooped around his body were the equally lifeless figures of a world of fantasy—life-sized models of human beings done in wax. They were dressed strangely with precious cloth.

Until today the police kept the story secret, although Dr. Clerambault's body was found in his home two days ago. The dead man's servant said the alienist's sole amusement was in dressing the wax models in rare cloth he received from various parts of the world. He recently underwent an operation for the removal of cataracts from his eyes, and the operation was not entirely successful.

Former Reichstag Member to Speak Here Tomorrow

Mr. Seger escaped from a concentration camp near Berlin after an incarceration of six months and fled to Czechoslovakia. He will talk on his experiences in the camp.

U. S. TO FIGHT FOR CONTROL OF ARMS AT PARLEY TODAY

Will Push for Action on Treaty in Geneva.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Nov. 19.—With the United States determined to keep disarmament efforts alive, Hugh R. Wilson, American minister to Switzerland and disarmament expert, is expected to fight for the treaty suggested by the United States to control armaments manufacture and trafic before the disarmament conference's steering committee tomorrow.

Wilson was assured of America's intention to keep the disarmament issue alive in a telephone conversation with Washington tonight. He will deliver an address tomorrow before the steering committee. It was believed he will urge concentration of certain aspects of disarmament.

Urges Publicity on Costs.

Publicity on budgets for armaments and the establishment of a permanent commission on disarmament are other possibilities in which the United States is interested, experts here have been informed.

Wilson has just returned from Rome where he and Premier Mussolini discussed the American disarmament idea.

Russia's Stand Puzzling.

There is speculation on what stand Commissar for Foreign Affairs Maxim Litvinov of Russia will take on disarmament. He has not revealed whether he will push his proposal to make the disarmament conference a permanent peace conference, or whether he will insist that the matter of disarmament be placed before the league of nations' council to determine whether disarmament shall be declared dead or be infused with new life.

I've always said that I'd try most things once. To be frank, the rule has got me some disappointments.

But once in a while, I do find something too good to keep.

Which brings me right down to cases. You see, if I do say it myself, I'm under 30. I'm one of the 1920 to '30 generation, brought up on doubtful drinks that one took just because it was the thing to do.

I'd never tasted ale. I just didn't know.

Until George and I were at a movie, and afterward he said: "Everybody's talking about Blue Ribbon Ale. Come on, let's try it."

We did and...oh...oh...oh. Tangy, rich, mellow, and makes you tingle all over...something like the man on the flying trapeze. Yet it doesn't carry you too far; it's in good taste in more ways than one.

If you're smart, you'll try it too. If you also are one of my 1920 to '30 generation, it will make you wonder how you ever put up with The Drinks You Used to Drink.

DO YOU HATE TO TAKE A LAXATIVE?

...then, youve never tried pleasant, painless EX-LAX

NATURALLY, when you find yourself constipated, you want relief.

But sometimes you pay so dearly for relief, that you'd almost rather remain constipated. You hate the action of harsh, irritating laxatives. They taste terrible. They cause pain. They upset you and leave you weak...and who can blame you for hating to take that kind of a laxative.

TRY THE EX-LAX WAY FOR PLEASANT, THOROUGH RELIEF

How different it all is with Ex-Lax! Ex-Lax works so gently you hardly know you've taken a laxative...yet it is as thorough as anything you could take. It won't cause stomach pain, it won't disturb you, it won't leave you weak. Relief is so pleasant.

You needn't worry for a single minute about "forming a habit." With Ex-Lax you don't have to keep on increasing the dose to get results.

And Ex-Lax proves once and for all that a good laxative needn't taste bad. Ex-Lax tastes just like delicious chocolate. Never again need you shrink from the thought of taking a laxative when you need one. 43,000,000 Ex-Lax users can tell you how true that is!

AND, THAT "CERTAIN SOMETHING"

These are the cold facts about Ex-Lax. But there is more than that. It's the ideal combination of all these qualities—combined in the exclusive Ex-Lax way—that gives Ex-Lax a "certain something"—a certain satisfaction—that puts Ex-Lax in a class by itself. Our telling you won't prove that, you must try it yourself to know what we mean!

Ex-Lax comes in 10c and 25c boxes—at any drug store. Look for the exact spelling ...E-X-L-A-X. Don't experiment with imitations!

When Nature forgets—remember

MRS. STEVENS, 78, TELLS HER VIEWS ABOUT ALIMONY

Awaits Court Hearing on Stopped Payments.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

As Mrs. Jessie Smith Stevens, who will be 78 years old next month, waits for a court hearing to learn whether her 81 year old former husband, James W. Stevens, will resume alimony payments to her, she reviews the incidents of her married life, which began in 1874, and those of recent years.

A petition is pending before Superior Judge Francis B. Allegretti asking that Stevens be cited for contempt for being $8,400 in arrears in alimony. It was filed by Attorney Joseph E. Winterbotham. The petition alleges that Mrs. Stevens has not received her monthly stipend of $400 allowed in her divorce decree obtained in 1903, since Feb. 1, 1933. Stevens lives at 1216 Lake Shore drive with his present wife, Mrs. Alice Bradley Stevens.

Wants to Keep Her Home.

In an interview yesterday in her home, a well kept old mansion built in the florid style of the nineties, at 4118 South Parkway, once a fashionable residential district now occupied almost exclusively by Negroes, Mrs. Jessie Stevens said that all she wanted was assurance that she might continue to live in her accustomed manner in the house she has lived in for about 40 years.

It never occurred to her to ask for separate maintenance rather than divorce, Mrs. Stevens said. She has no regrets, she said, and would do the same thing over again.

"Why shouldn't a man marry again?" she said. "I told him the night before I went into court, thirty-one years ago, here in this room, that I hoped he would marry again, but expected him to support me. I never saw him again."

Recalls Days of Bicycling.

Two years later, she said, Mr. Stevens married his present wife, who had been in his employ since the time of the 1893 world's fair, as she recalls it.

"Before our divorce," she said, "he used to do a lot of bicycling. I bought a bicycle and learned to ride it, but I guess he thought I couldn't ride very well. He never took me bicycling.

While she has stayed on in the large house, leading an almost solitary life except for regular bi-weekly excursions to a motion picture theater (always the same theater), Mrs. Stevens' former husband and their two sons experienced a sensational rise to wealth and success, then spectacular misfortunes.

Indicted with Two Sons.

Stevens was indicted with his sons, Ernest J. and Raymond W. Stevens, for embezzlement in connection with the administration of the Illinois Life Insurance company.

The father was too ill to stand trial and Raymond shot and killed himself in his Highland Park home in March, 1933. Ernest was convicted Oct. 14, 1933, by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Michael Feinberg of having embezzled $1,308,463 from the funds of the insurance company and transferred it to the treasury of the Stevens hotel in 1931. Last Oct. 22, however, the Illinois Supreme court reversed his conviction. He had been sentenced to from one to ten years in prison, but was at liberty pending his appeal, on which the higher court's reversal was based.

"I haven't seen Ernie for a year at least," his mother said. "He has always been on his father's side. Ray was the one who was nice to me. When I thought Ernie was going to have to go to jail I wrote a letter to the judge, but Ernie never knew it. I've not seen him since.

Seeks $200 a Month.

"I never have been extravagant, and because he was, I don't think I should go without alimony," she continued. "It is true that he made his payments regularly, and that after I wrote him in 1927 saying I understood he was a millionaire and would like a larger allowance, he voluntarily sent me $750 a month. That kept up until Feb. 1, 1933.

"I do have some savings, but I expect to live a long time. It costs me about $200 a month to live, and I'd just as soon the court reduced his payments to that, if he would pay. I have a car, a chauffeur to whom I pay $100, and a woman who gets $40. My groceries don't cost over $25 a month. If I do have any money left when I die, it will go to my servants, for they've been nicer to me than anyone else, except Ray."

News of The Tribune Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

Fine Cattle Arrive

Nov. 19, 1934.

FIFTEEN pure bred Aberdeen Angus cattle have just arrived at THE TRIBUNE Experimental farm near Yorkville to be used in the new breeding and feeding tests. Ten of the animals are hefers to be mated with the farm's new snow white pure bred shorthorn bull, Silver Victor R., in an attempt to produce superior blue gray beef cattle. The other five of the new Angus herd are steers from pure bred sires and dams.

The fifteen animals were bought from B. E. Seeley, Springdale Stock farm, Mount Pleasant, Ia. Both the steers and the hefers, all registered when they were calves, are from the most famous families of Aberdeen-Angus cattle in this country. They were all sired by Benedict of Woodcote 4th No. 410829 and Eno Elba No. 403593. In 1930 Benedict of Woodcote 4th was winner of first prize at the International Live Stock exposition in Chicago. He won during the same year the first awards at the American Royal Live Stock show at Kansas, at the Illinois State fair, and at the Wisconsin State fair.

"His sire, imported Elcho of Harviestoun, was a champion and a champion sire and nearly all of his ancestors are champions," said Mr. Seeley. "His dam was a great cow, coming from the Blackcaps, the most aristocratic Aberdeen Angus family in America. She has been the dam of many show ring winners. The blood lines of Benedict of Woodcote 4th have not been surpassed, if ever equaled.

"Eno Elba is a line bred Elba Erica and has as a grandsire the king of all sires, Earl Marshall, who has sired more champions than any other bull of the Aberdeen Angus breed. His dam traces back to the great bull Earlwood and in her pedigree are found some of the best cows of this popular family."

Mr. Seeley said that the dams of the hefers brought to THE TRIBUNE farm are of the Blackcap, Erica, and Blackbird families. The ten hefers, born last May at Springdale Stock farm, weigh an average of 803 pounds each. They have been tested and are free from tuberculosis and abortion disease producing germs.

The five steers, born at the Springdale farm last September and October, average 674 pounds each and cost at the farm 8 cents a pound. They will soon be placed on a feeding test at THE TRIBUNE farm with steers of other breeds. The trucking cost of the steers, as well as the hefers, averaged $3.67 a head. Records are being kept of all the costs of the steers to be used in the feeding experiment so that when the animals are sold next year an accurate comparison can be made of the net profits produced by feeders of different breeds.

The fifteen Aberdeen Angus animals are being kept in the newly remodeled cattle barn at the farm where they are bedded down in a foot of shredded corn stalks and are carefully fed and cared for while they are becoming accustomed to their new home.

Clarence Thurow is out searching the middlewest for five Shorthorn steers from pure bred sires and dams. They also will be used in the feeding test for different breeds. Mr. Thurow will continue his cattle buying tour until all the animals to be used in the new breeding and feeding experiments have been acquired.

CHICKEN THEFTS ROUSE OFFICIALS OF CHICAGOLAND

10,000 Birds Stolen in Recent Months.

Municipal, county and state authorities in Cook, Du Page, Kane and McHenry counties were in arms yesterday against an increase in chicken thievery that has cost the farmers of this area approximately 10,000 fowl in recent months. Night raids on backyard roosts have become so common that the police can no longer view these burglaries as petty mischief.

"The farmers are partly to blame for this increase in chicken stealing," said Harry P. Kelley, Kane county farm adviser. "They have been inclined to accept these prowlers as a nuisance that's part of the poultry business, just like the losses due to severe weather. Some didn't even report thefts to the police.

Standing Reward of $25.

"This attitude toward the chicken thief is changing, however. In this county and its neighbors, there's a standing reward of $25 for information that leads to the arrest and conviction of a poultry thief. A woman is going to get this reward for the recent conviction of a pair of these prowlers. I'm not at liberty to mention her name."

The conviction is cited as an example of the community's awakened indignation against farmyard burglars. Sentences of one year to life in prison were imposed by Circuit Judge Frank W. Shepherd of Kane county on Herbert Guth, alias Herman Saxon of Elgin, and James Allen, alias James Sanders of Chicago. The trial took place in Geneva. A woman furnished Kane county deputies with the license number of the car used by the pair in their chicken thefts.

Another Suspect in Jail.

In the Geneva jail yesterday Carl Neusses, 38 years old, of Yorkville, was awaiting trial on a charge of having stolen 56 chickens from Harry Marvin, a farmer three miles west of St. Charles. Neusses was a former employé of Marvin. The chickens were recovered in a Yorkville commission market.

In Wheaton Sheriff John F. Hesterman of Du Page county was trying to determine who owns 68 chickens found in an abandoned car by state highway policemen. Two Du Page county farmers and a Kankakee county farmer, all of whom had recent losses, were claiming ownership of the poultry.

The state police and deputy sheriffs of the four Chicagoland counties have been instructed to keep a sharp eye on fowl being moved over the highways at night.

MARTIN WILL BE TAX BOARD HEAD, HORNER DECIDES

Appointment Foreseen at French Lick.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner today announced that State Treasurer John C. Martin of Salem will be named chairman of the state tax commission when his term expires early in January. He will succeed Scott W. Lucas of Havana, elected to fill the congressional seat of the late Speaker Henry T. Rainey.

Martin's appointment was discussed at the Democratic post-election round-up in French Lick Springs, Ind., last week and considered more or less settled. The formal announcement came late today. The governor added that the appointment had the warm approval of the other tax commissioners—Prof. Simeon E. Leland and Barnet Hodes, both of Chicago.

State Treasurer Martin is a banker and a Democratic leader in the "Egyptian" territory of southern Illinois. He is serving his first term in public office, and has become the governor's close confidant and adviser.

Denies Backing Remap Bill.

Along with the Martin appointment came a score of political rumors, involving the organization of both houses next session, and also of measures which may be proposed in the new assembly.

Attracting most attention was a report denied by the governor that he would back a bill to reapportion the senatorial districts of Illinois so as to give Chicago a slight majority in each house. Neither senatorial nor congressional districts have been remapped since 1901, although Cook county members have made vain attempts from time to time to win the representation to which, under the constitution, they are entitled.

The new report, the source of which was clouded with doubt, had it that downstaters would be asked to support a bill to reapportion the state so that Cook county would have 26 districts, or a bare majority in each house. In return downstate would be given the speakership of the house, the president pro temporeship of the senate, and a remap of the congressional districts so as to place both congressmen at large in newly-carved downstate districts.

Seeks Divided Control.

Asked about the report this afternoon, the governor said he stood upon the promise he made when elected in 1932 that he would strive for a solution to the reapportionment problem through a divided control—downstate to have a majority in one house and Cook county in the other.

Senator James Monroe [Dem., Collinsville], has started a movement to elect a downstater president pro-tempore to replace Senator R. V. Graham [Dem., Chicago]. It is understood that no commitments have been made on that office, but if the appointment did go to downstate, a logical choice would be Senator Rollo M. Shaw of Lawrenceville.

5 CONVICTIONS IN LIGHT FRAUD CASE REVERSED

The Appellate court in an opinion handed down yesterday reversed the convictions of Harry A. Johnson, former president of the Electrical Contracting company, and four suspended city employés who had been found guilty in April of 1933 by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Thomas J. Lynch of conspiracy to defraud the city of $250,000 on a street lighting contract. The case was remanded for a new trial.

The opinion held that prejudicial errors had been committed by the prosecution and asserted that "although the record may produce a very strong suspicion of wrongdoing, that is not sufficient to justify a verdict of guilty."

Johnson and John A. Muerling, suspended city electrical engineer, were sentenced to serve two years in Joliet and to pay fines of $5,000. Eugene A. Quinn, former city contract inspector; Frank Wargoske, once custodian of the south side city material yard, and Joseph Duffy, a suspended clerk, the other defendants, were sentenced to serve one year in the county jail and fined $50 each.

CRIMINAL COURT.

PROBE RENT COLLECTOR'S DEATH.

The inquest into the death of C. F. Spearin, 65 years old, 6128 Ingleside avenue, rent collector, found dead from a blow on the head in the back yard at 3030 Vernon avenue Sunday, was continued yesterday until Nov. 30 to allow police more time to investigate.

VOTE TRUE BILL AGAINST TWO IN HOLDUP KILLING

True bills for murder were reported voted by the grand jury yesterday against Robert Hicks, 25 years old, and William Marshall, 22 years old. It is charged that they shot and killed Samuel Cornfield, 1949 East 79th street, during a robbery in the rear of 6223 Woodlawn avenue on May 7. Cornfield, a milkman, was slain as he was making his rounds. Several witnesses testified yesterday that just before the shooting they saw Hicks drive a dark colored sedan in the alley and saw him drive out the other end of the alley immediately after the shooting.

FALL IN HOME CAUSES DEATH.

Slipping on a rug in his bedroom Nov. 3, Samuel Bluementhal, 64 years old, 4808 North Sawyer avenue, incurred injuries that caused his death in the County hospital yesterday.

YOUR STOMACH AT WORK ★ Curious Facts About Digestion

-AND WILL SWALLOW AS MUCH AS THREE SPOONFULS OF SODA WHEN ONE HARMLESS TABLET OF DIAPEPSIN WOULD BRING RELIEF.
P

Heartburn after eating, gas pains, and other distress is far more common than the knowledge of how to relieve it! There are still people who rely upon soda to relieve this condition. They ought to be told about Diapepsin, for this simple and agreeable remedy really relieves it.

You can carry these tablets in your pocket—always ready to quiet or comfort such discomfort. They relieve the pangs of acid indigestion like magic. Eat one or two—just as you would a mint or candy—and that's all there is to it. Try it! Carry the pocket tin and take a tablet or two after meals until your digestion is "clicking" and the old sourness is gone.

If you have distress after meals, any acid discomfort at all, your stomach is probably slow in emptying. If you relieve this condition with Pape's Diapepsin, you can eat with fewer restrictions.

Diapepsin, in tablets that are eaten just like candy, has brought happiness to thousands who thought that they had a "weak stomach." Remember the name—which is Pape's Diapepsin. Druggists are all familiar with it.

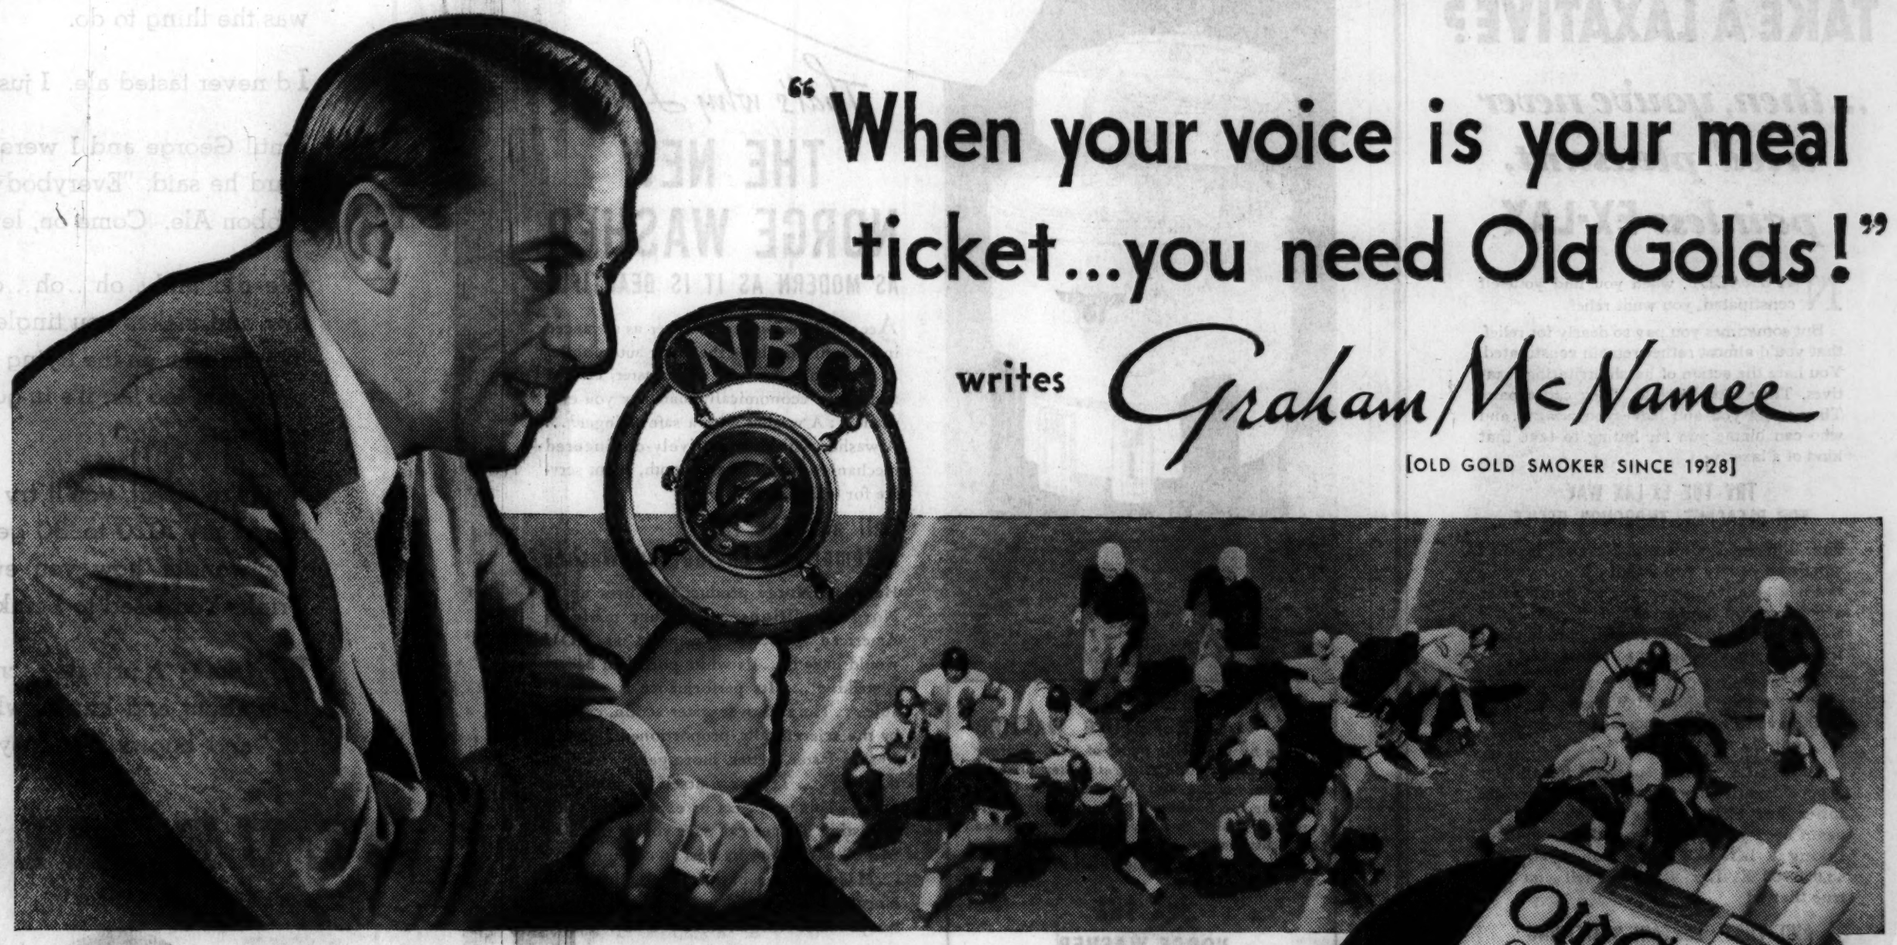
[OLD GOLD SMOKER SINCE 1928]



"WHEN the ball's on the one-yard line . . . and a million rabid football fans are hanging on every word you fire at the 'mike' . . . it's no time to have your voice go haywire!

"That's why I guard my throat as though it were the U. S. Mint . . . and that's why I smoke Old Golds! In the excitement of a big game, I light one cigarette from the butt of another and Old Gold is the cigarette I thoroughly enjoy. It never gives me a hoarse, irritated throat.

RUSSIA STRIVES TO OVERTAKE U. S. IN INDUSTRY RACE

[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

MOSCOW, Nov. 5.—[By courier and mail.] — It does not require careful perusal of soviet literature pertaining to industrialization to realize that a chief goal of the leaders of this country is to overtake and surpass the United States as a manufacturing and agricultural nation. References to this ambitious program appear in practically all speeches, pamphlets, technical reports, and declarations of Russian engineers, particularly those who make frequent inspection trips to the United States.

V. V. Kuibyshev, president of the state planning commission, in a recent address pertaining to the development program contemplated in the next few years referred to a statement attributed to Lenin that instruments of production in pre-war Russia were four times inferior to that of England, five times to that of Germany, and ten times to that of the United States.

Respect U. S. Progress.

Soviet leaders now refer in contemptuous terms of industrial development in England and Germany. It is only for industrial development, technical skill, and inventive genius in the United States that they profess to have sincere respect. They are formulating definite plans for overtaking and surpassing America.

In their studies of American manufacturing methods the soviet leaders have made many interesting discoveries which have caused them considerable annoyance. For example, the Russians now have several new automobile and tractor plants in operation, but they do not seem to equal the production of similar plants in the United States. A plant equipped to turn out 500 cars a day is only able to turn out between 200 to 250.

G. K. Orjohikidze, commissar of heavy industry, recently inquired why it was that the efficiency of an American laborer [under the capitalist system] was four times as great as a Russian worker.

Answers Own Question.

"Why should an American worker in a General Motors or Ford plant work better than our workers in their own country—under the dictatorship of the proletariat?" he asked.

In answering his own question he expressed the opinion that if this question was presented squarely "in a bolshevist manner" to the Russian laborers they immediately would become more efficient, would work better for themselves and their country than is the case abroad where the so-called "capitalist" system prevails.

Consequently in all branches of new soviet industry laborers, foremen, and managers daily are being told that they must speed up in order to overtake other countries, but particularly the manufacturer of the United States. The subject should be of interest to American manufacturers generally, but particularly to those who have participated in or contemplate entering the Russian market. In a recent conversation with a Russian industrial promoter he declared:

"Don't send us any high powered salesmen or commission agents; we only want to deal with engineers and technical men who can help us build our own machines."

Do Not Want to Buy.

A certain field engineer of an American factory which produces agricultural and road machines spent several months in Russia participating in competitive tests. He told the writer prior to his return to the United States that he was convinced the Russians did not intend to purchase any large quantities of his machines—that they only wanted to learn how to manufacture and operate them themselves.

Whether the Russians under the present system which, incidentally, is being fundamentally modified, will be able to overtake and surpass American industry is a question which will require at least a decade for an answer.

They delight in boasting of their accomplishments in the construction of new factories, hydro-electrical plants, metallurgical enterprises, and the opening of mines in a period when the United States was compelled to curtail because of the depression. But now that many of these enterprises are beginning to operate they appear to be at a loss to understand why they do not function as do similar ones in the United States — even in the period of the depression. Hence, the ambition to imitate American methods.

This constitutes the chief problem of the second five year plan to overtake and surpass America.

What Russia Plans to Do.

In electricialization they promise that the Dnieper-Donbas system will have an annual output of 9 billion kilowatts, exceeding the high point of the Niagara system, which, according to their figures, produced 6,900,000,000 kilowats in 1930. However, they admit that total American production still will be ahead of Russia.

In machine building they are not quite so ambitious, their present hoped-for high mark being only 57 per cent of America's highest point in 1929. In the construction of blast furnaces having a capacity of 900 cubic meters they claim the U. S. S. R. by 1937 will surpass all other nations. In other words Russia will have 43 such furnaces, while the United States possesses only 17.

They claim that development in ferrous metallurgy shortly will reach the level of the United States, "the most advanced in the world," according to their admission. In their new zinc industry soviet leaders claim that their new electrolytic method of extraction by 1937 will produce 70 per cent of all zinc, while in the United States only 24.4 per cent is produced by this method.

Points to Coal Industry.

In the food canning industry the plants now under construction "are making use of the most advanced American technique."

In the coal industry, according to soviet figures, it required the United States nine years to increase its production from 45 to 76 million tons, "while Russia increased its output from 48 to 74 million tons in three years. The United States, they say, took seven years to increase pig iron production from 12,600 tons daily to 21,000 tons, while Russia "did it in three years."

TWO MORE RUSSIAN FARMERS MUST DIE FOR CROP SABOTAGE

TASHKENT, U. S. S. R., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Two more farmers were sentenced to death today for sabotage and theft of government property, bringing to eight the total number of men who must face a firing squad for neglect of the cotton crop. The Uzbekistan Supreme court is still holding trials on other collective farms with more than 40 defendants.

The latest men condemned were Kadyrov and Mamaroul Mamadaliev, former chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the harvesting department of the collective farm.

The farm fulfilled only 2.6 per cent of its cotton plan, the worst record so far revealed in the trials. The defendants were charged with destroying 200 acres of cotton by discharging "shock workers" on trumped up charges and also with the theft of live stock, wheat and 1,200 rubles belonging to the farm. Two other workers were sentenced to ten years' imprisonment each.

IT'S QUIET NOW ON ELLIS ISLAND; CLERKS STAY ON

Bulk of Aliens There Are Awaiting Deportation.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—On a bit of land in New York bay there stands in ghostlike solitude a sprawling structure of red brick and limestone, a mammoth hotel which once housed 2,000 guests nightly and through the doors of which 5,000 wide-eyed immigrants from the ends of the earth wandered every 24 hours.

Today the world's largest immigrant station on Ellis Island is host to a mere 100 or more persons, most of them aliens awaiting deportation. A full staf of some 500 attend the simple wants of these disconsolate few.

The huge building is kept heated and lighted, supplied with power and water, and managed as if the crowds might return any day. But the visitor finds a hushed quiet where once the excited babble of thousands of foreign born echoed in the great halls.

Quota Laws Responsible.

Twenty years ago Ellis Island frequently examined and passed for entry 5,000 prospective American citizens in a single day. But in the past 16 years laws and regulations have completely altered the functions of the island. The immigration laws of 1917 and 1924 brought the greatest change, setting quotas for each nation and providing that only 150,000 aliens could enter annually as permanent residents. Scarcely a sixth of that number are admitted today under the temporary ruling which forbids American consulates to issue entrance permits to any immigrants who are liable to take jobs from American citizens or who are likely to become public charges. The total immigration for 1933 was only 23,068.

And of that number very few were detained at Ellis Island. They were examined on board the vessels on which they came by the immigation inspectors and doctors of the public health service.

Only Few Turned Back.

Only a few who may have developed disease en route or against whom some belated evidence of moral turpitude has been unearthed are likely to be taken to the spacious pavilions down the bay.

Because of these legal restrictions, the type of immigrant of years ago is no more. Of the 23,000 admitted last year all presented proof that they had money enough to support themselves or well-to-do relatives who had signed affidavits that they would be responsible. The alien with only a few pennies in his pocket, hoping to find employment in the new land, is not permitted to enter.

Most awesome in their loneliness today were the deserted caverns where the government once operated a veritable railroad station of its own. Here the immigrants were sold tickets to destinations throughout the United States. The ticket booths and even the tickets in their cases remain, but there wasn't a solitary customer in sight.

Facing Deportation.

In the big auditorium, capable of seating several thousands, less than a score today sat brooding. Outside in a recreation yard a number stood uncertainly in the bright sunshine.

In the vast dormitories stood long rows of white-sheeted cots. The majority of them have been undisturbed for years. In a large library a gray-haired librarian puttered with his books alone.

Of the staf of 500 persons stationed in this mausoleum, more than 100 employes are clerical workers. They pore over the records of more than 20,000,000 individuals who have passed through the station. These records must be consulted when aliens here legally wish to travel abroad and wish reentry permits and for naturalization and similar purposes.

Start Erecting the Steel for New W-G-N Building

Actual erection of the new $500,000 home of W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE radio station, just north of Tribune Tower, began yesterday when the first steel column was swung into position and riveted to the foundation. A steady supply of steel has been assured, and the skeleton will be completed in two weeks, it was estimated by E. Simonson, construction superintendent. It is expected the building will be ready for occupancy by next June 1.

if he gets poor marks in school

How one mother solved this problem

IT wasn't Jimmy's fault when he got poor grades at school. Night after night he tried hard to do his homework. But his eyes hurt; his head swam. He simply could not keep his mind on his studies.

One evening his mother observed how restless the effort to get his lessons made him. She noticed that he squinted hard at the printed text. Yet a visit to the oculist showed that his eyes were normal.

What was wrong with Jimmy? Simply this: The lamp by which he studied gave him only half as much light as he needed. An unusual condition? Not at all! Lighting experts assert that in two out of three homes poor lighting is the cause of fatigue, tired eyes and strained nerves.

What correct lighting is

To protect good eyes, from twenty to thirty foot-candles of light should fall on the printed page—forty to fifty is even better. This light should be properly diffused with no glare, no deep shadows, none of the contrasts which cause eyes to change focus frequently. Under such lighting, eye tension is relieved. Your nerves are not strained. Your body relaxes.

Why many homes fail to have it

Most women are only too glad to give their families safe lighting when they know what is needed. They will do anything to protect the eyesight of their children. But they lack the means to measure the light of their lamps. And so, night after night, tired eyes struggle on, threatened with serious injury.

How to get it

If you suspect that the lighting in your house is not right, send for one of our experts without delay. She will bring a "Sight Meter" with her, which measures accurately the light you get from every lamp. Her services are free.

To better your lighting, you may need merely a rearrangement of lamps. Or the raising or lowering of a shade. Or a change in the size of the bulbs. In thousands of instances these simple changes turn poor lighting into good.

To take this first step toward safeguarding the eyesight of your family, write or phone your nearest Electric Shop (see address below). Remember, this expert service is free. Or better still, visit one of these shops and see for yourself a demonstration of "right" and "wrong" lighting, plus the display of reasonably-priced handsome lamps, designed to protect and preserve that most precious of the senses, good eyesight.

This tells you what you need

FREE!
LIGHT TEST OF YOUR HOME

To help you protect the eyes of your family, we will send a lighting expert to test every reading and sewing location in your home. She will bring a "Sight Meter," which accurately records the amount of light you are getting, and will show you what you need. This service is absolutely free. You have only to telephone.

THE SEPARATE MAINTENANCE RACKET.

Disapproval of the separate maintenance provisions of the marriage law is widespread among laymen who have observed how the law operates in particular cases. It is significant that this disapproval is also widely shared among the judges who administer the law and have seen its operation in many hundreds of instances.

The provision of separate maintenance for a wife is not to be condemned under all circumstances. Marriages, as every one knows, frequently fail and frequently are dissolved. For some months after a man and wife have separated a temporary arrangement is required for the support of the woman and the children pending the final financial settlement in the divorce decree. There can be little objection to the granting of separation allowances under such circumstances. Indeed, not to grant them would be to work a serious hardship, often, upon innocent persons.

The abuse of separate maintenance is found in those cases in which the husband is forced to pay, on pain of going to jail for any delinquency, but never is sued for divorce and thus is never free to marry again should he desire to do so. He must support his wife as long as she lives, but he can never again enjoy normal family life as long as she wills otherwise. The initiative in suing for divorce is in her hands and if she does not exercise it he is helpless.

Honorable women and self-respecting women are not often found taking advantage of this law made opportunity for vengeance. The device is chiefly useful to gold diggers and the vengeful, and in their hands it is a powerful weapon.

Any one at all familiar with this and other aspects of the marriage and divorce code in Illinois can hardly fail to conclude that there is great need for reëxamination and revision. For one thing, the law should be modernized to take account of the profound changes which have taken place in the economic and social status of women in recent decades. Women—particularly young and childless women—are no longer economic dependents unless they choose to be so. That fact should be recognized in providing alimony for divorced wives. In another, the propriety of using the county jail to enforce alimony payments should also be studied and certainly the right to imprison for this kind of debt, if retained at all, should be guarded much more carefully than it now is.

So far as separate maintenance is concerned, the suggestion made the other day by Judge Desort, if adopted, would go far toward removing the abuses which now exist. Judge Desort believes that separate maintenance should continue for a period which would give ample opportunity for both the man and the woman to reflect upon the situation. If the wife had not sued during the statutory period the husband could then, if he so desired, bring action to terminate the marriage. That would not, of course, end his responsibility for the support of the wife if she were unable to support herself and it would not alter his responsibility for the support of his children. It would permit him to reëstablish a normal domestic life for himself if he so desired. It would put an end to such cases as the one cited by the judge, in which a man had paid separate maintenance to his wife for thirty years without earning the right to marry again.

REWARDS IN RUSSIA.

Numerous reports from Russia of late have related instances in which workers and producers have fallen down on their jobs and been turned over to the executioner. Slacking and incompetence, neglect, laziness and ineptness are capital crimes against society in soviet communism. In a free democratic society such remissness may cost the person his job, but in the proletarian state it may mean loss of liberty or life.

Mr. Powell's interesting Russian articles in THE TRIBUNE have revealed the other side of the canvas, showing that a bit too much competence has its perils also. The men in the slave construction gangs, having but a slight hope of eventual liberty in penury, have many of them been guilty of a crime against the state consisting of doing a little too well in enterprise for themselves. They might, for instance, have been found in possession of too many farm goods and too much live stock. Having proved that they were a bit above the average in their ability to keep away from poverty, they were reduced by the state to its most abject form in slavery and hard labor.

The blessings of a society which punishes competence and incompetence alike must be discovered wholly by dialectic philosophy or by the successful politicians who preside over the destinies of the damned.

COMMUNISTS AT THE POLLS.

The Milwaukee election commission finds a discrepancy between the number of votes cast for communist candidates in the November election and the signatures to the nominating petitions filed for the candidates before election.

The petitions bore several thousand signatures each while the best known of the candidates received only a few hundred votes. The conclusion is obvious that many of the signatures were fakes although, as the commission points out, nothing will be done about it because there were so few votes cast they had no effect whatever on the results of the election.

The vote also reveals that the Reds have received recognition in proportion to their noise rather than their numbers.

They have interfered in labor disputes until the courts and organized labor united in driving them off the picket lines. They have pestered the relief agencies and public officials with their programs and their demands and always received special petting and coddling. They have tantalized the police force until only its good discipline prevented a breakdown in efficiency. They have occupied the public streets with parades, and time and again stopped the deliberations of the city council and county board with their interruptions.

They have been public nuisances.

The election record is proof either that the Reds themselves lack sufficient conviction to vote the principles they loudly advocate or that they are so few in numbers as to be politically insignificant.

They will cease to be the cause of constant disturbance when the authorities generally, the police and the courts stop dignifying them as political crusaders and treat every offender as an individual whenever a law is violated or the public peace threatened.

THE RAILWAY INVENTOR BACK AGAIN.

"New competition, the motor vehicle in particular, has brought the railway inventor back to life, with the result that now a tidal wave of improvement seems to be sweeping the scene." Words to this effect were the keynote of a speech made by Coördinator Eastman at Atlanta recently. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE predicted that this would happen in asserting editorially not once but many times that if burocratic control of transportation does not obstruct evolution automotive transport will "make over our railways."

We find Mr. Eastman a little difficult to follow. First he avers—and later places his ideas in bills that have found their way to the congressional calendar—that rail, water, and highway carriage should be forcibly regulated into an ordained groove at the discretion of the interstate commerce commission. The trend of his thought that all forms of transportation have an economic place in a coördinated whole is theoretical in the extreme. Then the coördinator swings sharply to the practical side of the question to unfold a vision of a railway system of the future that would have nothing in common with the present operation except the flanged wheel and rails. We then feel that he is learning. We know that he has before him a vast volume of railway data that have never previously been collected.

The background for this renascence of railway inventiveness is clear. Monopoly fostered abuses and abuses bred regulation. Regulation in its turn produced standardization of rates, fares, practices, and equipment. It is axiomatic that the progress of burocratic control generates formulas and red tape. A foster child within the railway industry itself appeared. Association dictation displaced carrier initiative. Committees established train schedules, and in many instances fares and freight rates for all competing carriers could be found in one book. Individual action became taboo. In such an atmosphere creative vitality will neither develop nor thrive. If an ingenious device or adjustment cannot be adopted by all members of the association it must be suppressed.

Then automotive transportation crashed upon the tranquil scene—followed by the depression. The railways forgot prejudice and tradition to call on the inventor to produce something new. Up to the present Mr. Eastman appears to have been unable to see that history points straight and true to the mitigation rather than the extension of regulation. We trust that when he further reveals his plan it will be so drawn as to continue to encourage the inventive genius that was stressed in his speech at Atlanta. Standardization of equipment and practices in the railway field, with its system of multiple containers and independent power units, is bad enough, but in the automotive industry where the two are combined it would be disastrous.

HUEY'S PROGRAM.

[The Indianapolis News.]

Undismayed by the refusal of Abe Mickal, popular touchdown maker for Louisiana State university, to take his place in the state senate, Huey Leng plunged into the special session with his accustomed gusto. Since he has done away with opposition he is able to predict victory with considerable authority and enthusiasm. He lost only in the Mickal case. Although the footballer is three years below the constitutional age for senators, is a resident of Mississippi, and was elected by students, Huey was all ready to seat him. After a secret caucus with the coaching staf, in which it is assumed that the possibility of a new senator missing the signals was discussed, Huey consented to grant leave to him for the duration of the session.

As projected, the new program will completely centralize the government of the state in the hands of Huey's clique. Huey will name every election board member and policeman in the state. His debt program provides that all laws for the collection of debts may be suspended in individual instances when a board so rules on petition of the debtor. One act calls for the creation of the "state bar of Louisiana," a public corporation to select lawyers of the state. This is Huey's reprisal upon the Louisiana Bar association for dropping his attorney general from membership. The effect of the forty-eight proposed laws will be to convert Louisiana into a small kingdom. Great significance is attached to the recent silence of Huey on the question of seceding from the Union.

While the Kingfish is not regarded seriously by the remainder of the country, and there is something in the subservience of Louisianians that suggests a boyish delight in breaking windows to see what will happen, there is an undercurrent of seriousness that cannot be disregarded. Undoubtedly the man has a sharp and spontaneous ingenuity and a gift of public leadership. His power must be great to enable him to seize a state by appeal to a pagan streak of destructiveness in the people. Every step he takes is, of course, toward his downfall. Louisiana will waken late, as California wakened early. Perhaps his real contribution to American government is in gaining the power to do what many other demagogs merely promise to do.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE TROUBLE WITH MOST of the revivals of the good old melodramas is that the actors of today take them as a great joke, while the old time actor swayed by the sentiments of his time gave them a deadly earnestness and sincerity. I was a gallery god over at the Bijou when they put on "Suzie the Poor Servant Girl," and I stood right up and clapped my hands off when the lovely but disheveled heroine said when the villain sneered, "In rags, hey?" and the heroine proudly answered, "Rags is royal raiment when worn for virtue's sake." And when in some other play, I don't remember the name, the villain hissed—the villains always hissed—"So you doubt me pow-ah. Tomorrow and all the world will know that D'Arcy O'Brien is a bankrupt (that was the heroine's papa)," the lovely heroine said, "I would rather live in the poorhouse than be the bride of such as you"; we cheered that beautiful sentiment until we got so tired we could cheer no more. And how we hissed the nasty old villain when he said, "And at last, me pre-oud beau-tie, I have you in my pow-ah." I don't think they can put on the old time melodramas today because of the change in viewpoint. In the older days the villain, as well as the heroine and the heroine's papa and mama, believed as did the audience quite firmly in the idea that there were such things as honor, virtue, family pride, truth, right and justice. And so they spoke their lines with sincerity. They were saying what was true. And the audience applauded because they, too, believed those things. But today all that stuff is the baloney. Also it's the banana oil and the hooey. Naturally, the actors of today can't give the lines the old ring of sincerity. Think of speaking the line, "Rags are royal raiment when worn for virtue's sake." That today is one of the funniest things ever written. It's a scream.

IF YOU WILL LOVE.

Forever has a far-off tenuous sound;
If you will love me for this actual day,
I shall be satisfied and think its hours
Are long enough to have enchantment stay.

Forever is a braggart word whose core
Seems fashioned of some unsubstantial stuff.
Only the moment's pledge is ours to keep;

ADELAIDE LOVE.

THE REV. WESLEY ORD, a London preacher, says that many married people go to church only three times in their lives; the first time they are sprinkled with water, the second time they are sprinkled with rice, and the third time they are sprinkled with dirt. The Rev. Ord is Mid-Victorian; lots of people get married by a justice of the peace in Indiana or Wisconsin, and when they die they are cremated. Or they jump out of the seventh story window and their remains are collected with a shovel.

DOC NIELSEN OF NEW YORK university absolutely proves by his charts that this coming winter will be the most severe in a decade. Pooh for Doc Nielsen and New York university and his charts! Hain't the birds still hanging around in the trees in Lincoln Park? Huh? And hain't the roses still blooming in lots of places? And aren't the squirrels sitting down on the ground and eating their peanuts instead of storing them away for a hard winter? And hain't the ducks refusing to pack their trunks and go south! Well, then, it's going to be a nice, mild winter.

AND NOW WE KNOW! Science speaks and says the universe as it now exists came into being through evolution of the stars. Which gets us right back to where we started, Which came first the egg or the hen? because somebody is bound to jump up and ask where did the stars come from before they began evoluting.

THE BRITISH FARMERS are up in arms and refusing to pay the ancient ecclesiastical taxation called tithes. The government is very much worried because, having refused to pay its war debts to the United States, how can it crack down on the farmers for kicking out of paying tithes? Bah jove! the thing is catching, you know, and the silly blighters think they can welch on paying what they owe just as the government did. My word! Most 'straordinary! Howevah, it proves that the poet Johnnies were quite right when they said that the silly old barnyard fowls or the ruffed grouse or whatever they were jolly well come home to roost. What!

REVOLT.

Take down your bloody banners, War,
And cease your battle cries;
Your dreams are not worth fighting for,
Your songs are brazen lies.

Too long have poets hymned your praise.
How faithful have we been
To follow you through bitter days—
Our great and faithful sin!

But now we know you as you are,
So let your boasting cease;
We fight beneath a fairer star,
The star of love and peace.

Take down your bloody banners, War;
At last have we grown wise:
Your dreams are not worth fighting for,

RELAXATION AND REPOSE.

"THOU must be like a promontory of the sea, against which, though the waves beat continually, yet it both itself stands, and about it are those swelling waves stilled and quieted."—Marcus Aurelius.

One often hears the expression, "If only I could rest." Those who give soulful utterance to such a remark represent an all too large group of "self-exhausters." We are aware that tenseness of the mind reflects itself in rigidity of body muscles and in order to permit the body to relax the mind must be at rest. It is easy to tell the neurasthenic not to worry, but when we attempt to apply the formula to ourselves we encounter difficulty. Nevertheless, we must learn to relax. Thoughts that race must be harnessed into control.

Many persons hoodwink themselves into apparent unconcern about their affairs. On careful analysis they discover that the deluding process is apparent, not real; that on the contrary deep anxiety exists.

The first formula in securing repose is to elliminate tangible troubles. To achieve this end it may be that financial sacrifices will have to be made, and that will power will need to be exerted to the utmost. If income does not equal outgo a readjustment of the mode of living is necessary. Reconstructing one's plan of life may be required. After every possible effort has been made to eliminate actual and remedial anxieties and worries, then and then only is the individual in position to successfully conquer imaginary and intangible worries.

Much may be done by training the body in relaxation. Try sitting perfectly still in a comfortable chair with the eyes closed, not lifting a finger, and with the feeling that every muscle is at rest. Just "flop" into a chair and stay there. Gradually increase the time spent in this way. Perhaps at first one will not remain quiet for more than a minute. From time to time lengthen this period until ten or fifteen minutes or more of absolute and complete relaxation is secured. This is physical relaxation, but it enables the nerves controling the muscles to secure a brief respite from the constant telegraphing of impulses. During each day find some spot and time when this complete relaxation may be practiced.

Riding in an automobile may be quieting to the nerves or the reverse. The unrelaxed person should never drive from the back seat. If he watches every passing car, every turn out, every crossroad, jumps or gives futile starts and contracts his muscles a thousand times during an hour's ride, what should have been a rest has become an ordeal. Automobile riding is valuable only for the person who has complete confidence in the driver and who can say to himself—and believe it—"What a comfortable car, what delicious air, what gorgeous scenery."

Observe the people in a railway station waiting for a train. You can easily pick out those who are edgy and restless. The train will come when it comes and not before. How much better it is to sit quietly and amuse yourself studying the mental reactions of those about you. You can do it idly, quietly, comfortably, and with profit.

The habit of repose can be acquired. Through training, individuals who could scarcely sit still for ten seconds will be able to rest for indefinite periods. We see this exemplified frequently in hospitals. A short time ago I visited a patient who entered a hospital for a week's rest. He remained three weeks and then protested to his physician that he was not ready to return home. He said: "I have never had such a rest in my life; never before had I learned how to relax. I feel stronger, more fit, more able to carry on my affairs than I have felt for years."

What this man did in the hospital any one can do, even in the active performance of his daily tasks. It is just a habit. Why not acquire it?

SLEEPING.

Mrs. H. S. C. writes: What are the chief objections to a 10 year old child sleeping with a parent aged 50? It is so often necessary in these days of small houses and large families to double up.

REPLY.

There is an old belief—entirely without foundation—that older persons "sap the vitality" of children by sleeping with them. The chief objection is that both need rest and this is not always possible with a bedfellow. Sometimes it is much harder on the older person than on the child. If you ever try sleeping with a restless child you may find that the child has some of the attributes of the proverbial Missouri mule. Sleeping on the floor is often preferable.

WHY RUN A RISK?

Worried writes: Would a cyst of the breast become cancerous or just stay a lump? Would X-ray pictures show up cancer?

An X-ray picture would not disclose the character of the tumor. Any tumor of the breast must be regarded with suspicion. Under local anesthesia the growth can be removed and examined. Why run a risk?

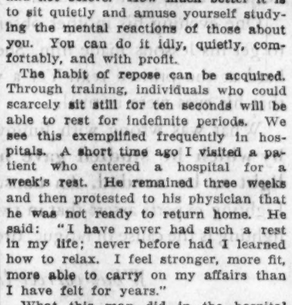
The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.



This popular error has been perpetuated by Thackeray's "Philip" [chapter XVI.]. Thackeray does not say that Dr. Guillotin died thus, but he asks the question: "Was not good Dr. Guillotin executed by his own neat invention?" It is now quite certain that Guillotin survived the terrible revolution unharmed and died a natural death in 1814.

SMITH VS. JONES.

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 17.—There have been some statements made by the administration as to the priority of human rights over property rights which are rather vague statements. In order to clarify the idea I will set forth several problems with answers:

Problem: Smith and Jones work side by side at the same job for the same pay in a factory. Getting their pay one afternoon, they stop at a beer parlor on the way home. Smith, being one of the higher type citizens that make for permanent prosperity, gathers his friends around and they commence to buy and lick up the beer very rapidly. Jones is one of the thrifty anti-social type and gets a beer and picks up the paper and sips his beer and reads the paper. At supper time they start for home together. Smith's money is gone, so he asks Jones to split with him as, he explains, his wife and children have to have some food. Jones, the dirty lug, refuses, as he says he needs the money for his own wife and children. What about it?

Answer: Jones is fortunate that Smith is generous enough to ask for only half, as Jones has merely a property right to his pay, while Smith has a human right to it and, of course, human rights come first.

Problem: Next morning Smith and his friends feel they are being ground down by capitalists, and, all having quite a headache, are just not able to stand being ground down by capitalists, so they strike. They ask Jones to strike with them, but Jones says he has a good job and a good boss and needs the money and is satisfied, and won't quit. Can you imagine a vile louse like that? What about it?

Answer: Jones should remember that he has but a property right to his job, while Smith has a human right to Jones' job. Human rights always come first. This Jones is a very tough case, a thoroughly undesirable citizen.

Problem: Jones not quitting his work, Smith and his friends picket the plant and hit Jones on the head with a ball bat as he is going to work. What about it?

Answer: Jones must bear in mind that he has but a property right to his head, while Smith has a human right to bash it in. Thank heaven that this terrible fellow Jones has finally gotten a part of what was coming to him.

DANIEL SECUNDUS.

ANYWAY, IT'S FUN.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—It is fairly well recognized that there are many things about an individual which are shown more or less clearly by his handwriting, such as neatness, disorderliness, attention to detail, sloppiness, culture, education, forcefulness, weakness, etc. Handwriting may also indicate about when the writer was born, his nationality and occupation. However, these inferences must be based on a knowledge of the development of handwriting forms and the characteristic features associated with various general classifications.

It must be remembered, too, that there are very definite limitations in the analysis of an individual handwriting. Graphology in general can hardly escape criticism as long as it fails to recognize these limitations. The evaluation of human personalities and human characters is at best a purely subjective technic even when all personal factors are integrated. When graphologists attempt character analysis on the basis of handwriting alone their deductions must be regarded as pseudo-scientific and without reliance or authentic criteria. Unfortunately, however, there will always be a large number of individuals whose superstitions and egocentricities dictate their attitudes toward the occult.

VERNE W. LYON.

IT WOULD SEEM SO.

La Grange, Ill., Nov. 15.—Your editorial of this date, entitled "A Triumph of Censorship," contains the words "willfully" and "skilfully."

Now, while it is really not so dreadfully important, to be sure, would you mind telling us why you put two "l's" in "will" and only one in "skill"? Is orthographic simplification getting too complicated for you? B. A. MEINERS.

ELEVATED CONNECTIONS.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—I transfer from a Ravenswood elevated train at State and Van Buren in the early morning hours. We arrive there just about one minute after the Jackson Park train going south. I don't understand why they cannot wait that extra minute, as there are quite a few people going south to Jackson park. The failure to wait means just about thirty to thirty-five minutes' lost time on the platform. FRANK PRIEBE.

THE LAKE FRONT.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—This is surely the day of the New Deal. Only a few days ago the federal housing bureau announced that it would locate a cheap housing project two blocks from the lake and the beautiful outer drive and thus condemn the whole of the lake front to cheap tenements and eventually slums.

Not wishing to be outdone by the federal government, Mayor Kelly hastily ordered Ald. Coughlin to push a resolution through the city council appropriating three miles of the lake front for a perpetual Coney Island.

Ye gods, what next?

R. O. THOMPSON.

JIM FARLEY'S BATH.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—I read your most interesting article today with the heading "Paneled Doors Hide Sumptuous New Deal Baths."

Pardon my ignorance but I was under the impression that the building mentioned in the article with its solid gold doorknobs, Roman baths, and Grecian pools, to say nothing of the galaxy of private elevators, sometimes used to the alarming extent of five times a week, was constructed in the former administration.

I also have it, on fairly good authority, that the ring around Jim Farley's Roman bawth was nothing more nor less than a souvenir left by no less a distinguished personage than Mr. High Hat Brown. VINCENT B. QUINN.

IT COULD.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—The letters of the election gloaters have a strangely familiar ring. The words are somewhat different, but the music is the same as when:

1. Your newspaper was on the "wrong" side of the elections in the early stages of its fight to remove a certain mayor and politician from his throttlehold on this city's government.

2. The long battle against the stinking evils of prohibition was being waged, single handedly for a time, by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Could it be that the present day correspondents are the same great minds who cheered the temporary setbacks in those earlier engagements in the cause of sound government? P. H. E.

"Champion Joiner" Gives Damaging Story.

August Jarnecke, Des Plaines excavating contractor, who started his testimony Friday as a prosecution witness against fifteen businessmen and labor union officials charged with racketeering conspiracy through operation of the Trucking and Transportation exchange [the T-N-T] told the jury in Judge William V. Brothers' court yesterday that he was a "champion joiner." He joined any and every association suggested to him, he said, if it was intimated that it would help him in his business.

Not only did he join the Associated Contractors' association and the Engineering Service corporation, T-N-T affiliates, but also the T-N-T, Janecke told the jurors. He paid a $500 membership fee in the contractors' association, as well as the regular fees charged in the other organizations, he said.

Judge Questions Defendant.

Judge Brothers questioned Jarnecke at the end of his direct examination by the prosecutors. The judge asked if his membership in the T-N-T prevented Jarnecke's getting any work he might otherwise have obtained.

"To a certain extent it did," he replied. "My membership in the T-N-T prevented me from going out soliciting trucking work. All my work had to come through the T-N-T."

During the cross-examination of Jarnecke by Benedict Short and Thomas Johnson Jr., defense attorneys, it developed that at least during the first six months of Jarnecke's membership in the Associated Contractors his joining turned out to be profitable. In return for his membership he received a $1,700 dividend from the Engineering Service corporation.

Tells of Loan from Steffin.

"It was kind of a profitable business deal," admitted Jarnecke.

The witness admitted that after he went broke he received a $200 loan to provide food for his family from John P. Steffin, executive secretary of the Associated Contractors, one of the defendants against whom Jarnecke gave the most damaging testimony. He has never repaid the loan and expects "he may never be able to in the future," he said.

Not only did Steffin advance him money, Jarnecke admitted, but Steffin also patronized his newly established poultry store last fall, buying Thanksgiving turkeys.

Bring Out Rival's Gain.

In an attempt to disprove the monopoly and price fixing counts in the T-N-T indictment, the defense lawyers made the witness admit that he lost most of his business to a rival contractor named Meyers, who was not a member of the association. He admitted he complained to T-N-T officials about Meyers, but was told by Steffin "nothing could be done about it."

The trial was adjourned after a morning session because of the funeral of Justice De Young. Cross-examination of Jarnecke will be continued today.

MAYORS OF U. S. WILL CONVENE HERE THURSDAY

Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley of New Orleans, president of the United States Conference of Mayors, which will convene at the Congress hotel Thursday, conferred with Mayor Kelly yesterday. The two, with Paul V. Betters, secretary of the conference, discussed the program for the convention.

Coöperation with the federal government on human needs will be a prime consideration of the conference, Mayor Walsmley said. "Municipalities," he said, "must find funds to carry on relief work, since the federal government has asked us to take over the care of the unemployed."

Mayor Walmsley declared he was not perturbed over the antics of Senator Huey Long in Louisiana. Asked his attitude toward the flood of legislation Long has pushed through the state legislature, he said:

"The laws are on the statute books, but enforcing them is another matter. Senator Long has tried many things, but frankly, I don't pay much attention to them."

LOOK OUT FOR THESE SYMPTOMS OF CONSTIPATION

Get Relief with Kellogg's All-Bran

Headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sallow complexions, and sleeplessness are often warning signs of common constipation. Unless checked, constipation may impair health.

Today, you can usually get rid of common constipation by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's All-Bran provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid regularity. All-Bran is also a good source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in All-Bran is much like that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears the intestines of wastes. How much better than taking patent medicines.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. Chronic cases, with every meal. If seriously ill, see your doctor. All-Bran is not a "cure-all."

Enjoy All-Bran as a cereal, or use in cooking. Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

E. S. BROUSSARD EX-SENATOR FOR LOUISIANA DIES

Heart Attack Fatal to Former Legislator.

New Iberia, La., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Former United States Senator Edwin S. Broussard of Louisiana died of a sudden heart attack today at his residence here. He had been ill for several days.

E. S. BROUSSARD.

The veteran legislator, who was 69 years old, was defeated for reelection in the last senatorial election by Senator John H. Overton of Alexandria, who had the support of Huey [Kingfish] Long's political organization.

Succeeded His Brother.

Broussard had first been elected to the United States senate in 1920 to fill the unexpired term of his brother Robert F. [Cousin Bob] Broussard, and was reëlected to two full terms in succession. Following his defeat by Overton in 1932, he filed charges with the senate which resulted in a prolonged senatorial investigation into his opponent's nomination. Overton was subsequently elected and seated.

During the exhaustive committee inquiries into Broussard's charges of corruption at the ballot boxes, enemies of the Long organization sought to oust both the "Kingfish" and Overton from the senate. However, no action was ever taken by the senate against either of the senators.

Graduate of Tulane.

Broussard was a law graduate of Tulane university. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American war and served with the Taft commission in the Philippine Islands at Manila in 1899-1901.

While in the senate, Broussard was active in the interest of a sugar and rice tarif and was known as a representative of the industrial and progressive south. Since 1932 he had been engaged in the practice of law and in business and industrial affairs of the state.

Surviving him are his widow, the former Miss Marie Patout, whom he married in 1905; five sons and one daughter.

PRIEST GETS 4 MONTHS FOR DEATH OF BOY HIT BY HIS AUTOMOBILE

TORONTO, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Justice J. A. McEvoy today sentenced the Rev. Father Peter Bart to four months' imprisonment on a charge of criminal negligence arising from the death more than a year ago of a 15 year old boy struck by an automobile the priest was driving.

The sentence came at the end of Father Bart's third trial on the charge arising from the death of Fred Rose, caddy at the Thorn Hill Golf club, near Toronto.

WESTERN ROADS DROP OVERSIZE BAGGAGE CHARGE

Announcement yesterday by H. W. Sidall, chairman of the Western Passenger association, that starting Dec. 1 the western railroads will discontinue special charges for oversize pieces of baggage was considered good news for parents who must take children with them on rail journeys. Baby carriages, high chairs, go-carts, cribs, play pens, bicycles, velocipedes, and tricycles will be carried without the oversize charges, although present value and weight limits will apply.

Sportsmen, too, will benefit, since the new provision will apply to campers' outfits, tents, poles, bedding, folding cots, cooking utensils, boxed foods, surf boards, toboggans, and similar articles.

Another new service, Mr. Sidall said, will be classification of invalids' cots and stretchers as regular baggage when accompanied by a passenger, and cots and stretchers will be returned to the starting point without additional charge.

Three Brothers Arrested in Robbery of Ruel Siegel

Three brothers were arrested and identified early this morning as members of the gang of four bandits who early yesterday robbed Ruel J. Siegel, owner of a chain of barbecue stands and restaurants, of $2,200 in his offices at 8276 South Chicago avenue. The brothers are Edward Doyle, 23 years old; John, 28, and James, 20, all of 242 West 59th place. They were seized by Sergt. Orin Ross of the detective bureau. Taken to the detective bureau, the first three brothers were identified as the robbers by Siegel and his wife, Bessie.

HIT RUN DRIVER KILLS WALKER ON CICERO STREET

While walking on the dirt shoulder of Ogden avenue at 54th avenue, Cicero, last night, Elmer Allens, 29 years old, of 2145 West 13th street, was fatally injured by a hit-and-run driver. The car dragged his body 125 feet.

John Sullivan, 35 years old, 2046 Hasting street, who was walking with Allens, stopped a passing motorist who took Allens to the Berwyn hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

Ambrose V. Conners, 42 years old, of 7411 Oglesby avenue, real estate attorney, died in St. Luke's hospital yesterday of injuries incurred Friday when his car struck a viaduct abutment at 16th and Clark streets.

Mr. Conners, who maintained offices at 79 West Monroe street, was managing director for receivers of various Chicago and suburban properties.

The death of Allens and Mr. Conners and two others yesterday increased the trafic toll in the county since Jan. 1 to 1,102. The other victims:

Patronella Swentacky, 7 years old, 3942 South Rockwell street. Killed when she was struck by an auto while crossing Archer avenue at 39th place. Samuel Levin, a salesman, driver of the car, was held for the inquest.

Peter A. Petersen, 50 years old, 6964 George street, a blacksmith. Struck and fatally injured by an automobile while crossing Cicero avenue at Dickens street. Frank Meindl, 41 years old, 5825 Roscoe street, the driver, was held for the inquest.

Trafic Expert Is Victim of Heart Disease.

Timothy J. Howard, captain of the south park police since 1926 and a member of the police force for more than 38 years, died yesterday in his home at 6546 Ingleside avenue after a long illness. Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. Thursday at the Holy Cross church, 65th street and Maryland avenue, and burial will be in the Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

Capt. Howard had been in ill health for more than a year and in May he was critically ill with pneumonia. He recovered and continued his work until three weeks ago when a heart attack forced him to his home.

Known as Trafic Expert.

He was born in Ireland April 6, 1870, and came to Chicago in 1888. He first engaged in railroad work and in 1894 was employed by the city of Chicago at the 14th street pumping station. He joined the south park police department in May, 1896, was promoted to sergeant in 1906 and to lieutenant in 1924. On July 15, 1926, he was named captain of the south park department.

Capt. Howard was regarded as a police trafic expert and he handled crowds for the Eucharistic congress, the Army-Navy game, and A Century of Progress without a major accident. In January, 1927, Howard's fellow officers presented him with a gold star in recognition of his work.

Member of Safety Committees.

Capt. Howard was a member of the street trafic committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce, Mayor Kelly's safety committee, the South Shore Country club, the Park Police Benevolent association, the Catholic Order of Foresters, and St. Jude's Policemen's league. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Baldwin Howard, and three sons, John B., Emmett T., and Harold J.

The services Thursday will be under supervision of the south park police.

W. W. DARROW'S FUNERAL WILL BE HELD TODAY

Funeral services for William W. Darrow, president of the Campbell company, long established railway supply company at 332 South Michigan avenue, who died Sunday in Philadelphia while on a business trip, will be held at 3 p. m. today from Christ church in Winnetka.

Mr. Darrow, who lived at 596 Oak street, Winnetka, was born in Janesville, Wis., Aug. 29, 1882. He was a member of the Chicago, Union League, and Chicago Athletic clubs, and of the Glenview Golf and Indian Hill clubs.

Burial Rites to Be Held Today for Lee S. James

Funeral services for Lee S. James, 7600 Eastlake terrace, for 36 years engaged in the stationery business here, will be held at 10 a. m. today from the chapel at 929 Belmont avenue. Interment will be in Milwaukee, Wis. Mr. James died Sunday on his 54th birthday. He was Chicago manager of the Quality Park Envelope company. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Louise Fesforges James, and a brother, Thomas.

BENCH AND BAR LEADERS ATTEND DE YOUNG RITES

Leaders of the bench, bar, and civic organizations stood with bared heads in the intermittent rain yesterday in tribute to Justice Frederic R. De Young of the Illinois Supreme court, who died Friday after a brief illness.

A large crowd attended the funeral service, which was held in the De Young home, 4805 Kimbark avenue. The house was filled to capacity and the yards and porches of adjacent dwellings took the overflow.

A downpour of rain began as the Rev. George H. Thomas, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church, was delivering the funeral sermon, and continued in sporadic outbursts throughout the ceremony. Many of those waiting outside were drenched and scores sought shelter on nearby porches or in parked automobiles.

Accompanied by a police escort, the funeral cortège formed at the home and proceeded to Oak Lawn cemetery.

Honorary pallbearers included Justice De Young's colleagues of the Supreme court. Others present included Mayor Kelly, State's Attorney Thomas Courtney, Rufus Dawes, and judges of the federal, Superior, Circuit, and Municipal courts.

The Criminal, Circuit, and Superior courts recessed at noon yesterday as a mark of respect. The Municipal courts observed a five minute period of silence at 11 o'clock.

Chicagoan for 65 Years Will Be Buried Today

The funeral of Mrs. Mary W. Stoll, 82 years old, 25 Burton avenue, Waukegan, who died Sunday in her home, will be held at 2 p. m. today from the residence. Burial will be in Oak Ridge cemetery. Born in Germany, Mrs. Stoll came to Chicago with her parents when she was 2 years old. Her husband, Andrew, died in 1916. She is survived by a son, Charles, of Waukegan, and three daughters, Mrs. T. Gruenwald and Mrs. Margaret Galvin of Waukegan, and Mrs. E. Meyer of Oak Park. Before moving to Waukegan 15 years ago Mrs. Stoll had lived in Chicago 65 years.

Robert J. Brunker Dies in Philadelphia Home

Robert J. Brunker, father of Albert R. Brunker of Chicago, died on Saturday at his residence in Philadelphia. He was 78 years old. Mr. Brunker was well known in Chicago. He was connected with the Western Saving Fund society of Philadelphia for 53 years, being its president and board chairman for the last 15 years. The funeral will be held today in the family home, 5208 Wayne avenue, Germantown.

FALL FATAL TO WOMAN 65.

Mrs. Christina Lupia, 65 years old, 3205 South Wells street, died in the County hospital yesterday from the effects of a fall in the kitchen of her home Oct. 7.

W-G-N FEATURES

W-G-N will broadcast from 10:30 o'clock until noon the special services of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the consecration of George Cardinal Mundelein as a bishop in the Roman Catholic church. The culminating service of the cardinal's jubilee this morning will be one of the most colorful religious ceremonies ever held in Chicago. During the broadcast the voices of Cardinal Hayes of New York and the Most Rev. Amlet Cicognani, apostolic delegate to the United States, will be heard. Father Thomas J. Burke, assistant pastor of Holy Name cathedral, and Father John McCarthy, diocesan missionary, will act as commentators describing the ceremonies. The program will be announced by Bob Elson. [Also on WMAQ at 10:30, and WBBM at 11 a. m.]

HAROLD STOKES.

Because of the special morning broadcast two programs usually heard between 10:30 and 11:15 have been moved. At 2:15, Phil Kalar, baritone, and Harold Turner, pianist. At 4 p. m. C. Houston Goudiss will talk on "What to Eat and Why."

MACK, ACTOR AND PLAYWRIGHT, DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—The death of Willard Mack, veteran playwright, actor, and film director, early today closed the career of one of the most prolific of modern dramatists and an outstanding personage among the colorful figures of the theatrical world.

He succumbed to a heart attack in his Beverly Hills home after an illness of two weeks. He was 56 years old.

His first mate was Maude Leone, well known stage beauty. His second was Pauline Frederick, star of the stage and screen. His third marriage was to Marjorie Rambeau, for many years a stage star and later a character actress of the screen. His last wife, who was at the bedside when he died, was Beatrice Banyard.

Mack was born Charles W. McLaughlin at Morristown, Ont., Canada, on Sept. 17, 1878. He shorted his name to Mack as a convenience in his theatrical life.

Some of the plays which came from his fertile pen included several "Ziegfeld Follies," "Madame X," "What Price Innocence," "Caught Short," "Tiger Rose," "Her Man," "Men of Steel," "The Dove," and many others.

IDENTIFY BODY OF GERMAN FOUND ON GALAPAGOS ISLE

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Capt. Manuel Rodriguez of the fishing boat Santo Amaro advised Mackay radio station today that he had definitely identified one of two bodies found on Marchena island of the Galapagos archipelago as that of Arthur Wittmer, a German adventurer and said the other body probably was that of Mrs. Wittmer.

The Wittmers lived on Charles island with their son, 14, and a baby of 2 years. It appeared the parents had gone to Marchena, where there is no water, and their boat was wrecked. Poles flying clothing were stuck in cracks of the lava cliff, but rescuers arrived several days after both had died. A bundle of child's clothing was found near the woman's body on the chalk white beach.

Capt. G. Allan Hancock, Los Angeles oil operator and explorer supplied Capt. Rodriguez with descriptions of the Wittmers and is leaving soon for the islands with a party of scientists of the Smithsonian institution.

Irish Governor Rejects Bid to Prince's Wedding

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Donal Buckley, governor general of the Irish Free State, has refused King George's invitation to attend the wedding of the duke of Kent and Princess Marina Nov. 29. His action caused no surprise here today, since Buckley is known as a man of simple tastes and one who dislikes ceremony. It is likely the Free State will be represented at the wedding only by J. W. Dulanty, its high commissioner in London.

HINTON, PIONEER OF THEATER, DIES AT SOLDIER HOME

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Col. George Frederic Hinton, pioneer theatrical manager and war veteran, died tonight at United States military home, Sawtelle, near here. Death was the result of a stomach ailment for which he underwent an operation two weeks ago. Col. Hinton was 71 years of age and a native of New York.

After an extended newspaper career he entered the show business and achieved note as manager of John Philip Sousa, Lillian Russell, Elsie Janis, Blanche Ring, Fred Stone and other footlight stars.

With Col. William Hayward he organized the Fifteenth New York infantry at the outbreak of the world war. It later became the Three-Hundred Sixty-Ninth infantry. The French made him an officier d'academie for conspicuous bravery.

Col. Hinton leaves his widow, Mrs. Nancy Belle Hinton, and a daughter, Margaret Sousa Hinton, both now in England, and a half brother, Arthur R. Hinton of Los Angeles.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Her eyes and her lips shine—but not her nose. Her powder is the perfect texture for her type of skin, light and smooth, but clinging. The finish it gives is perfect.

There are powders and powders, and what looks like an enhancement on one woman looks like a messy mask on others. It's pretty hard to be arbitrary about it. Skin texture and skin tone, which vary so widely in individuals, have the final say.

But we've all got to grope around until we find the right one, the one that looks completely natural and that doesn't pull little tricks on us like caking or falling off in too great a hurry. If you're on such a search here's one clew it might behoove you to follow up.

We tried a powder recently on a whole group of women, young skins and mature ones, coarse and fine, oily and dry. It is definitly light in weight, but it has remarkable staying power. We found it excellent for all skins excepting one type—the neglected kind that is as absorbent as glass and just about as shiny all the time. What that kind of skin needs is treatment, not powder—which won't cover up its sins anyway.

This powder, which is in a couple of stores around town, is beautifully soft and smooth in texture and seems to us especially successful on the delicate, dry kind of skin that is usually so difficult to endow with a matlike finish. The shades aren't off-color—none of that nuance of tone that so often turns out to be yellowish and makes the wearer look as though she needs plenty of fresh air and lots of fruits and vegetables. Choose the right shade for you and it seems to blend perfectly with the skin.

While we're on the subject, can we plead again for our pet method of powdering? With a bit of cotton or a soft puff pat it on—not in—generously, all over the face, the forehead and the throat. Then smooth it off with a puff or, preferably, a brush. If you've been a rubber-inner and you try this you'll be charmed at the difference in finish it makes. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Edith Mason Triumphs in "La Traviata"

Best Violetta in Memory of Reviewer.

Violetta Valery.....Edith Mason
Flora Bervoix, her friend..Elizabeth Kerr
Alfredo Germont.....Giuseppe Bentonelli
Giorgio Germont, his father.....John Charles Thomas
Baron Douphal.....Wilfred Engelman
Dr. Grenvil.....Teodor Lovich
Annina.....Hazel Sanborn
Conductor.....Gennaro Papi

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Giuseppe Verdi was a wise person. He wrote operas that not only made an immediate hit but have continued to make a hit ever since. If you are in the state of mind where "La Traviata" seems a bit aged to you, you should have heard the performance at the Civic Opera house last night.

I, one of the spectators in the capacity house, desire to testify that never before have I heard the rôle of Violetta sung as Miss Mason sang it, and I have been listening to "La Traviata" ever since Tetrazzini was in her prime. It was Miss Mason's first appearance here this season; it was her first performance of the part on any stage, and it was a glorious testimonial to the art of Verdi and the art of singing.

For it was simply and purely a vocal success on her part. She even went to the point, perhaps daringly, of cutting out the high note with which most singers usually embellish "Ah, fors è lui." But simply by dint of vocal quality, of purity and expressiveness of tone, she put over something that was both delightful music and sincere, moving drama.

This is what calls out a response from the habitual attendant of opera, particularly of old opera. It was technically expert singing, but it went behind good singing and became high art.

At that, she was not the only one in the operatic picture. I should figure Mr. Bentonelli about one hundred per cent better than he was in "Tosca" the other night, not that he was greatly different—he was not—but because the rôle of young Germont fitted him so much better. It is a part that he ought to do for years to come. He can, and did, make it individual and distinctive.

And there was Mr. Thomas as the elder Germont, a magnificent singer and a striking personality, the only baritone in memory who has been able to change "Di Provenza" from five minutes of boredom to five minutes of alert, moving, enthusiastic drama.

BRILLIANT AUDIENCE

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

Judging by the smart audience at last night's performance of "La Traviata" by the Chicago Grand Opera company, black velvet, pearls and ermine are almost a uniform for well dressed women past their first youth, and a very stunning, becoming uniform it is, too. And it never is monotonous, for different tastes and styles provide plenty of variation.

Traditionally Monday night is THE night of the week during the opera season and last night the theater presented almost as gala an appearance as it did at the première a week ago Saturday night. Edith Mason, John Charles Thomas, and Giuseppe Bentonelli are favorites with socialites and many of their friends were sitting well down in front last night instead of in the boxes.

Miss Kate Buckingham, who has a very real interest in young Bentonelli's career, for he is her protégé, was in about the sixth row, beaming with pride except when she frowned with displeasure at the unbecoming reddish brown wig the tenor was wearing. "Scalp him" she whispered to a friend when he first appeared, and "he looks like an Oklahoma rabbit hunter in that wig" was another of her remarks that brought a smile to the lips of those who heard her.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

A RESIDENT of Mishawaka, Ind.—her name was Hazel Webster—writes that she was showing a friend over the Notre Dame campus and wished to go inside the new chapel at Alumni hall to see the wood carvings. She had a small but lively wire haired terrier [lively and wire haired are tautological] with her, and doubted that the student guide would permit her to enter. Picking up the dog and tucking her under her arm, she inquired:

"If I carry the dog may we go in?"

The guide looked doubtful, then answered:

The young man grinned.

"Go on in. It'll be all right with God if she does bark," he said.

PROBABLY the best known panhandlers in Oak Park are three little squirrels, named by the children of the Whittier school Susie, Ignatz, and Billy. The three are proficient in their method of approach. They suddenly appear on a tree trunk near the sidewalk at about the height of the pedestrian and appealingly hold out one—and sometimes both—front paws. If no alms are forthcoming the little beggars scamper down the tree and hop along the parkway, keeping pace with their victim. They like chocolate candy as well as nuts, and devour cookies, sausage, and cantaloupe with equal zest. Their favorite morsel, however, is toast spread with peanut butter.

SOME one said once that the reason Frieda Foltz collected penguins was because, sitting about in their white shirt fronts and dinner jackets, it looked as if she were giving a party even when she wasn't. Miss Foltz's celebrated cocktail parties now are permanently portrayed in a mural, just completed by Burnet Shryock, in the room in her East Division street apartment in which her "littlest" parties are held. The room has been done over in deep blue, and the painting is done in primary colors. Princess Rostislav and Peggy Hambleton, portraits of both of whom Mr. Shryock already had painted, are in the mural, and the Paget Cadys and several others, including Patsy, the wire haired fox terrier, and Penny, the Scottie puppy. Also William, the cocktail shaker-upper, in his white coat.

A FRIEND who heard Carleton Smith lecture in the east on music and musicians repeats his story about the English peer, given to dropping asleep at odd moments. Frequently, after luncheon, he fell asleep and dreamed that he was making a speech in the house of lords. And one day he woke and found he really was.

ONE of the loveliest weddings ever—I think—was one in Lake Forest Saturday afternoon—a small, candle lit wedding, with a bride so young and lovely in her quaint white satin gown and misty veil, and a bridegroom so tall and young and earnest as he made his vows as to bring a lump to the throat. The altar of oak leaves with twin urns of yellow chrysanthemums flanked by candelabra at one end of the drawing room was balanced by the expanse of autumn countryside framed by the great window at the other end of the rom. The bride's mother, in soft green velvet, walked to the altar with her two young sons pressing close on either side, and there was a tiny bridesmaid in a wide skirt carrying a light bouquet. There was string music from a tiny balcony, and there was champagne and a wedding tea. The bride threw her bouquet from the staircase and a half hour later escaped with her bridegroom amid a shower of rice into the November twilight. . . . It all sounds like a great many other weddings, but it was quite different somehow and exactly as a wedding should be. You'll just have to take my word for it. It was, of course, the wedding of Georgiana MacArthur, daughter of the Alfred MacArthurs, and Henry B. Gardner Jr. of Providence.

Add Another Holiday Party for Debutantes

G. H. Highs to Entertain for Granddaughter.

BY JUDITH CASS.

ALREADY engagement pads belonging to the debutantes and their beaux have many entries for the Christmas holidays, and it is certain that they will be as busy and gay at that time as their younger sisters and brothers who will be vacationing from school then.

The evening of Wednesday, Dec. 26, had been free for the debutante set since Miss Mary Elizabeth Reid decided to be a bride instead of a debutante this winter and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan S. Reid, canceled plans for her debut dinner dance. Now that date has been taken by Mr. and Mrs. George Henry High who will entertain for their granddaughter, Miss Gwendolyn Bowen, debutante daughter of the junior Joseph Tilton Bowens. Mr. and Mrs. High, who are living this winter at 1301 North State street, will give a dinner dance at the Casino.

Miss Bowen's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Bowen Sr., is planning to entertain for her this winter, too, and so are her father's sisters, Mrs. William McCormick Blair and Mrs. Louise de Koven Phelps, but they are waiting to make definite plans when Miss Bowen and her mother return about Dec. 1 from the east where they went for several of the football games and a round of visits.

Donald McPhersons to Give Luncheon.

Another holiday party for the debs that is sure to be a jolly one is a buffet luncheon that the Donald F. McPhersons and Miss Fanny will give on Sunday, Dec. 30, at their home in Winnetka. A sleigh ride is the entertainment planned for after luncheon but, of course, the weather will determine whether that idea can be carried through. If we do not have a white Christmas, a baseball game will be in order that afternoon.

Mrs. R. Douglas Stuart is planning a dinner for Fanny before the Princeton Triangle club performance, the date of which is not definite yet, although Dec. 22 is being spoken of as the probable date upon which the Trianglers will visit us this year.

If the Trianglers do come on the 22d the Howell B. Ermingers and the Chauncey B. Borlands will switch their dinner dance for their debutante daughters, Bertha Erminger and Martha Borland, from that night to the night before, Friday, Dec. 21, but they are waiting to hear from Princeton before they definitly make the change. The ball that the John L. Fortunes, Henry B. Babsons and George B. Harringtons have planned for Dec. 22 will be one of the gayest of the season, without a doubt, if the Princeton men are here for it.

Settlement Board Elects Officers.

Mrs. Bowen Sr. is opening her residence at 1430 Astor street today for a sale of the beautiful things made by the Italian women at the Eli Bates Settlement house. Her daughter, Mrs. Blair, is in charge of the sale. Among those assisting her will be Mrs. Wesley M. Dixon, who yesterday at the annual meeting was reelected chairman of the board.

The other new officers are: First vice chairman, Mrs. William M. Spencer; second vice chairman, Miss Nancy Avery; recording secretary, Miss Virginia Winston; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Elliott Donnelley.

Pouring this afternoon at the tea that will follow the annual meeting of the Needlework and Textile guild of the Art institute will be Mrs. Fred-

Mrs. John Andrews King of Lake Forest won't be putting on her riding habit today, for she is going to spend the day in town, first assisting at the annual holiday sale the board of the Eli Bates Settlement house will hold at the residence of Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, 1430 Astor street, and then pouring at the tea the Needlework and Textile Guild will give at the Art institute. Mrs. King is active in the affairs of the Mill Creek Hunt, which has decided not to have a hunt ball to end the season this year.

Explains How Conceit Shows in Handwriting

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.

[Copyright: 1934: By Muriel Stafford.]

Your various handwritings fascinate me to such an extent that I analyze handwritings until after midnight very often without even realizing the time. Just one thing troubles me. Due to the avalanche of mail that is pouring in it is necessary to discard all letters that do not comply with directions. Some persons forget to inclose the necessary dime. Others forget the stamped inclosed envelope. Please read over the directions carefully, for I want you to receive your analysis as much as you do.

Today I shall tell you some of the ways to detect conceit in handwriting. Self-assurance and conceit must not be confused. One is a help and the other is a handicap. A few of those who write to me overestimate their ability, but many are underestimating themselves. They are too modest and unassuming for their own good.

Conceit is much like ignorance. The less we think we have it the more likely we are to have it. If you are seriously afraid that you are conceited, don't worry. I have found that such persons tend to be just the opposite.

Often it is difficult to determine a conceited person except by his handwriting. Some folks who sound vain are desperately trying to convince themselves, as well as you that what they say is true. A really conceited person doesn't need to be told that he is wonderful, though he, too, may mention it for your benefit.

Conceited people have an exaggerated sense of self-importance and superiority that causes them to look down upon others. Some of their letters will have that same haughty air. You will probably find the small letter "e" much higher and more elaborate than it should be. Several other letters may rear up noticeably, too.

While there are exceptions, you will find that the less pretentious a writing is the less vanity and conceit the writer is likely to possess. Be wary in your judgments, though. A writing that may appear pretentious to you may really be an expression of a forceful, dynamic personality.

Capitals show most clearly just how near normal your opinion of yourself actually is. The normal size or height of capitals is about twice that of the small letters. Too much flourish in an oversized capital tells a tale and not a tale of modesty.

If the capitals are not much higher than the small letters and simply made the writer is unassuming and not very self-confident. Such writers often have excellent minds, with fine powers of concentration, but don't forget that it is possible to be too modest for your own good. Many quick thinking men and women with fine characters and abilities are so adverse to asserting themselves that they aren't appreciated.

one touch of nature makes the whole

This is the handwriting of a dearly loved bishop with a generous and charitable nature. He does not nearly appreciate himself, as you can see from the size of his capital "O."

Yet, when I told this man that he was modest and unassuming he looked at me with gentle surprise. "I'm afraid you're mistaken on that point," he said. No, modest people never really believe they are modest.

Good Morning!

Miss Hutchinson appeared in pictures once before—with Mary Pickford in the silent film "The Little Princess." Recently she's been with Eva Le Gallienne's Civic Repertory players. Now that we have her, I hope we keep her.

"Happiness Ahead" is a joyously human little affair concerned with the romance of a rich girl who falls in love with a poor boy. [Cinderella theme reversed.]

Joan is bored to tears with the gilded existence that's been doled out to her. She's tired of stuffed shirts and stringed orchestras. She yearns for fun, noise.

One New Year's eve, a-quest for adventure, she lands in a Chinese restaurant. A party of young folks from a different strata of life include her in their party. And so she meets romance . . . !

But how to conceal her real identity from the working boy with whom she's fallen in love and who, she feels would turn her down like a cold burned pancake were he to realize that deception's being practiced upon him . . . ?

The picture has been splendidly directed and is seasoned with catchy music. "Happiness Ahead" is the theme song. "Pop Goes Your Heart" is another hummer's joy.

Dick Powell, who usually goes with Miss Ruby Keeler in the pictures, performs in his usual amiable, able fashion, caroling melodiously when script demands. As usual, you don't care a lot for him at first, but end by liking him much. John Halliday as Joan's understanding millionaire father is just fine and Allen Jenkins—WHY HAS HE GOT THAT MUSTACHE!—Frank McHugh, Dorothy Donnelly et al. turn out extra nice work.

"Happiness Ahead" is clean from the word go. It's amusing and actionful. I bet you'll like it.

Finds Women See Idealistic Pattern in Europe's New Laws

Miss Ruth Woodsmall, national Y. W. C. A. staf member just returned from a study tour of Germany, will be entertained at a tea this afternoon at the Harriet Hammond McCormick Y. W. C. A., 1001 North Dearborn street, by the public affairs committee of the association. She will speak on "Women of Europe in the Present Situation."

Miss Woodsmall, who arrived in Chicago last night, said that for the most part European women are accepting an idealistic interpretation of the limitations put on them by government.

"They don't regard the fact that they will no longer contribute along independent lines as a loss," Miss Woodsmall said. "They feel it is better for their efforts to be along lines of their special gifts as women."

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 19.—Charles Dickens' characters today came to life in the very room in which the great novelist first conceived them.

America's film version of "Great Expectation" was given its English premiere in the study of Dickens' house at 48 Doughty street. A small audience of trustees of Dickens' house and the Council of Dickens' fellowship sat at rapt attention for some two hours while one after another of the familiar figures stepped out of Dickens' pages on to the screen.

After the showing, the Dickensians repaired to a luncheon in Dickens' room where Walter Dexter, editor of the Dickensian, paid tribute to the faithful film adaptation of the story.

The Forgotten Honeymoon

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Rhoda Cornboise's engagement to Maj. Ralph Stornack is arranged by her ambitious mother. Rhoda is in love with Colin Briarley, who is in jail for the murder of a Canadian solicitor in a London night club. Colin was alone at the table with the Canadian when the lights went out and he was struck in the throat by a tableknife. Chief witness against Colin was Maj. Stornack, who was the solicitor's host. Rhoda met Stornack when he called to express his regret for the testimony he had to give at her lover's trial. Jack Caermaen, an old pal of Colin's, is his warder. He plots Colin's escape by taking Colin's place as prisoner, allowing Colin to use his week's vacation. Nobody looks closely at prisoners, he explains, and warders are frequently changed. Rhoda elopes with Colin on the eve of her marriage to Stornack. They spend a brief honeymoon in Wales. Then Colin returns to prison. Rhoda returns home and feigns a lapse of memory. Her mother besieges her to marry Stornack, who is still willing. He and his confederates know she has inherited the fortune of a Canadian relative. The solicitor had come to London to tell her of it. Stornack calls on Caermaen and they quarrel. Jack suspects Stornack of the crime for which Colin was convicted. Rhoda, who is expecting a baby, leaves home and stays with friends of Caermaen's, the Rawlings, in London. Her mother follows with a court order, placing Rhoda under her charge. Caermaen and his solicitor plan to investigate Stornack. Mrs. Cornboise takes Rhoda to France, where her son is born. Her mother sends the baby away. Rhoda arranges to see him and have him properly cared for. She and her mother return to London. Caermaen arranges to get Colin out of prison again for a few days to have him identify a confederate of Stornack's. Thinking Rhoda is still in France he plans to fly there. Rhoda, with her mother, calls on Mrs. Rawlings. Colin had just left there for the aerodrome. Mrs. Rawlings gets word secretly to Rhoda, who evades her mother and taxies to the aerodrome in time to meet Colin. Her mother learns from the taxi driver where she had gone.

INSTALMENT XXVI.

A VISIT TO THEIR CHILD.

You cannot, even at Croydon aerodrome, hail an aeroplane as you would hail a taxi, and order it to fly away with you. Arrangements have to be made with the company and a pilot for the machine allotted—and papers have to be examined by government officials.

All this had been done by Jack Caermaen on Colin's behalf. But Colin himself asked for a delay when he had received Mrs. Rawlings' telephone message.

He led Rhoda into the main hall, then left her to speak to the clerk whom he had previously interviewed.

"My wife has turned up," he announced. "And we would now like to start as soon as possible."

The clerk spoke on a telephone, then turned to Colin.

"As a matter of fact, sir, Capt. Lissett is just having his lunch. Would it suit you to start in fifteen minutes? If not, of course——"

"That'll suit us perfectly," said Colin. "Perhaps we could go and sit in the plane."

Rhoda was waiting for him expectantly, for he had said no word of his plan.

"We're going to see whether I approve of Colin Jack," he told her. "Come along."

"But how tiny it is!" exclaimed Rhoda. "I thought they held thirty or forty people."

He helped her into a little saloon, which at a pinch would accommodate four persons. Colin tipped the messenger and got rid of him. Then, in the comparative darkness and solitude, it was no longer necessary to talk about aeroplanes—or anything else.

He climbed at once into the cockpit and mechanics buzzed round them.

In a minute the din grew to a roar as the plane ran forward on its wheels and almost before she was aware of it they had left the ground.

The pilot passed in a half spiral over the aerodrome. Rhoda, looking out of the window, watched, fascinated, while the ground slipped away beneath her.

Then she clutched Colin's arm.

"Look! There's father!" she exclaimed, but he could not hear her.

The little figure stood by itself near the entrance hall. As she watched, her father took out his handkerchief and waved. Rhoda waved back and a second later he was lost to view.

It was Mrs. Cornboise herself who had insisted on her husband waiting outside. When it came to dealing with minor officials he was an encumbrance.

Rhoda's aeroplane was already a tiny speck in the sky when Mrs. Cornboise rejoined her husband.

"Of course, Rhoda has become very clever at every kind of deceit," she said grimly. "And she used to be such a straightforward child. She could not really have come here because there has been no liner leaving and none will leave again today. Only a very deceitful girl would think of a trick like that."

"Your conclusions would be justified if your basis of fact were not wholly illusory. Rhoda may be deceitful but as yet we have no evidence thereof. She came to the aerodrome exactly as she intended."

"How do you know?"

"I saw no reason for haste. There is no means of stopping her save by applying to the Royal Air force to shoot her down. Such a request would inevitably be met with refusal. In the circumstances, therefore——"

Mr. Cornboise found he was talking to himself, for his wife had rushed back into the hall. This time she asked for the departmental manager.

"An aeroplane left here within the last five minutes," she announced. "I would be obliged if you would give me the names of the persons on board and their destination. If necessary I can obtain official backing in support of my request."

"There is no need for official backing," said the manager. "The company does not accept confidential instructions except from the government. All flights with passengers, pilot and destination are recorded in this book, which is open to public inspection. Allow me to show it to you."

The under-manager showed her a record of the number and details of the aeroplane, the name of the pilot, and the fact that it was privately chartered by a Mr. Smith, that with him was his wife and that their destination was Paris.

Mrs. Cornboise could do nothing but thank him as politely as she was able. She was just turning away when she was struck with an idea.

"I have very strong reasons for wishing to know when Mr. and Mrs. Smith—" she gulped on the name—"are likely to return."

"I cannot tell you now, but you can easily find out," said the manager. "When any aeroplane intends to land here from the continent—whether our own or others—a message is telegraphed to us in advance, giving the expected time of arrival. If you will go to that window marked 'Telegrams' you can arrange to have a telegram sent to you as soon as instructions are received here."

Mrs. Cornboise thanked him and went to the window. She addressed a telegram to herself at the Dangerfield hotel.

"I think, my dear," said Mr. Cornboise, "we had better go back to the hotel."

"I will go back to the hotel," answered his wife. "You must go to your club—and stay there. I will send on your things. You must stay there until I send you word that Rhoda has come back. We must account for Rhoda's absence! I shall tell people that she has gone with you to see your aged aunt."

Meanwhile, the little plane was tearing its way through the air. In ten minutes they could see the channel and in another ten minutes they were flying over it.

These two determined lovers watched it all with a casual eye. They were snatching at the love that the organized might of civilization would deny them. And they could afford to care nothing for their circumstances.

In time the machine jerked and bumped them into the aerodrome at Paris and they promptly forgot it as they hurried in a car to the nursery.

As the car turned into the drive, Colin saw babies and young children on the lawn, as Rhoda had seen them on her first visit. But the sight of them seemed to fill him with alarm.

"Rhoda! Suppose they mix the labels or something—and give us the wrong baby?"

"Do you think I wouldn't know my own child?" she teased him.

"Well, yes—no. I don't know. One has heard of the thing happening. I suppose, if you look at the thing sensibly, one young baby must be awfully like another."

"Not ours!" asserted Rhoda. And then: "Have you forgotten that he has a mark above his left elbow?"

"Phew! That ought to clinch it," said Colin with vast relief.

"Two is company, don't you think?"
"If the two are Liederkranz and beer."

Liederkranz and beer are good for company, too.

Next time the party gets to the "songs-in-the-kitchen" stage (or even if it doesn't), bring out a package of tawny-crusted; creamy-centered Liederkranz and a few bottles of cold beer.

Will your guests like it? Say, they'll vote you the greatest host in the world!

Breakston Has Softer Touch in Role of Puck

Better than Rooney in Ballet Scenes.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Max Reinhardt's production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," at the Auditorium theater, now has Georgie Breakston as its Puck instead of Mickey Rooney, who flitted back to Hollywood like a true elf after he had played three performances. This change of cast merely means the replacement of one cinema prodigy with another, for Master Georgie is quite a big little man of the films: witness the motion picture version of Dickens' "Great Expectations," which is current at the Palace theater. He is the juvenile Pip in that story.

Breakston is a gentler lad than Rooney, and his interpretation of Puck therefore contains less of the boisterous American brat. Except for this softening of the comic stroke, however, the two character studies are identical. In the ballet episodes, where Puck frolics in the enchanted grove with the dancing fairies, Breakston fits into the supernatural atmosphere better than Master Rooney.

A second view of this richly and beautifully staged production confirms my first impression of its extraordinary value as a Shakespearean spectacle. It is a remarkable achievement in stagecraft and a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for Chicago playgoers.

The little theater group at the Jewish People's institute has just finished a three nights' session with a new play of Chicago authorship—"Grim Festival," by Edwin L. and Albert Barker. This father-and-son collaboration, although unknown in Chicago literary circles, has two or three Broadway productions on its record, and "Grim Festival" may also turn up in the announcements of New York producers a few months or a year hence.

The play deals with the sudden boom of a small town's activities that follows a sensational murder mystery, and the deflation that is the aftermath. The Barkers, who are advertising men, seem to specialize in satirical treatment of the American penchant for ballyhoo. Their "Man on Stilts," staged in the east by Arthur Hopkins in 1931, was apparently inspired by C. C. Pyle's "Bunion Derby," or cross-country running carnival, some years back.

Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" will be staged in the Elizabethan manner by students in the drama department of Mundelein college next Friday, Saturday, Sunday, and Monday nights. The technique of the Old Globe theater at the Fair will be followed.

The Illinois theater, one of Chicago's leading legitimate playhouses from 1900 until 1932, is scheduled for the wreckers, according to an announcement which was recently sent to its bondholders. Its unpaid taxes amount to $88,000, and the expense of putting it into proper condition, after two years of neglect, would amount to $15,000. Therefore there are no bidders for its lease. The site will be used as a parking place.

C. S. Williams Shows Notable Portraits Here

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

An important and brilliant exhibition of portraits by Charles Sneed Williams opened yesterday in the Ackermann galleries, 408 South Michigan avenue. Mr. Williams has spent the last year in Paris and London and has brought back with him several gorgeous portraits of people famous in both France and England.

One of the finest of the portraits is that of Robert W. Bingham, United States ambassador to the Court of St. James's; it is a striking likness as well as an excellent piece of painting. Mr. Bingham is shown in the robes of the College of London, he being the first American ambassador to have received such a distinguished honor.

From the embassy to the stage is a step that has been accomplished at times in frivolous manner. But Mr. Williams makes the passage with due gravity and offers us his impression of Mlle. Yvonne Printemps, a favorite of the Paris stage, who today is the toast of New York playgoers. Mlle. Printemps is shown in an evening gown with a cloak. Around her neck is a string of pearls loosely looped, which Mr. Williams says he painted rather rapidly and carelessly, not giving it much thought as it was in the shadow of the high collar of the cloak. The actress noticed those quick, sure strokes and said laughingly: "Do you realize these are the most important pearls in France?"

"Not Woolworth, then?" answered the artist.

"They're worth a quarter of a million dollars," answered Mlle. Printemps seriously, but with the twinkle in her eye which the painter has caught.

The portrait of La Marquise de Virieu is an exquisite canvas, the texture of skin and hair, the coloring, the composition, each point may only be stressed as admirable. "Mrs. James A. Patten" is another distinguished and beautiful portrait; the grace of the hands is remarkable.

"Mrs. Franklin Callahan" is a charming portrait of a young woman, as is the delightful "Miss Isobel Davis." "La Baronne Jean Pellence," youthful, in white, with reddish hair, is fascinating. The just finished portrait of Howard Clements is a strong and fine piece of work.

The exhibition will continue to Dec. 8 and is well worth seeing.

Cranberries Do Nobly in Many New Preserves

The Fourth Chicago Tribune School of Cookery continues today at the Aragon ballroom, and also will be held there Nov. 21, 22, and 23. Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, famous home economics expert, in co operation with Miss Mary Meade, Tribune Cooking Editor, will conduct the sessions. All schools will begin at 12:30 o'clock.

BY MARY MEADE.

With Thanksgiving and Christmas feasts perched just around the next snowdrift it's high time that the summer's jams and jellies shouldered one another along on the preserve shelf and made room for the cranberry special. For these merry little berries are highly indignant if they're given no more than a place in cranberry sauce with the turkey. They tease to get into jellies, relishes, jams, and conserves. Even the thought of a rousing good marmalade does not daunt them.

They're not a bit high-hat about their associates, either. Banana and cranberry jam is a thing of joy to the young school luncher. Cranberry and orange conserve, with flourishes of nuts and raisins and flavoring of honey, is a prime flatterer for the cold meat platter. Likely the simplest of the lot is

[Uncooked.]
1 pound cranberries
1 to 1½ oranges
2 cups sugar

Run the cranberries through a meat grinder. Pare the orange and section it. Remove the seeds and all the white membrane, leaving the pulp exposed. Put the rind and the pulp through the grinder and mix with the cranberries and the sugar. Let stand for a few hours before serving, or if desired, pour into clean glasses, seal with paraffin, and store.

Cranberry Jam.
2 pounds cranberries
1 cup seedless raisins
2 oranges
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups water
3 cups sugar

Wash the picked over berries and the raisins. Peel the oranges, removing the seeds and membrane. Chop all the fruits together. Add the salt, water, and sugar. Cook until thick, about 30 minutes, stirring frequently. Pour at once into sterilized jars, sealing with melted paraffin.

But if you don't have time for the half hour cooking, try a modern time saving method.

Banana and Cranberry Jam.
2 cups banana pulp
3 cups prepared cranberries
3 pounds sugar
½ bottle fruit pectin

To prepare the cranberries, pick over, then add 1½ cups of water to 1 quart of the fully ripened berries. Bring to a boil, cover, and simmer for 10 minutes. You will need about 6 fully ripened bananas for 2 cups of pulp. Now measure the sugar, and prepared cranberries, and banana pulp into a large kettle. Mix well and bring to a fully rolling boil over a hot burner. Stir constantly. Boil hard for 1 minute. Then remove from the fire and stir in the pectin. Skim and pour quickly into hot sterile glasses. Paraffin the hot jam at once. About 12 eight ounce jelly glasses will be needed.

Poise and Self-Assurance Are Fundamental in Charm

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Yesterday I introduced charm as the subject into which we'd all better be looking, since it's the future measuring rod of attractive women, because women are getting by as attractive who wouldn't win the consolation prize in a beauty contest on straight beauty points.

Yes, there is another world to conquer. There always is. What it is after you become a rare charmer I don't know just now. But there's enough to do with charm in the meantime, or about charm, about acquiring it for yourself and tasting its rich rewards.

I'd say begin with poise. That's the heartbeat of all your gracious movements and gestures, your charming ways, bolstering up that feeling of inferiority. The feeling that charm cannot be yours is ridiculous in the light of what you've done for yourself in a beauty way. You've got to put a better price on your nice, well-groomed head than that. But it's your job to inflate that ego of yours a bit. And you can give it a terrific lift by practicing the physical things that calm down nerves and relax tightly strung muscles. Every graceless move and gesture comes from a tense, strung up, muscle bound center, such as the wrist, the legs, the neck, and so on. But more of charm tomorrow.

Starts Today—Until Sunday

erick T. Haskell, Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, Mrs. John Andrews King, and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr. The tea will open an exhibition of Mrs. Georgiana Brown Harbeson's needlework pictures in gallery 3, Allerton wing of the institute.

Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, whose nickname is "Gypsy" because of her fortune telling ability, will be one of the featured attractions at the St. Chrysostom's Women's guild and auxiliary's annual sale Thursday and Friday. It is expected that every one will be anxious to have a peep into the future with Mrs. Lewis as the guide.

Mrs. Lewis is giving a luncheon tomorrow at the Arts club for twenty guests, the same number she entertained at the Casino Sunday evening, for the Infante Don Alfonso of Orleans. Mrs. Heaton Owsley, who recently returned from a trip around the world, and is now at home in the Ambassador East, will be one of Mrs. Lewis' guests tomorrow. The hostess and most of the guests will go on to the English Speaking union reception for Sir George and Lady Schuster.

Will Speak at Reception.

The Schusters arrived last night from Washington and are at the Drake. Letters telling of their charm and great social success in Montreal and Toronto have preceded them and society is planning to extend a warm welcome to them.

Sir George served with distinction through the world war, and in 1919 was sent to Russia with the Murmansk force where he received three decorations. He was finance minister to the executive council of the viceroy of India from 1928 to 1934, and during that time he acted as financial adviser to several empire committees, also. He is to give a short address at the reception the English Speaking union is giving for him and his wife tomorrow at 3:30 o'clock in the lounge of the Tavern club. Dr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Small are among those who have received letters asking them to call on the Schusters for Dr. Small's sister, Mrs. Hanbury Budden of Montreal, saw quite a bit of them when they were there.

Opera Guarantors to Be Entertained.

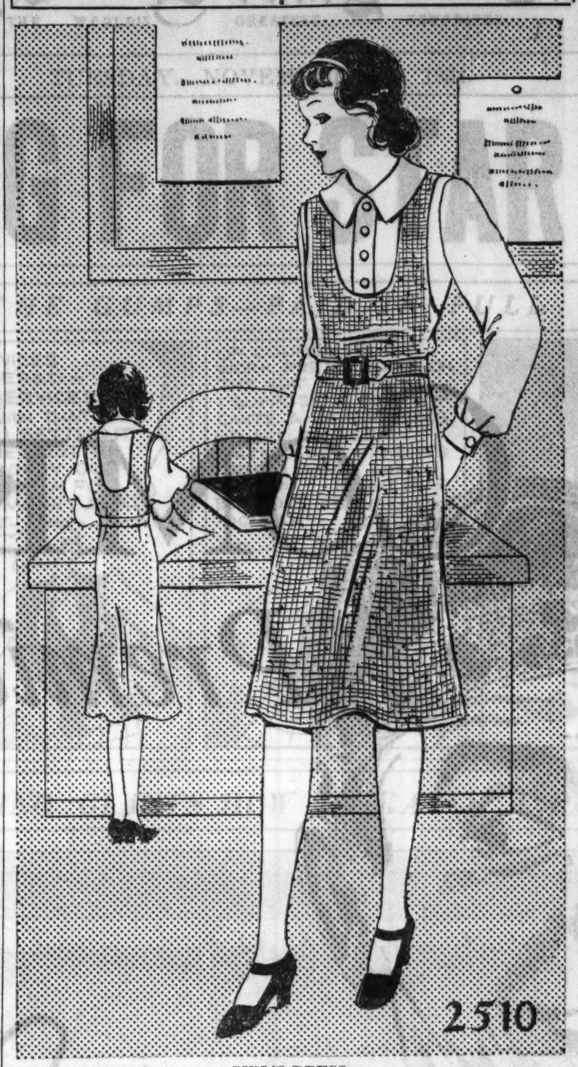
The guarantors of the Chicago Grand Opera company will be presented with engraved certificates of appreciation of their services at a dinner that George Ives Haight, chairman of the guarantors' fund, and Mrs. Haight are giving tomorrow night for those who have contributed to the guarantee fund this season. The party is to be in the Electric club and after dinner the 150 guests will descend to the Opera house to hear "Tosca."

Miss Alice May Dickinson and Miss Janet Ayer will be hostesses at a dinner at the Saddle and Cycle club Thanksgiving night for Miss Barbara Graf and Charles Stickney Connell who will be married Dec. 1, at the Fortnightly. Miss Ayer will be a bridesmaid for Miss Graf.

Miss Jean Hyman will give a postnupital party Friday for Mrs. Charles Y. Freeman Jr., the former Helen Marie Castle. Miss Hyman, who is engaged to Lincoln Small Harris, has invited several of Mrs. Freeman's closest friends to luncheon.

Another recent bride, who is being entertained is Mrs. John S. Blankenhorn, the former Marjorie White of Chicago and Pasadena. Since she and her husband moved here a month ago several of her schoolmates at Miss Wheeler's in Providence, R. I., have had parties for her. The former Imogene Bucklin and her husband, Frederic M. Hurd, and mother, Mrs. Vail R. Bucklin, have invited a few guests for a buffet supper Sunday night in the Bucklins' Astor street apartment, to meet Mr. and Mrs. Blankenhorn.

Tailored Jumper for School



GIRL'S DRESS.

This pretty jumper dress of gay plaided woolen has a clever tailored blouse of cotton broadcloth, buttoned up to a Peter Pan collar. Both girls and mothers like this sort of dress for, with several different blouses, it seems like as many different dresses. For cold days a blouse of plain woolen will be smart. A plain navy blue woolen for the jumper, with a bright red wool crêpe blouse, and perhaps another of gay printed challis, are other suggestions.

Stammering of Small Child Is Best Ignored

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: Will you please tell me what can be done to help a 2½ year old youngster overcome stammering?"

Our answer is: I do not think you should worry yet about your little girl's stammering. At about this age many little children go through a phase of stammering or stuttering. In any case, the thing to do at present is to pay no attention to it. If you make a fuss over it and appear anxious you will probably accentuate the habit, which is often only temporary. At this age when children are acquiring the two skills, of walking and managing themselves generally, and that of speech, they frequently stammer.

Is your little girl by any chance left-handed? And are you trying to change her to right-handedness? This is harmful and is frequently the cause of speech defects and other nervous habits. We have a leaflet on this subject which I shall be happy to send you if you desire it.

We have for your help a fully written leaflet called "The Left-Handed Child in a Right-Handed World," and a brief list of books on the nervous child. A stamped, self-addressed envelope will bring these to you.

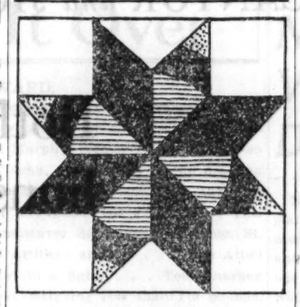
New England Quilt Religious in Inspiration



KING'S CROWN.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

This "King's Crown" is totally unlike another pattern of the same name which appeared in this column a few months ago. Its history is dissimilar, except for the fact that they both were pieced in America. This block, made in one of the New England colonies, found its inspiration in religion.

Lutheran Brotherhood Will Hold Christmas Bazar

Members of the Chicago Circuit Lutheran brotherhood, composed of men's clubs of thirty Chicago churches, will hold a bazar at 7 p. m. Thursday at St. Timothy's Lutheran church, 2108 North Kildare avenue.

MIDOL

"It's all right to have cooking secrets, and make-up secrets, and not tell everybody where you buy stylish things for next to nothing, but it seems only fair to tell others of anything that might save them from downright suffering. If a woman learns that Midol gets her over what was once a trying time without the usual pain, she ought to tell every friend she knows has difficulty at this time of month!" Women still unaware, or doubtful of the definite relief Midol tablets bring are urged to try them. Midol acts immediately, and is effective several hours so two tablets should see you through your worst day.

The speed with which Midol takes hold need not be feared; it is not a narcotic. Midol is as harmless as the aspirin that you take for an ordinary headache. All drug-stores have these tablets; just ask for Midol—today, so you'll be prepared

New Bureaus End Woes of Gift Shopping

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Christmas gift lists can be managed by proxy. In fact, by this method it can be done sometimes with a slightly better completeness than any greatly harassed shopper can achieve. The personal shopping bureaus are what we're telling you about. You can send in a list as long as a ticker tape, add the sum of money you want to spend and your troubles are over. Skilled, imaginative and knowing shopping experts will take the list and track down the newest, most surprising and best buys of the year.

Greatly perturbed masculine shoppers can easily retain a calm and unhurried manner while less fortunate brothers battle the shopping crowds and have their ribs bumped by questing females out on a buying binge. Doubtful and doting uncles will earn a reputation for unsurpassed understanding with toys, dolls, and other juvenile gadgets, enthusiastically chosen by the corp of shoppers on the shopping bureau. If you have doubts about the sort of lingerie the lovely ladies are wearing today and haven't the courage to discover the shops where all that sort of loot is found, try the personal shopping bureau.

And even a veteran shopper of the opposite sex is stumped when it comes to the proper selection of reasonable looking neckties and the like. Here again the shopping bureau hustles about briskly and spends, then sends, stuff that will make the most critical he-man gasp with unbelief. Gift buyers from out of town, housebound buyers, and the plain lazy people that want to spend money but hate the pushing and shoving of ten thousand good natured shoppers will use the personal shopping bureaus in all the stores and shops and probably be the most delightfully satisfied of all the 1934 gift givers.

Relics of Other Days Displayed at Hobby Show

A witch's ball from old New England, a Negro conjurer's cane from the deep south, stone ear screws from the mounds of the extinct Caddo Indians—these and thousands of other early American relics will be placed on display today on the mezzanine floor of the Hotel Sherman as the third annual Hobby show opens its six day exhibit.

Back in the days when witches were watched for in New England, a window without its witchball was a rare sight indeed. Today, witchballs are as rare as a ball-less window was then, but Mrs. Nellie C. Rogers of Oak Park, whose hobby is collecting glassware, has one. A hollow ball of sandwich glass, whorled with milky loopings, she regards it as one of her greatest treasures.

A few yards down the aisle of booths from Mrs. Rogers' witchball hangs a conjurer's cane belonging to Mrs. Jeanette Marsh of Antioch, Ill. Made presumably from a gnarled root, daubed with red and brown stain, it once belonged to a Negro voodoo man—but wafted up witches instead of warding them away.

In another corner of the exhibit, where some 200 hobby-ists from Connecticut to Colorado have arranged their gatherings of the years, is the Indian collection of G. E. Pilquist of Dardanelle, Ark. Among Mr. Pilquist's choice items is a reversible pottery drinking cup, from one end of which the Indian brave quaffed his drink; from the other end, his squaw.

Hobbyist Charles Bragin of Brooklyn has on display a collection of flamboyant dime novels of the "bad boys of other years," from Deadwood Dick to Billy the Kid.

Hobbyist Charles Ferrier, 22 years old, a truck driver of Culver, Ind., has a highly polished office desk of alternating maple and walnut strips, which he made in his spare moments of the last three months.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

MIDDLE RANGE BIDDING.

Yesterday I stated that my system would not require any basic changes if the scoring were so altered that either one more or one less trick had to be made, as compared with the present schedule, to earn a game in no trumps or a suit. This is no mere theoretical dissertation, since the condition of requiring one or more fewer tricks does occur in rubber play—when we have a previous partial score.

When You Have a Partial Score.

Those of you who have read "Money Contract" will remember that I urged you emphatically not to let the possession of part score lure you into unsound opening bids. I pointed out that you need the assistance of your partner just as much in order to bid and make less than 100 points as you do when 100 points are required for game. Do not allow a part score to change the meaning of any original bid, the sole exception being that you might shade your primary-trick requirements slightly with a hand of extremely aggressive type. Above all, never make an opening bid of more than one unless you would make exactly the same bid if there were no part score to your credit. Some of your slam hands will be dealt to you when you have a partial score. Would it not be absurd to let that score interfere with or becloud the precision of your slam bidding?

Partial Score and the Responding Hand.

For the same reason, the responding hand must never allow a partial score to affect his bidding as regards more-than-minimum responses. Forcing bids other than the one-over-one are never affected by partial score except that if you are signing off you reach game earlier. When making a minimum response of any kind, either partner may have good reason to bid a minor suit with a partial score when, with no score, he would be speaking in terms of no trumps. That is reasonable and easy to handle effectively.

The Leeway Principle should and need never interfere with slam tries. For instance, if you bid a heart, having 30 on the score, and your partner bids three hearts, you may trust him for just as good a hand as if he had made that same response without any partial score. However, if you cannot encourage a slam in view of that response, you should pass, since game has been contracted. You know that your combined hands are good for four odd, which would have been your bid had that amount been needed for game. Should you have a hand with which, were there no score, you would have made some rebid other than four hearts, make that same bid in the hope that your partner can develop a slam from it. If it does not please him, the signoff will still be in four hearts by him, a contract which you know to be perfectly safe.

The Leeway Principle and Partial Scores.

The Leeway Principle comes in earlier only with a substantial part score. If a contract for two odd will complete your game, then any response to an opening bid brings in the Leeway Principple, so that bidding must not be dropped short of game. However, it does not apply if three odd are required, though if the response shows that the hands are not a misfit, there will almost always be a rebid leading to a game contract.

In the next few articles I am going to explain why I draw a sharp dividing line after the contract reaches two odd. To pass beyond this to three involves breaking new ground; the Leeway Principle cannot override this fundamental distinction when the bidding is in minimum terms and the possibility of a misfit has not been ruled out by the bidding up to that point. I will take this up again in a later article.

The One-Over-One and Partial Score.

Do not forget that if your one-over-one response gives you game, its forcing function lapses. To initiate a slam try you must then bid two over one. Only if you have a score of 80 toward game, or 70 if you respond in a major suit, is a two-over-one response in a higher ranking suit permissible in my system.

Remember also that if you make a one-over-one response which gives you game, the fact that your partner makes another bid does not necessarily mean that he is making a slam try. He is probably only seeking a safer, easier declaration because your suit does not fit his hand. However, if he should raise your suit or make some other than minimum rebid, that would be an emphatic slam try. You should have no difficulty thereafter in developing your slam or signing off in safety, as the case might be.

This Snag Has Been Permanently Eradicated.

To resume, partial score creates no new problems if you employ my system; it changes no principle, it merely introduces a little extra flexibility in the selection of responses. Slam bidding is in no way rendered more difficult; its range and safety margin are in fact greatly increased. Nor would we be embarrassed if we had to bid four no trumps, five in a major and six in a minor to score game. The Leeway Principle would take a step back and operate with the same relentless efficiency; the signoffs would shelter us just as securely; our slam tries, starting, as they almost always do, long before game is contracted for, would not even notice the difference.

Two GREAT COMEDIANS

Premier Laugh Makers

EDDIE CANTOR and JIGGS

The Comic Weekly makes a habit of Breaking Sales Records • it's funny that way

Both play to audiences numbering millions—because they have a genius for ENTERTAINING

ALL the world likes a good joke. That's why the world likes Eddie Cantor. He is America's premier jokester. Men in high places and men on the street chuckle and laugh over Eddie's quips, and flock to see and hear him.

Jiggs, of The Comic Weekly—now 20 pages and distributed through the 17 great Hearst Sunday newspapers — also appeals to those in both high and low places. Jiggs is no jokester, but usually in his struggle with Maggie's social ambitions the joke is on Jiggs and the world gets the laugh it so dearly loves.

Jiggs is but one of a troupe of entertainers in The Comic Weekly who "show" to men, women and children in more than five million homes every Sunday. Granddad and Bobby, Mother and Mary, are equally interested in the doings of Jiggs, Pop-Eye, Skippy, The Katzenjammer Kids, Barney Google, Tillie The Toiler, Flash Gordon and other national characters of The Comic Weekly.

Here is an audience for advertisers which offers:

1. The largest in total numbers—more than 5,000,000 families; more than 15,000,000 readers.
2. Greatest concentration in the areas where 77% of all retail sales are made.
3. More thorough coverage of the entire household — men, women and children — thus reaching the actual buyers as well as those who influence the purchase.
4. Greater attention to advertisements, because only a limited amount of advertising per issue is accepted. The Comic Weekly specializes on getting attention.

Advertisers who appeal to this vast audience have secured results far in excess of anything they have ever experienced from any other medium. In the left-hand column of this page a few such cases are mentioned. There are many more. If you are interested, we will be more than glad to submit full details. Please call COlumbus 5-2642 New York, or Superior 6820 Chicago.

A cereal manufacturer ran a page in The Comic Weekly offering a premium in return for a twenty-five cent purchase. The advertisement appeared on April 16th. By April 19th, the entire supply of premiums was exhausted!

A leading typewriter manufacturer ran a Christmas advertisement in The Comic Weekly. After scanning the results, the president of the company called it one of the most successful advertisements in their many years of advertising.

•

A maker of floor waxes and polishes —purely adult products—ran an advertisement in The Comic Weekly and other leading national publications. The coupon carried a ten-cent offer and a twenty-cent offer. Per dollar spent, The Comic Weekly's inquiry cost was 40% lower than the average for the other magazines.

•

A prominent shoe manufacturer, whose offer required a three-and-a-half-dollar-or-more purchase, received direct sales returns equal to three times the cost of their advertisements in The Comic Weekly.

Let us tell you about the others!

The Comic Weekly . . . "Puck" . . . is distributed as an integral part of the 17 great Hearst Sunday newspapers. It is the stage upon which Jiggs, Pop-Eye, Tillie the Toiler, Barney Google, and other celebrities of the cartoon world enact the human dramas of romance, adventure, mystery, tragedy and comedy to which every reader responds. The ratio of advertising pages to regular comic strip pages is restricted. That's an additional reason why The Comic Weekly is preeminent among comic section mediums, both from the reader's and advertiser's standpoint. If you are looking for extraordinary results, call on this extraordinary medium!

BIG TEN ARGUES MERITS OF OHIO AND MINNESOTA

Buckeyes' Scoring Power Stirs Fans.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Which is the better football team, Minnesota or Ohio State?

This question is of current interest in Columbus, O. In fact, after the Ohio State victory over Michigan Saturday, 34 to 0, the same score by which Minnesota licked the Wolverines, it was the question most discussed.

Perhaps Minnesota's followers, in view of the Gophers' record of seven victories, haven't given Ohio State a thought. But if any resident of Minneapolis gets to Columbus he'll find that Minnesota can't get better than an even break.

Fans Like New System.

Columbus always has been a rabid football center. This year it has surpassed its own record for cheering. The Ohio folks talk about spinners, laterals, fake reverses, and credit Francis Schmidt, the coach who introduced this brand of football, with mystic powers. After five years of "two plunges and a kick," as Columbus terms the double wing back system, this year's team seems so different that the fans think it's a new kind of game.

Minnesota hasn't been quite as excited, although the 59,000 homecomers on the day of the Michigan game in Minneapolis gave a mighty fair imitation of Columbus Saturday night. For one thing, Minnesota has gradually shown improvement under the coaching of Bernie Bierman, now finishing his third year at his alma mater. And, too, Minnesota was not defeated last year, although tied four times.

Here Are Records.

MINNESOTA.		OHIO STATE.
56—N. D. State	12	33—Indiana	0
20—Nebraska	0	13—Illinois	14
13—Pittsburgh	7	10—Colgate	7
48—Iowa	12	28—Northwestern	6
34—Michigan	0	76—Western R.	0
30—Indiana	0	33—Chicago	0
35—Chicago	7	34—Michigan	0

Strangely enough, comparative scores against the same opponents, Michigan, Indiana, and Chicago, show a similarity. Jay Berwanger, Chicago's great half back, didn't play against Ohio State and did play against Minnesota, which accounts for Chicago's touchdown, according to the Buckeyes and also proves that the presence of one man can't bolster a defense sufficiently.

Iowa Is Next Opponent.

Ohio State meets Iowa this week and the Hawkeyes may be in for a real drubbing as Ohio State probably will shoot at the 48 to 12 score Minnesota ran up in the game at Iowa City.

In addition to comparative scores, Ohio State points to its defeat of Colgate. Minnesota counters with the score of its victory over Pittsburgh. In each case these were the only games lost by Colgate and Pitt.

"Minnesota has more power. This attack would give Ohio State's line its first real test. I believe Minnesota must be given the edge by about a touchdown." This is the opinion of Harry Kipke, Michigan coach.

Oosterbaan Picks Gophers.

Bennie Oosterbaan, end coach at Michigan, also picks Minnesota over Ohio State because of power. He thinks the score might be as much as two touchdowns in favor of Minnesota.

Ossie Solem, Iowa coach, who scouted Ohio State Saturday, has this to say: "A game between Ohio State and Minnesota would be a fine game. I think these teams are about evenly matched. Minnesota may have a bit more power, but Ohio State has an intricate, deceptive attack that would cause Minnesota trouble. I'd like to see a game between the two teams."

The weak spot in Ohio State's record is the one point defeat by Illinois. The Buckeyes discount this defeat because (1) Coach Schmidt had not had sufficient time (it was Ohio's second game) to teach his offense, (2) Illinois was at its peak, with veterans such as Lindberg and Beynon, familiar with an attack based on 1933, and, (3) Illinois is a fine team, as witness its victory over Army.

Don't Forget Purdue.

Columbus doesn't consider Purdue in the same class with the Buckeyes, which will be news to Lafayette, Ind., where the Boilermakers believe they are on the verge of tying Minnesota for the Big Ten title. And Minnesota also looks on Purdue as a touchdown or so inferior, although Purdue defeated Minnesota in 1932 and tied the Gophers last year.

Actually, Purdue might give either Ohio State or Minnesota a busy afternoon judging by its record since two early season defeats. Regardless, the argument over the merits of Ohio State and Minnesota still rages in Columbus. It won't be settled, of course, but the boys still like to talk about the possibilities.

Cincinnati Signs Kelly and Sheehan as Coaches

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 19.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds today announced that Tom Sheehan, pitcher last season for Hollywood in the Pacific coast league, and George Kelly, former big league first baseman, had been signed as coaches. Bert Shotton was dropped as Reds' coach. Kelly, Sheehan, and Manager Dressen of the Reds formerly were teammates on the Cincinnati club.

BADGER DEFENSE FEARED; GOPHERS CANCEL VACATION

Seidel, Olch to Start in Madison Game.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Coach Bernie Bierman, who has gained plenty of respect for Dr. Clarence Spears and his Wisconsin Badgers the last two years, broke a 1934 precedent today. For the first time this season he had the Minnesota Gophers out working on a Monday afternoon. Usually Bierman confines Monday's work to a long chalk talk, but he called for a new order of things today, following the chalk talk with some actual labor.

With the exception of the usual bruises, the Gophers came out of the Chicago game in great shape. Neither Glenn Seidel, ace quarter back, nor Vern Oech, regular left guard, was used last Saturday. Both will be ready for the big test against the Badgers.

Badger Defense Strong.

Lowell [Red] Dawson, backfield coach who scouted the Badgers against Illinois Saturday, told Bierman and the boys that they would be faced by the most formidable defense they have met all year. Of course, that was no news hereabouts because four years of experience with Spears as Minnesota coach and two as Wisconsin coach already have proved that story true. In any event, there is no danger of a letdown among the Gophers, because this is the game they want to win above all others this season.

Another reason for today's workout was that the Gophers will be limited to four days practice because they will leave Minneapolis for Madison Thursday afternoon.

BADGER REGULARS REST.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—While most of the regulars were given the afternoon off Coach Doc Spears sent the Wisconsin reserves through a thorough defensive drill against Minnesota plays as the Badgers opened practice for the Gopher invasion of Camp Randall Saturday. The entire squad was on the field but Spears excused more than a dozen players who participated in the Illinois game from any contact work.

Among them were Milt Kilmer, Stan Haukedahl, Mario Pacetti, Ed Christianson, Eddie Jankowski, George Dehnert, and Clarence Tommerson, all of whom played nearly the entire game against Illinois.

Badgers Have Hope.

Wisconsin fans are not giving their team much of a chance to stop the powerful Gophers, who thus far have rolled over Pittsburgh, Iowa, Michigan, Nebraska, Indiana, and Chicago, but they aren't willing to throw in the sponge, either. They recall that the Badgers weren't conceded much of a chance to defeat Illinois but came through with a 7 to 3 victory.

The Wisconsin-Minnesota rivalry began in 1890 and has continued unbroken with one exception. That was in 1906 when Wisconsin was undergoing a reform wave in athletics and canceled the game. In the 43 games, the oldest rivalry in the middle west, Minnesota has won 23, Wisconsin, 15, and 5 resulted in ties. The Gophers won last year, 6 to 3.

O'DEA DECLINES MISSOURI BID TO KANSAS CONTEST

Columbia, Mo., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Pat O'Dea, Wisconsin's great full back of 1897-'99 who returned to the campus to see the Badgers beat Illinois last Saturday, today turned down an invitation to watch Missouri play Kansas here Thanksgiving day.

O'Dea, who coached Missouri in 1902, wired Athletic Director C. L. Brewer that he was returning to his home at Westwood, Cal., before Thanksgiving.

Ducky Stewart, Old Time White Sox Catcher, Dies

Charles [Ducky] Stewart, 51 years old, who was a catcher for the White Sox in 1905 and 1906, died at his home, 308 South Karlov avenue yesterday, following a heart attack. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Belle Stewart, and one sister. Stewart was unmarried. Burial will be at the Oak Ridge cemetery at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the undertaking rooms at 318 North Central avenue.

SHOWING GIANTS HOW TO CATCH A PASS

Bill Karr of the Chicago Bears (No. 22) grabs a pass on New York Giants' 35 yard line in second quarter of game at the Polo Grounds Sunday. The Bears' march in this period was stopped, but they rallied in the fourth quarter to score touchdown and field goal, beating the New Yorkers, 10-9. Among players whose numbers can be seen are, left to right: Ray Flaherty, Giants (1); Molenda, Giants (23); Hein, Giants (7); Karr and Richards, Giants (13). [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Commission to See Levinsky Work Today

The Illinois athletic commission will attend King Levinsky's workout this afternoon at Northwest gymnasium, 2025 West North avenue, for his 10 round fight with Art Lasky at Chicago Stadium Friday. Chairman Joe Triner, Commissioner Packy McFarland, and Harold Ryan, gymnasium inspector, will make up the official party. Tomorrow the group will watch Lasky go through his paces at Trafton's gymnasium, 180 West Randolph street.

Reports circulated by folks unfriendly to Levinsky stated the King was not in tiptop condition and so the commission members have made plans to see for themselves.

Levinsky Weighs 204 Pounds.

"Levinsky is in the best condition of his career," Trainer Walter [Whitey] Eckwert said yesterday, "and as a result he has been given a layoff."

The Kingfish weighed 204 pounds after a workout Sunday, nine pounds less than he carried in his victory over Art Sykes at Wrigley field in September. It is the poundage at which Levinsky expects to be for Lasky, and is the same weight he was when he whipped Jack Sharkey, former heavyweight champion, at White Sox park Sept. 18, 1933.

Lasky Takes Rest.

Lasky also took a rest yesterday. Both battlers will resume drills today. Levinsky's schedule calls for four rounds against three sparmates at 3 p. m. Art will work an hour earlier.

Carl Hallsthamer, Swedish sculptor, will appear at Trafton's gym this afternoon to complete a statue of Lasky.

BREADON-WENTZ DEAL FOR CARDS MAY BE RESUMED

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Some chance that negotiations between Sam Breadon, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Lew Wentz, Oklahoma oil magnate who wants to buy the club, would be resumed was seen today in Breadon's announcement that he is postponing a trip to Florida.

Breadon, however, said the delay was occasioned by developments in his automobile sales business. He said he probably would not leave St. Louis before Friday or Saturday.

Wentz returned to his home at Ponca City, Okla., Saturday, but indicated he would be back by Thursday.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

OHIO'S hunting season opened last Thursday and Coach Francis Schmidt of the Ohio State football team dropped a pheasant with his first shot. . . . Ed Krause and Emmett Murphy, former Notre Dame men who are coaching St. Mary's of Winona, switch hats in the dressing room before every game and just before the whistle blows for the first kickoff they switch again and wear them throughout the game. . . . This is called strategy. . . . Watch for this maneuver Saturday night when St. Mary's plays St. Viator at the 124th Field Artillery armory. . . . Abe Attell always chewed gum when he was engaged in a fight. . . . Tom Sharkey agrees with Jim Jeffries that Joe Choynski, weighing less than 170 pounds, was the hardest hitter in the ring in their day. . . . Sharkey says when you caught one of Choynski's blows you shook as if you had a chill. . . . Four members of the University of California at Los Angeles eleven have been married secretly since last semester. . . . Notre Dame Vetoes Rest to Drill for Army

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Coach Elmer Layden, with memories of the 13 to 7 victory he and the other three horsemen squeezed out over Army in 1924, ordered the Notre Dame varsity out for an hour's work this afternoon, skipping the usual Monday rest.

The 1924 game, played at the Polo Grounds, was the first of the series to be played in New York. This year's game, like others of recent years, will be played before a probable crowd of 80,000 at Yankee stadium. Layden made one of Notre Dame's two touchdowns in the 1924 game when he scored from the three yard line.

Three Names Missing.

The passing of a decade has changed the Notre Dame scene considerably. Layden looks much the same as he did as a player, but the Irish back field contains no Harry Stuhldreher, no Jimmy Crowley and no Don Miller. It contains a Mike Layden, third string left half back, and Elmer's young brother, but no Elmer Layden.

Layden undoubtedly will start his first team and may be forced to use it throughout the game. In 1924 the shock troops stood Army off for the first quarter before the varsity went in to score two touchdowns.

Regulars to Be Ready.

The Irish reported in good physical condition aside from numerous bumps and bruises received in Saturday's Northwestern game. All regulars will be able to take part Saturday, barring injuries in practice this week.

ARMY FACES SCRUBS.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Army dispensed with the usual Monday vacation for varsity players today, and coaches had everybody out as the final drive for the Notre Dame game began. Only the supper bugle halted the cadets, the drill going into darkness, lighted by sideline flares.

Two scrub squads, clad in green jerseys, were used as opponents for the varsity and reserve elevens. The big team spent most of its time on the defensive, as Notre Dame's attack was studied.

WHIP ILLINI AND WIN .500 RATING, MAROONS' GOAL

A final rating of .500 in the Big Ten, its highest achievement since 1927, will be an incidental objective of the University of Chicago football team when it meets Illinois at Stagg field Saturday. The main objective will be to beat Illinois just because it's Illinois.

The Maroons have yet to play a poor game on their own field this season. Their two recent crushing reverses were suffered on trips, far from the gaze of the majority of their followers. Advance sales for Saturday's final indicate that the crowd will be the biggest of the season at the Midway.

Reserves Out in Rain.

Varsity men had a light workout in the fieldhouse yesterday, but freshmen and reserves plunged about the practice field in the rain, working on Illinois plays brought back by Scout Otto Strohmeier. First string men, most of whom were taken out in the third quarter of the Minnesota game after the Maroon cause became hopeless, were in satisfactory shape. Capt. Ell Patterson, center, and Bob Perretz, guard, will need a day or two of rest. Jay Berwanger, who made 14 tackles in the first half against the Gophers, was in fine fettle.

Johnny Baker, best Maroon end, who was unable to play against the Gophers because of a broken nose sustained in the Ohio State game, may be out again this week. His loss is somewhat relieved by the fact that Ralph Balfanz, sophomore, lived up to his promise as a freshman by turning in a fine defensive performance against Minnesota.

The final practice scrimmage of the season is scheduled for this afternoon.

GETS BERWANGER ROLE.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Deane Frary, freshman back from Prophetstown, today was assigned the rôle of Jay Berwanger for scrimmage against the Illinois varsity this week.

The withdrawal of Berwanger early in the second half against Minnesota satisfied Coach Bob Zuppke that the big ball carrier would be able to lead the attack at Stagg field Saturday. When the regulars who saw extended service against Wisconsin return to practice tomorrow the chief aim of practice will be methods to stop him.

Barnhart, 215 pound sophomore guard, who substituted acceptably for Gryboski at Madison, and Bruder, Cummings, Jansen and Henry, who all played more or less time against the Badgers, were in today's scrimmage against the second and third elevens. Cummings may win a place in the starting lineup against the Maroons.

BAER SUFFERS WITH INFECTION IN BOTH ARMS

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Max Baer, suffering from an infection in both arms, was ordered by a physician to remain in bed today under the care of a trained nurse.

Mullins Wins Ten Round Decision Over De Grasse

Georgia Coleman Leaves Hospital After Operation

Boston, Mass., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Georgia Coleman, Olympic games diving champion in 1932 who underwent a pituitary gland operation at the New England Baptist hospital on Nov. 5, was dismissed today. Physicians said she had fully recovered. Her married name is Mrs. Roof Gilson.

OFFICIALS SEEK NEW STAF WITH PENNANT CLASS

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—A small army of Chicago Cubs officials, with check books in their pockets and a plentiful supply of ink in their pens, will arrive in Louisville tomorrow determined not to leave this city of bourbon and baseball bats until they have acquired title to one or more of the leading pitchers in the National league.

The three day convention of minor league clubs, ostensible reason for the invasion of Kentucky by baseball moguls, will not start until Thursday, but by that time the Cubs hope to have the week's chief business out of the way.

Conferences Are Scheduled.

Preliminary negotiations with the New York Giants, Brooklyn Dodgers, and Pittsburgh Pirates have been carried through to the extent of arranging conferences for tomorrow at the Brown hotel. The Cubs, it is understood, are prepared to offer cash, players or both for these pitchers:

Carl Hubbell and Hal Schumacher of the Giants; Van Mungo of the Dodgers; and Larry French of the Pirates. There is a prospect that one or more of these gentlemen will be the property of the Cubs within 24 hours.

None of the Chicago players has been definitely mentioned as likely to figure in a trade, but Manager Charley Grimm promised a housecleaning after the Cubs faded from the pennant race last September, and may seize upon the opportunity to auction off some of the lads who dreamily watched the St. Louis Cardinals race past them to a pennant.

Dean Rumors Revived.

The old rumor that the Cubs had bought, or are going to buy, Dizzy Dean and Paul Dean from the St. Louis Cardinals was revived here again today. The Cubs are reported ready to soar to dizzy financial heights in their bidding for the Deans, perhaps as much as $250,000. The Cardinals, who through their farm system control more minor league clubs than any other major league organization, no doubt will be represented at the convention.

Whether or not they get the Deans, the Cubs are confident they can land Hubbell or Schumacher, Mungo or French. Hubbell and Schumacher, according to reliable stories from the Giants' locker room, would much rather pitch against Bill Terry than pitch for him, after their frequent squabbles during the closing weeks of the season.

The Cubs want Hubbell and French because they are southpaws, and a good left hander hasn't been seen at Wrigley field, except in any enemy uniform, for a good many years. Roy Joiner was carried through last season because he threw from the left side, but what he threw from there was never a puzzle to opposing batters.

Mungo's Price May Change.

The Dodgers, whose treasury is more or less bare, are expected to make a huge cut in their original demand of $200,000 for Mungo, one of the strikeout specialists of the league. The Pirates likewise would welcome the bale of bills that would be forthcoming for French.

The White Sox delegation, which also will arrive tomorrow, is coming fully equipped with a new set of denials that Outfielder Al Simmons will be traded or sold.

The Sox, instead of parting with one of their few star players, will be in the market for pitchers and catchers and perhaps an outfielder or two.

Cub Delegation Large.

The Cubs party will be so large that if the boys split up they can engage most of the convention attendants in conversation at the same time. Those who left Chicago last night were Vice Presidents John O. Seys and Charles Drake, Business Manager Charles [Boots] Weber, Manager Grimm, Assistant Manager Gabby Hartnett, Traveling Secretary Robert Lewis, and Scouts Clarence Rowland and Jack Doyle.

The Sox will content themselves with a modest three-man team—Owner Lou Comiskey, Manager Jimmy Dykes, and Traveling Secretary Joe Barry. The Sox manager announced today that the third base job for next season already has been taken by a fellow named Dykes.

HICKEY IS RE-ELECTED.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—The American association in session here for its annual meeting, today elected Thomas Jefferson Hickey to the presidency of the organization. It will be Mr. Hickey's twenty-second term.

One of the organizers of the league, the 73 year old Hickey, has been severely criticized at various times, but today apparently had the solid backing of the eight clubs making up the American association.

Attendance figures for games throughout the league during the last season were up 15 per cent over those of 1933. Columbus proved the best crowd getter of the eight teams.

R. J. Connery, St. Paul; N. A. Perry, Indianapolis; and George Trautman, Columbus, were delegated to confer as a committee with the International league regarding changes in playoffs and the little world series.

HAWKS FIGURE THEY'LL EVEN UP AGAINST EAGLES

Neither Manager Clem Loughlin nor the members of the Blackhawks hocky team had anything to offer in the way of alibis yesterday for their decisive 5 to 0 defeat Sunday night at the hands of the Toronto Maple Leafs, who left town leading the league with five straight victories to their credit and no defeats.

The Hawks, with the exception of Art Coulter and Paul Thompson, went through a short drill yesterday morning at the Stadium. Both have severe colds. Thompson should be ready for today's practice. It is feared that Coulter will not be ready for work before Wednesday.

Better Luck Next Time.

Some of the players dismissed their downtail before the huge crowd on opening night with a shrug and a "Well, anything is liable to happen in a hocky game," or "O, it's just one of those things. What we need is a few more regular hocky games, a slick and hard piece of ice which won't retard such flyers as Paul Thompson, Howie Morenz, Mush March, and Lolo Couture."

Because of the poor condition of the ice at the Stadium yesterday the much needed practice for the St. Louis Eagles game, scheduled for Thursday, was shortened. The Hawks contented themselves with familiarizing themselves with the new penalty shot rule which is bound to provide many thrills for hocky followers this season.

Almost Sure Point.

LEAFS LEAD SCORING

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Toronto Maple Leaf hocky team, speeding along on the crest of five straight victories, have almost a monopoly on goal scoring at this early stage of the National league race, according to the first official set of statistics, issued today at the offices of President Frank Calder.

Out of 28 goals scored to date in the league, the Leafs have 15, an average of three per game. Big Charlie Conacher, their powerful right wing, and Harvey Jackson, who patrols the opposite board, lead the Canadian section in points and the entire league in goal-getting. Each has had three goals and two assists. Last year Conacher led the league, and Jackson was third in his section.

Sorrell Has Five Points.

The Maple Leafs and the Detroit Red Wings have annexed most of the early team and individual scoring honors. Johnny Sorrell, of the Wings, who seldom fails to start the season with a scoring splurge, is the best point-maker for that team, with one goal and four assists, and is leading the American section on points with five. His teammates, Larry Aurie, Eddie Wiseman and Cooney Weiland are tied behind him, each with four points. Wiseman has scored three goals, equalling Jackson and Conacher.

Diminutive Tommy Cook of the Stanley Cup champions, the Chicago Blackhawks, has two goals and two assists, and figures in a four-way tie with his Detroit rivals.

Leading Defense Scorers.

Leading scorers among the defense players are: Scotty Bowman of the St. Louis Eagles and Earl Seibert of the Rangers. Each has had one goal and two assists.

AMERICAN STARS TO PLAY IN $5,000 MELBOURNE GOLF

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The visiting American golf professionals spent today practicing in preparation for the $5,000 match play tournament to be played over the Metropolitan course, beginning Wednesday and ending Saturday. First prize carries a purse of $2,500.

Jimmy Thomson, Los Angeles, Cal., who captured the $15,000 centenary open last week; Paul Runyan, American professional titlist, and Gene Sarazen, New York, are among the favorites.

Harry Newman Is Out for Season; Vertebrae Hurt

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Harry Newman, quarter back, will be lost to the New York Giants professional football team for the rest of the season. Newman went to St. Elizabeth's hospital today with two fractured vertebrae. He suffered the injury in yesterday's game with the Chicago Bears when he was tackled by two players after a 20 yard run.

HELLER JOINS GIANTS.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 19.—(AP)—An agreement whereby Warren Heller, former Pittsburgh half back and a member of the Pittsburgh Pirates Professional Football club, will play the remainder of the season with the New York Giants, was announced tonight.

Jess Quatse, a Pirate lineman, joined the Brooklyn Dodgers under a similar arrangement last night. Both players will return to the Pirates next year. The injury of Harry Newman, the Giants' ace quarter back, caused the move by the Giants for Heller. He left for New York tonight.

OFFICIALS PICK SITES FOR PREP TITLE BATTLES

Sites were chosen yesterday for the final games to determine champions of the Chicago Public High school and Chicago Catholic High school football leagues. At a special meeting held in the offices of A. H. Pritzlaff, director of physical education, board of control members from Fenger and Lindblom decided to play the public league game Saturday afternoon at Soldiers' field. The kickoff will be at 2 o'clock.

St. Mel and Leo, Catholic league division winners, will meet Sunday afternoon at Loyola university stadium. This contest will start at either 1:45 or 2 o'clock, no definite time having been selected as yet.

Champions of the two leagues then will battle Dec. 1 at Soldiers' field in a charity game, the winner of which will earn the title of Chicago champion.

Tuley High school lightweight basketball team yesterday opened the city league practice season by defeating an alumni quintet, 38 to 21, at Tuley gymnasium. Zaleski, with two baskets and three free throws, and Kelner, who dropped in three baskets and made one free throw, led the winners. Miller, an alumnum, accounted for seven of the loser's points.

Following its title game with Lindblom Saturday afternoon, the Fenger eleven will meet Pullman Tech in a Thanksgiving day contest. The game is held each year. About 10,000 are expected to witness this year's meeting. The teams fought to a scoreless tie last season.

St. Mel and Fenwick are the only teams in the Catholic league to score more than 100 points this year. The former has counted 118 to 39 for opponents, while Fenwick made 108 to 20 for the opposition.

The Harvard School for Boys will compete for the first time in the private school basketball league this season. The organization includes the Central Y. M. C. A., Luther, Wheaton academy, and North Park. C. M. Fish will coach the Harvard quintet.

Mayor to Award Prize for Charity Game Ticket Sale

The high school student, boy or girl, who sells the most tickets to the championship interleague charity football game to be played at Soldiers' field Saturday, Dec. 1, will be presented with an autographed football bearing the names of stage, screen, radio, and athletic celebrities.

The announcement was made yesterday by Mayor Edward J. Kelly, sponsor of the high school game, who conceived the autograph idea to stimulate the sale of tickets, which are offered to students at 25 cents and to the general public at one dollar. All dollar seats are reserved.

BREESE WHIPS DROUILLARD IN 8 ROUND FIGHT.

Rubin [Bus] Breese, Manhattan, Kas., 133 pounds, won an eight round decision over Orville Drouillard, Windsor, Ont., 130, in the windup bout at Marigold Gardens last night. A crowd of 990 paid $843 gross to see the battle. Other results:

Princeton Has Light Drill for Varsity Team

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Despite their defeat at the hands of Yale on Saturday, the Princeton Tigers got off with a light workout today. All the men who faced the Elis were on hand, but Coach Crisler excused those who played more than a period when the drill was three-quarters over. The second and third teams went through a long scrimmage, however, with the former outscoring the latter, three touchdowns to one.

YALE DRILLS ON PASSES.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Departing from the usual post-game workout, Coach Ducky Pond ordered the entire Yale squad to engage in a spirited drill which lasted nearly an hour. Apparently in excellent spirits because of their triumph over Princeton, the regulars snapped through signals, kicking and passing.

COLUMBIA RUNS SIGNALS.

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Coach Lou Little sent the Columbia Lions through a two hour practice today, working the back field on plays and then sending the first eleven through a rapid signal drill. Except for Jim Davis, a guard who was injured in the Penn game, the entire squad was on hand. Al Barabas, star half back, was in uniform, but did not take part in the more strenuous workout.

CORNELL GOES EASY.

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Cornell's football squad listened to a blackboard talk today while the reserves staged a light drill. The 19 men who saw action against Dartmouth reported in good condition and Coach Dobie ordered them to take things easy.

HARVARD SHIFTS MEN.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Eddie Casey made two changes in Harvard's first string as the Crimson started work for the Yale encounter. Adlis was returned to right tackle and Watt replaced Blackwood in the back field.

COLGATE TAKES A REST.

Women's Western Golf Association Meets Monday

The Women's Western Golf Association will hold its annual meeting and luncheon at 12:30 next Monday at the Chicago Athletic club, 112 South Michigan avenue. Officers for the 1935 season and amendments to the constitution and bylaws will be voted upon. Nearly all of the delegates who attended the recent association tournaments on the Pacific coast have returned, with the exception of Mrs. Howard D. Raymond, president of the organization, who is in Los Angeles. She will return, however, in time for the meeting.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

PRO FOOTBALL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—George Halas, majority stockholder and coach of the Chicago Bears, values his franchise in the National Professional Football league at a quarter of a million dollars. That's what he thinks of the pro game after being paid on a percentage basis for more than 43,000 cash customers of the 45,600 present at Saturday's game against the Giants.

GEORGE HALAS.

It was the largest pro game attendance here since Red Grange, then a national figure with country-wide reputation, left amateur ranks following his 1925 season at University of Illinois. It's the largest crowd at any football game in New York this fall, either college or pro, and will be exceeded only by Army and Notre Dame this coming Saturday.

Of course, Halas probably could not find a customer at a cool quarter million. So great is his confidence in football's future, however, that he would not sell for less. After all, possibly the franchise is worth more, he soliloquizes.

Pro football, on the other hand, is a terrific gamble with the weather. It was perfect for the Bears and Giants. Rain or cold weather would have reduced the crowd perhaps two-thirds.

The Wake is one who watches turnstiles at all sport offerings. That's not because we're commercial, but we recognize that all sports, to be high class, must be prosperous financially. It's no less true of football than of baseball, racing, boxing, hocky, or what have you. Plethoric bank rolls encourage sponsors and promoters to better their attractions.

Digressing a bit, it's why we regret that all Chicago mile race tracks lost money in 1934. Unless given more paying patronage, lower stake and purse offerings will follow. Such curtailment would lower the class of horses competing with so many tracks bidding for the higher grade performers.

Returning to football, let's scan the pro league circuit. The Bears have made money, not as much as some may suppose, but a comfortable showing in the black. Green Bay, New York Giants after Sunday's game, and Boston are numbered among the profit earners. Profits are not in all cases large in these times, but promoters are encouraged to continue. Brooklyn, Pittsburgh, and Detroit are about even to date, with the latter likely to forge ahead as a result of two final contests with the Bears. Philadelphia is a financial loser and Cincinnati was at the time its franchise was sold to St. Louis.

In this pro league visiting clubs receive a guarantee of $4,000 a game with privilege of 40 per cent net after expenses are paid. Inasmuch as it costs about $3,000 a game to put an eleven on the field, nearly $4,000 with overhead and advertising, the home club of necessity must draw well at home. That's why weather is so important.

Lyman as Vocalist.

Link Lyman, Bears' veteran tackle, stole the show at the night club which the Chicagoans attended before leaving for home last night. Requested to sing, Lyman went to the annunciator and poured forth a baritone which brought encores until he was out of breath and knocked the mike over in a playful tackle. Jack Manders, whose place kick won the contest, was photographed with Jack Dempsey, also present, for the news reels.

* *

Pat on the Back.

"That was great, Luke, the way you outguessed Harry Newman on that fake place kick and spilled him for a 10 yard loss," said Bill Hewitt after the game to Johnsos, former Northwestern end.

"Why, I thought you and Karr did it," we exclaimed. "No," replied Hewitt, "Luke was there first and I was second on the scene. It meant a great deal at that stage."

Bears on Way to Record for Yards Gained

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The Chicago Bears and Detroit Lions continue to set the pace in offensive and defensive play in the National Professional Football league.

The Bears, with a total of 3,270 yards gained, appear well on their way to a new record. Detroit is proving itself the strongest on defense. So far only 1,393 yards have been gained against the Lions in ten games, while the Chicago Cardinals have allowed 1,315 in nine games.

A grudge element has been injected into Saturday's game at Ann Arbor between Northwestern and Michigan as a result of recent utterances made by Fielding H. Yost, Wolverine athletic director and former football coach, to the effect that of all football systems now in use, the Warner system is the easiest to stop.

Coach Dick Hanley of the Wildcats is a strong disciple of the system as developed by Pop Warner, and his teams have used this type of play exclusively during his eight years at Northwestern. Yost's deprecatory remarks anent the Warner system did not go unheeded in the Wildcat camp, and as a consequence every effort will be exerted Saturday to impress upon Yost that he was in error.

They're Rarin' to Go.

Furthermore, the defeats by Illinois and Notre Dame have not served to put the Wildcats in a peaceful frame of mind as they approach the season's finale with Michigan. They feel that they turned in their best performances of the year against these two teams, only to have victory slip from their grasp.

Against Michigan the Wildcats will have their full strength available for one final push which they hope will result in victory. A triumph Saturday would be the first scored by a Northwestern team over Michigan since the memorable 3 to 2 game at Soldiers' field in 1925.

Gain Power on Attack.

The Wildcat attack, which early in the season was of an impotent nature, has suddenly acquired power and versatility. The fact that Hugh Duvall, 195 pound full back, has assumed a line smashing rôle after a slow start has done much to instill power into the Purple offense. His ability to gain ground in this fashion has enabled Cruice and Swisher to be more effective in off tackle smashes and end runs.

Light workouts will be in order throughout the week. Coach Hanley has called off all scrimmage for the regulars with the intention of giving the players every opportunity to be fully rested for Saturday.

MICHIGAN TAKES IT EASY.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—A light workout which included throwing of a few passes and running signals was all Coach Harry Kipke prescribed today for the Michigan football team. Kipke worked with a small squad, boys who saw the greatest amount of service in the Ohio State game.

After working them on passes, with John Regeczi and Chris Everhardus doing the throwing, Kipke sent them to the showers. Vincent Aug, Russ Fuog, and two or three others went over to Ferry Field where a combination representing the second and third teams was scrimmaging with the freshmen.

Work Against Freshmen.

For more than an hour the Blue jersied players worked against the freshmen and they looked like a team only once—when a double lateral off a forward clicked and the lone touchdown of the afternoon was scored. Howard Triplehorn did most of the ground gaining and crossed the goal line on that one score. Russ Oliver was the defensive star of the scrimmage.

Jerry Ford and John Viergever, both of whom were hurt in the Ohio game, were missing from practice this afternoon.

IOWA CRIPPLES RETURN.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Most of the injured University of Iowa football players were in action today as the Hawkeye squad resumed practice after an open date last week.

Coach Ossie Solem hoped to have most of his men in shape for the final game of the season against Ohio State Saturday. Dick Crayne, Sheldon Gordinier, and John Hild, half backs, and Floyd McDowell, guard, were among the regulars who benefited most from the three day rest period granted by the coach.

It was apparent that Solem expected to retain most of his sophomore lineup for the final game with the Buckeyes as drill was resumed. Crayne and Capt. Russ Fisher were the only experienced backs on the first team, and Rudy Leytze was the only veteran in the line.

The Hawkeyes worked overtime on tackling and blocking, and ran through their entire list of plays in scrimmage against freshmen teams. Solem also held a long skull session in which he discussed Buckeye plays scouted by himself in the Ohio State-Michigan game Saturday.

OHIO STATE SEES GAME.

Columbus, O., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Ohio State football players, 33 of whom participated in the Michigan game here last Saturday, were given a light workout here this afternoon by Coach Francis A. Schmidt. The boys then sat in the stands of Ohio stadium to view the annual game between the freshmen and sophomore members of the Buckeye squad. The freshmen won, 3 to 0, when Cook scored a field goal from the 22 yard line.

Ohio will be in good condition for the Iowa game, as all Buckeyes came through with nothing worse than bruises.

Saturday's game will be the first between Ohio State and Iowa since 1929. Iowa will bring a team of only three veteran regulars, but the Hawkeyes, who didn't play last Saturday, have had two weeks to get ready.

Purdue Drills on Attack for Indiana Game

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—With at least a share of the Big Ten title at stake in the season's finale with Indiana's rejuvenated eleven here Saturday, Purdue devoted no time to resting after its intersectional triumph over Fordham, but launched an intensive drill on attack here this afternoon.

The Boilermakers make no secret of the fact that they are fearful that Indiana's rugged defense may slow up the Purdue running attack and produce an upset similar to the 7 to 6 setback received here in 1930 in similar circumstances.

Purdue's main hope of retaining the victory stride that has carried it to five straight triumphs and co-leadership in the Big Ten race is based on the ground gaining ability of Duane Purvis and Jim Carter and the defensive work of the line that smothered Fordham Saturday.

The annual Hoosier game will be dads' day at Purdue, and with Indiana scenting a chance to upset the Boilermakers, the largest home crowd of the season is expected.

It will be the first time that a McMillin coached team will fight for possession of the bucket which has been in Purdue's hands since 1930 when Indiana upset the Boilermakers.

Three Hoosiers who starred in the victory over Maryland were injured. They are Bob Keck, half back and punter; Capt. Jack Sprauer, guard, and quarter back Wendel Walker. Keck and Sprauer suffered leg injuries Saturday, while Walker received a shoulder bruise. All are expected to play against Purdue.

Belloise Wins Ten Round Decision from Bernard

Long Challenges Alabama to Meet Louisiana State

Baton Rouge, La., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Senator Huey P. Long today threw down the gauntlet to Alabama's football team, "formally challenging" the Rose Bowl invitation candidates to meet Louisiana State university this year and in 1935.

"We know they had a set-up schedule this year," he declared, "but if they don't play us it will be a ridiculous thing next year—something like a fighter who doesn't want to fight anybody.

"I see where they're after a bid to the Rose Bowl. Well, we're not after any Rose Bowl bid, but it seems funny they don't want to play anybody else but want to play out there."

The senator, hoarse from a cold, paused a minute and then continued:

"Alabama's third rate. Everybody knows that Louisiana State or Tulane either could lick 'em, and that they've been dodging both for years.

MRS. DEMPSEY ILL WITH FEVER; HUSBAND CALLED

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Mrs. Jack Dempsey, wife of the former heavyweight boxing champion, was ordered to bed today when she was stricken suddenly with a fever.

Mrs. Dempsey, the former Hannah Williams of the musical comedy stage, was said to have over-exerted herself while decorating her hotel apartment. A friend said Mrs. Dempsey, who became the mother of a daughter on Aug. 4, suffered a chill followed by a fever.

Physicians, after ordering her to bed, decided to summon Dempsey from Harwichport, Mass., where he was refereeing a wrestling bout.

DEMPSEY LEAVES RING.

Harwichport, Mass., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion, rushed from an arena where he was refereeing a wrestling bout tonight and left with a police escort for New York when he received a telephone message that his wife was ill. Dempsey was in the ring when the telephone call came.

He rushed to his automobile and with his chauffeur left for Providence.

Soccer Teams Open Peel Cup Play Sunday

Eight of the best soccer teams in Chicago will take part in the first round of the Peel Cup competition next Sunday.

It will be Wieboldt Employés' day at De Paul field, Sheffield and Webster avenues, where the Wieboldt Wonderbolts, Chicago champions, meet the Armour Packers, holders of the Buda cup, in a match that will feature the two teams tied for the leadership of the Major league.

The Maccabee All Stars, who are leading the National league of Chicago, will battle their Lawndale rivals, Sparta, at Kuppenheimer stadium, 19th street and Keeler avenue. Calumet Park plays Harvey United at Harvey and the Ravenswoods tackle Indiana Harbor at Winnemac park.

13,000 Watch Jim Londos Beat Everett Marshall

Massera Wins Close Decision from Birkie

Newark, N. J., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Charley Massera, Pittsburgh heavyweight, won a close ten round decision over Hans Birkie, Oakland, Cal., tonight. Massera weighed 183; Birkie, 193. Birkie substituted for Patsy Perroni, Cleveland, whose manager said he was suffering from the grippe.

LOUIS TO ARRIVE TOMORROW TO START TRAINING

Prepares to Meet Ettore or Massera.

Joe Louis, Detroit heavyweight, will meet Charley Massera, Pittsburgh, Pa., or Al Ettore, Philadelphia, in a ten round windup encounter at the Coliseum on Nov. 30 under the promotion of Maurice Rivkin. Massera and Ettore clash for ten rounds on the Levinsky-Lasky program. Louis will arrive from West Baden, Ind., tomorrow to open workouts.

John Duffy, south side sportsman, is making arrangements to offer a Christmas charity amateur show at White City on Dec. 12. . . . John Vorce, Saginaw, Mich., light heavyweight, will return to the loop today or tomorrow to start drills for a pending match. . . . The next boxing card at Cicero stadium is slated for Nov. 30. . . . Wrestling shows will be held at Rockford, Ill., Dec. 6 and Dec. 20. . . . Tony Zale, Gary, Ind., middleweight, went two rounds yesterday with Eddie Cerda, California welterweight, for a ten round affray with Kid Leonard at Peoria, Ill., Monday.

Frank Battaglia and Karl Ogren have commenced drills for their ten round engagement at Arcadia Gardens next Tuesday. . . . Art Sykes and Adolph Wiater will meet for ten rounds in a heavyweight bout. Supporting contests bring together Fred Chynoweth and Eddie Carroll, and Nestor Bruggman and Sammy Alfano. . . . John Mirabel, Argo, Ill., featherweight, has returned from an eight months' sojourn at Dallas, Tex. . . . Dave Barry, Springfield, Ill., and Paul Lee, Indianapolis, Ind., are paired for a ten round fray at Quincy, Thursday.

Patrick Henry and Jack Elverrillo, welterweight boxers, will meet in a six round main event at the Covenant club Thursday. Preliminary encounters will involve Lou Vine and Al Pahl, Augie Mandell and Sammy Scoglio, and Irish Johnny Golden and Gene Caggiano. . . . A wrestling bout will bring into action Zack Malkov and George Jonasen. F. M.

TABITHA WHIPS ODDS ON ENTRY IN BOWIE PURSE

Bowie, Md., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Form players gasped at Bowie today when the Wheatley stable entry of Dusky Princess and Slap Dash, which was backed into odds-on favoritism, finished four, five in a six horse race. The upset occurred in the featured Caroline purse, a test of a mile and 70 yards, which saw A. J. Sackett's Tabitha the winner under a smooth ride by Charley Rosengarten.

The result was considered the more remarkable in that both the Wheatley stable fillies are 3 year olds, whereas Tabitha is only 2. She won by half a length from Corinne Dailey, which led Bit O' Shade to make it a clean sweep for juveniles.

French Horse Last.

Dusky Princess finished fourth, Slap Dash next, and then came the French mare, Eadhild. This 5 year old had much the best of the weights against the younger horses but had no speed at any stage of the going.

Tabitha was the second choice in the betting and returned $8.50, $6.00 and $4.70. Because the entry finished out of the money the other prices were good, Corinne Dailey returning $13.40 and $8.10, and Bit O' Shade paying $5.90 to show. The winner was clocked in 1:47 over a fast track and carried 100 pounds.

Have No Excuses.

As the race was run there was no apparent excuse for the Wheatley stable colorbearers. Bit O' Shade went to the front, closely accompanied by Tabitha. The Wheatley pair were well back and looked as if they were being reserved off the pace for the stretch run. But in the final quarter it was Tabitha and not Slap Dash or Dusky Princess which came on.

Twenty Grand to Run in Big English Races

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Twenty Grand, one of the greatest race horses ever developed in this country, will invade Britain next year in an effort to achieve the turf immortality that lured Reigh Count, Mike Hall, and Mate from these shores.

Campaign plans for the great son of St. Germans and Bonus were disclosed today, following announcement over the week-end that Twenty Grand was training satisfactorily, and that he was a certain starter in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap at the New Los Angeles track Feb. 23, barring accident.

The winner of the 1931 Kentucky Derby, it was disclosed, has been galloping since early summer, and has done so well that he was shifted from the turf course on the Greentree stables' breeding establishment to the dirt track on the Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney farm. Recently he went a mile in 1:41 without showing the slightest ill effects.

This performance, coupled with his present excellent physical condition—he weighs 1,125 pounds, a good training weight for a horse of his size—and the complete absence of any sign of the soreness that led Mrs. Payne Whitney to retire him after a brilliant campaign at 3, led to the decision to point him for a campaign in England.

Perhaps the chief factor in the decision lies in the certainty that handicappers throughout America would pile tremendous weights on Twenty Grand if he remained in this country. In England, it is believed, he would get a much better break. The Ascot Gold cup will be the goal of Twenty Grand.

BABCOCK AGAIN NAMED HEAD OF ELMHURST CLUB

G. C. Babcock has been reëlected president of the Elmhurst Country club for the 1935 season, according to an announcement yesterday. Other officers include E. C. Thomson, vice president; Leonard G. Borgeson, treasurer; and Frank Maier, secretary. Directors are Marion Kudlick, A. Van Gorkam, Walter Youngberg, E. C. Richard, William Pentecost, Lynn Broaddus, Harry Collins, Dr. Hein, and E. V. Bertolini.

Vice President Thomson has been delegated to carry on the work which he started this season for the development and completion of a watering system. Kudlick, chairman of finance, stated that dues would remain the same for 1935, since the club operated at a profit during the recent season.

MILWAUKEE AND CHICAGO BRIDGE TEAMS TO MEET

The intercity match between the championship contract bridge team of four from Milwaukee, led by Robert Reich, and the Chicago team, led by E. M. Lagron, will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the bridge salon on the seventh floor of The Fair store.

The Chicago team is composed of Mr. Lagron, Arthur Glatt, Charles W. Rilling, and Ralph Kempner. A large electrical score board has been built in the bridge salon to enable spectators to follow the play.

Malone Wrestles Smith Tonight on White City Mat

Eddie Malone, Dublin, Ireland, light heavyweight wrestler, and Clarence Smith of Chicago will meet in the windup bout of the wrestling show tonight at White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. It will be their second engagement. Last week they wrestled to a draw. Tonight's meeting is scheduled for one fall with a 60 minute time limit. Silent Rattan, mute wrestler, will clash with Larry Tillman for 30 minutes in the semi-final. Other matches will involve Hy Sharman and Bobby Novak, John Yarkevich and Nick George, and Lee Donoghue and Dick Gerber.

WEST DIVISION K. OF C. QUINTETS TO PLAY SUNDAY

Hennepin-Shields and Damen, two old rivals and each a three-time winner of the league championship, will meet Sunday in the headline game on the opening schedule of the Knights of Columbus basketball league at the West Side clubhouse, 4711 West Madison street. Setters and Tonti, Carroll and St. Cyr, and Hughes and Lafayette are the other games on the West Division card.

South Division teams will start play a week from Sunday at White City. Quigley has entered the south division in place of Dowling, while Cardinal has been added to the west division, which will continue as a ten team division, with two byes each Sunday.

The league will inaugurate a new play-off plan this season, beginning with the second round. It is based somewhat on the plan used in hocky and professional football, and will feature intersectional games in the second round.

MICHIGAN GROUP IS READY TO HELP ILLINOIS HUNTERS

Kent County Plan Could Aid Farmers, Sportsmen

BY BOB BECKER.

Harry R. Gaines, president of the Kent County Conservation league in Michigan, writes this department that his organization stands ready to help Illinois sportsmen organize farmers and sportsmen to bring about more hunting and better relations between the two groups.

After what the Michigan boys have done to get farmers interested in growing game birds and then letting hunters come on the farms without charge, it is only natural for Mr. Gaines to add [in his letter to us] that he assumes "Illinois sportsmen must be soundly asleep." None can deny that charge in view of what can be done and has been done to interest farmers in game and coöperative hunting projects in Michigan.

Ready to Doff Hat.

When you get scores of farmers to come to a meeting, agree to grow more game birds, work with sportsmen to increase bird life and also agree to issue free hunting tickets allowing "guaranteed gentlemen hunters" to shoot on their property, we are ready to take off our hat to Michigan sportsmen.

Instead of sitting back and complaining about the land closed for hunting and how mean farmers were to post their acreage, the Michigan sportsmen proved to farmers that they could be trusted and immediately joined hands with landowners on a joint bird raising and hunting program. There is nothing that smacks of magic in that program. It can be worked out here in Illinois, providing leadership can be obtained.

It Could Have Been.

Mr. Gaines is not unfair to accuse us of being asleep here in Illinois. As a matter of fact the Izaak Walton league in this state and numerous other local sportsmen's organizations could have had ten or even twenty of these coöperative controled hunting areas in this state if they were eager to do a piece of work of this type. Ten or twenty game producing, controled hunting areas would be easy even if the state conservation department did not coöperate in the program. But we have a hunch that our conservation department would be glad to participate. In Michigan, P. F. English, of the department of conservation, has been working hand in hand with sportsmen to get the Kent county project going.

Here is one of the smartest things in the Michigan plan to get the farmers interested in wild game: they furnish each farmer in the controlled hunting project with five pounds of seed mixture which grows cover and food for birds, and also food and cover shrubs to plant in fence rows, gullies and ditches. This means more song birds and quail.

Write for Details of Plan.

We suggest that sportsmen's organizations in this state, interested in helping produce more game birds and more hunting in partnership with farmer groups, write P. F. English, Michigan department of conservation, Lansing, Mich., for details of the plan.

If Illinois could get these projects going [even if farmers had to be paid a small sum for hunting] and also pass a pheasant preserve law, we might look for better upland game hunting in this state.

NEW U. S. BOARD DELAYS ACTION TO REVAMP NRA

Only in Study Stage, Williams Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—The long heralded revamping of the NRA, with particular emphasis on the elimination of price fixing and production control schemes, has not progressed beyond the "study stage" and no action is in prospect. This was made clear today by S. Clay Williams, chairman of the National Industrial Recovery board, who called a surprise press conference but had nothing to report but "a great many studies on a great many problems."

The information elicited from Mr. Williams, as a matter of fact, would indicate that the NRA is going to seed. The only move made by the new administrative board in the two months of its existence was the appointment of Sol Rosenblatt, motion picture code administrator, as coördinator of compliance activities, or liaison man between the department of justice and the federal trade commission.

Plan to Push Compliance.

In making this announcement Mr. Williams said the executive board was "going to push compliance as far as possible."

Mr. Williams said nothing had been accomplished toward the consolidation and simplification of the amorphous NRA code structure, which was one of the first tasks expected to be performed by the new board. He said the board "had taken no definite position on price fixing and production control."

Donald R. Richberg, chairman of the industrial emergency committee, which is charged with making recommendations to the President on NRA policies, stated in public addresses shortly after the NRA reorganization that the trend would be away from price fixing and production control, with the exception of natural resources industries. He called such schemes an "iridescent dream."

Service Codes Being Studied.

Mr. Williams said the most intensive study in which his board had been engaged pertained to the service codes and that they hoped to take some action within the next ten days. These codes were suspended by Gen. Johnson as unenforceable.

On the long range aspect of NRA, that part of it which might be perpetuated after the expiration of the present act next June 16, Mr. Williams said the board was making studies but had reached no conclusions. Speaking for himself and not as chairman of the NIRB, and not "from the standpoint of saying what the next congress should do," Mr. Williams said he hoped "the gains that have been made with respect to hours and wages can be preserved."

Asked whether it was possible that the NRA might be left suspended in midair when the act expires, Mr. Williams said he didn't see how this could be done, but added that he could not forecast the conclusions of his board.

Policies Up to Richberg.

Mr. Williams declared that the NIRB would make no recommendations to the White House on the permanent reorganization of NRA, pointing out that the industrial emergency committee, of which he is an exofficio member and of which Richberg is chairman, was charged with this duty. This would indicate that Richberg is the chief policy maker of the NRA, as stated when he was appointed, although he sought to discredit this impression with assertions that he was only an adviser.

The calling of today's press conference, the second held by Mr. Williams since his appointment, was believed inspired by much newspaper criticism of the "gag rule" and the "abolition of the goldfish" bowl since Gen. Johnson's departure. Under the new régime, members of the administrative board as well as code administrators and other executives, have steadfastly refused to be interviewed.

STEEL OUTPUT AT 27.6%; BEST RATE SINCE JULY

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Steel operations for the current week were today estimated by the American Iron and Steel institute at 27.6 per cent of capacity, against 27.3 per cent a week ago.

The gain, amounting to three-tenths of a point, or 1.10 per cent, lifts the average operating rate to the highest level reported by the institute since the last week in July. Each week since early September, when the industry reached low for the year at 18.4 per cent, has shown a small gain.

A month ago the rate was 23.9 per cent.

U. S. Probing Finances of Bank Directors

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Acting on instructions of the controler of the currency based upon no specific provision of existing law, national bank examiners and, in the case of state chartered member banks, federal reserve examiners are now seeking information as to the financial standing of bank directors, it was learned today.

Examiners have been given printed schedules which they fill out on the basis of questions they ask the chief executive officer of each bank, which, in addition to requiring the name and address of each director, also has a space for each director's financial statement and net worth. If no such statement is obtainable the examiner then has to ask whether such a statement is on file.

Causes Apprehension.

This latest inquisitorial incursion by the government into bank directors has created some apprehension in banking circles. Already it is difficult for the smaller banks to obtain the services of outstanding men of position for their boards for the reason that available men do not care to subject their affairs to prying by government officers several times a year on every conceivable subject.

Many bank directors whose banks have received from examiners requests for information bearing upon their personal credit look upon the move as an effort on the part of the government to find who has the money for future use in the offices of tax collectors. Unless a bank has made an unsecured loan to a director there is no moral or other obligation resting upon it to require a financial statement and no reason to answer the examiners' questions.

Few Have Heard Demand.

Few bank directors today had heard of the fresh demand for intimate information about their affairs, as the demands were not made of each individually and, even where banks were asked for it, the requests were verbal. Where bank executive officers have been asked to provide information about directors of their institution they appear to have answered, in a majority of cases, that they did not know the individuals' net worth.

For many years bank examiners generally have been charged, if not by law then by order of their department head, with the duty of gathering what facts they could about the financial standing of the bank board members. They are supposed to dig this information up themselves from what sources may be available. Now the net worth of directors is a question which is being asked directly.

PALMER ORDERS MUTUAL BENEFIT FIRM REVISIONS

Declaring that expense assessments are out of proportion to benefits paid, Ernest Palmer, director of insurance of Illinois, ordered the Continental Mutual Benefit association, 25 East Jackson boulevard, Chicago, to revise its method of operations.

The management was told to discontinue levying the first six assessments for the expense account in violation of the mutual benefit act. It also was ordered to pay losses in accordance with certificate provisions, to discontinue acceptance of advance premiums, to record all income on the company's books and to replenish the guarantee fund to bring it up to statutory requirements.

The Mutual Benefit society of the First Christian church in Illinois, Olney, was ordered to settle all claims in accordance with certificate provisions; increase the membership to minimum organization requirements and restore the guarantee fund to minimum organization requirements.

Catholic Knights and Ladies of De L'Epee, 635 South Ashland avenue, Chicago, was ordered to bring the membership of the association up to minimum requirements, revise the method of levying expense assessments and revise its investments portfolio.

FOX WEST COAST THEATERS SOLD FOR $17,000,000

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Earl E. Moss, referee in bankruptcy, today authorized the sale of the Fox West Coast Theaters corporation, controling more than 125 motion picture houses on the Pacific coast, to the National Theaters corporation for $17,000,000. The $17,000,000 represented claims against Fox West Coast Theaters, which the National Theaters agreed to liquidate.

The bankruptcy court also declared a "dividend" to creditors of 100 per cent of all unsecured indebtedness. The order permitting the sale cannot become effective until after a ten day period.

Attorneys for the bankruptcy trustees said that when the theater chain was placed in bankruptcy in February, 1932, it was losing about $25,000 weekly, but since then the business has been put on a profitable basis. The sale ends the bankruptcy proceedings.

JEWEL TEA SALES IN MONTH 15.26% OVER LAST YEAR

Jewel Tea Company, Inc., yesterday reported sales of $1,391,137 for the four weeks ended Nov. 3, an increase of 15.26 per cent over the $1,206,911 reported for the corresponding period of 1933. The average number of units in operation during the period was 1,537, against 1,450 a year ago.

For the first 44 weeks this year sales totaled $14,269,319, compared with $11,848,922 in the corresponding period of last year, a gain of 20.43 per cent.

DU PONT DECLARES 15C EXTRA DIVIDEND; LORD & TAYLOR, $50

Three extra dividends, ranging from 12½ cents to $50 a share, were declared yesterday.

E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. declared an extra of 15 cents a share and the regular quarterly payment of 65 cents a share on the common stock, payable Dec. 15 to stock of record Nov. 28. Three months ago an extra of 50 cents a share was paid. Total payments this year will amount to $3.10 a common share.

Lord & Taylor, which is controled by the Associated Dry Goods corporation, declared an extra of $50 a share on the common stock in addition to the usual Christmas extra dividend of $5 a share and the regular quarterly dividend of $2.50 a share. Both extra dividends are payable on Dec. 17 to stock of record Dec. 1, while the regular quarterly dividend is payable on Jan. 2 to stock of record of Dec. 17.

On Jan. 31 Associated owned $2,626,900 of the $100 par value common stock of Lord & Taylor, of which the outstanding amount was $2,998,000. The two extra dividends plus the regular quarterly dividend on this amount of stock total $57.50 a share, or $1,723,850.

An extra payment of 12½ cents a share was declared by the Patterson Sargent company in addition to the regular quarterly payment of 25 cents on the common stock, payable Dec. 1 to stock of record Nov. 21.

ZENITH RADIO DEFENDS ACTION IN CODE DISPUTE

The Zenith Radio corporation does not feel that it has violated the provisions of the NRA code, Irving Herriott, attorney for the company, said yesterday in commenting on an announcement from Washington that it has been cited to appear before the national labor relations board tomorrow in connection with the laying off of Herbert A. Breit, a former employé.

"The regional board has already decided that we were not guilty of violation of section 77A of the NRA act in laying off Breit, but it did find us guilty for refusing to reinstate him," Mr. Herriott explained. "In view of this we have written H. H. Millis, a member of the national board, saying we see no reason for the Washington hearing.

"Breit, along with other employés, was laid off from time to time in the ordinary course of business. On the last occasion he stated that he had been laid off because of union activities, giving as his authority for the assertion statements by two other employés. These statements were later denied by the two employés.

"When the regional board suggested that we reëmploy Breit, the officers of the company replied that they did not care to take on a man who had so grossly misrepresented the facts. The corporation desires to coöperate with the government, but it does not feel that it ought to be compelled to reemploy Breit."

ECCLES SEEKS RESERVE BOARD, COUNCIL ACCORD

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Marriner S. Eccles, new governor of the federal reserve board, today met with members of the board and advisory council in an effort to develop a strong policy of coöperation between the board and the banks in extension of credit. He withheld comment until the closing of the meetings tomorrow.

At the last meeting of the kind in September, the council adopted highly critical resolutions demanding currency stabilization, budget balancing, and the withdrawal of government agencies from the business field.

Roosevelt's Speech Jolts Utility Leaders

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's speech in Tupelo, Miss., on Sunday in which he said that the distribution of cheap electricity by Tupelo's municipal system in association with the Tennessee Valley authority was "going" to be copied in every state of the union before we get through," was likened to the bursting of a bombshell in the ranks of the private utility systems today.

Only one direct statement was made available despite the general consternation evidenced in power circles, and this came from Wendell L. Willkie, head of the Commonwealth and Southern System, which formerly supplied Tupelo with power. Mr. Willkie has pursued a policy of coöperation with the TVA since the organization of that body last year.

Holds Roosevelt Misinformed.

"The President, of course, is obviously misinformed," Mr. Willkie said in his statement. Further, he adds that he is "quite sure that as soon as the President gets the true facts about that situation his understanding mind will correct his statement, made surrounded by those anxious to prove to him that they have done a good job and amid the enthusiasm of the beneficiaries of the federal subsidies." He also said "there is really little occasion to be disturbed about the situation."

Public utility executives were at variance in their interpretation of President Roosevelt's speech, some considering it an out-and-out indorsement of the policy of municipal ownership proponents, and others largely as an incident in the campaign to get important utility legislation enacted by the next congress.

St. Lawrence Waterway Factor.

The latter viewed the President as extremely anxious to secure legislation which would permit the development of St. Lawrence power, in which he suffered one of his two major defeats in the last congress. A majority of the utility men felt they could not interpret the speech other than being the President's first direct approval of the municipal ownership program.

It was felt that the greatest safety of private utility companies lay in the fact that it would be impossible for the federal government to procure the funds which would be necessary to transfer all electric properties in the nation to the municipalities or other governmental organizations, and that the smaller government units from the states down would be hampered in the same manner from carrying out the complete absorption of electric and other services.

GOODYEAR HEAD FAVORS MUTUAL IDLE INSURANCE

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—A national program of unemployment insurance, with reserves built from assessments against employers and employés rather than from the public treasury, was advocated today by P. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company. He presented his program in an address before the southern division of the United States Chamber of Commerce in Birmingham, Ala.

Earlier in the day the General Foods corporation announced that it had adopted a coöperative annuity plan to provide old age retirement incomes for its employés. Workers in 45 plants and 29 sales divisions and districts are affected. The retirement age for women was set at 60 and for men at 65. C. M. Chester, president of the corporation, explained, however, that retirement at these age limits was not compulsory.

GOLD BLOC MONEYS RALLY, SHUTTING OFF RUN OF METAL TO U. S.

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Gold bloc currencies rallied in foreign exchange today, shutting off, temporarily, the flow of gold from Europe to this country. Although no new engagements of gold for import here were reported and some small amounts already engaged in France were turned back, estimates of the amount of gold previously taken for shipment here were revised upward by about $10,000,000 to a total of more than $100,000,000.

French francs led the recovery with an advance to 6.59⅝ cents, the best price since Oct. 29. They closed at 6.59¼ cents, up ¼ point net from last Saturday, and slightly above the gold import point.

At the closing figure for the franc the value of the dollar, based on the old par of the franc, was 59.43 cents, compared with 59.45 cents on Saturday. Calculated on the new par of the franc the dollar was valued at $1.0063, against $1.0066.

Dutch guilders gained 6 points to 67.6 cents, but failed at that price to surpass their theoretical gold import point. The belga gained 1 point to 23.33 cents, which is still well below its gold import point. The Swiss franc was alone among the four chief gold bloc currencies to decline. It fell 1 point to 32.46 cents. The pound fell ⅝ cent to $4.98⅜.

Interest in the market shifted to the Italian lire, which was conspicuously weak at 8.53 cents, 2 points under its quotation of last Saturday. Italy has been losing gold for months.

Bullion brokers in London advanced the price of gold 4½ pence to 139 shillings 7½ pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.81.

YEAR ROUND AUTO WORK UNLIKELY, SAYS R. E. OLDS

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Ransom E. Olds, veteran automobile manufacturer and chairman of the board of the Reo Motor Car company, today said that the proposal of Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors, to stagger the introduction of new car models was impracticable.

"The promise of year round jobs in the automobile industry sounds nice," Olds said in an interview, "but it won't work out. You can't make people buy out of season, and as the code sets a uniform price, automobile builders are prohibited from making special inducements to attract buyers.

"Under the proposed plan plants would have to have acres of buildings devoted to storage space for cars built in the slack season. It has been suggested that the government buy the surplus, but what would they do—plow them under?"

U. S. HIRES MORE ARCHITECTS TO SPEED BUILDING

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)—The treasury has hired more architectural experts and is bending its efforts to get at least 90 per cent of a $132,000,000 building program under way this winter. It is part of the federal attempt to lighten relief rolls.

The emergency program extends to 812 communities in the 48 states. Already more than $30,000,000 involving about 140 projects is under contract. To hurry the work the treasury's force of architectural workers has grown from 1,000 to 1,600. The more dollars that can be put to work this winter, the fewer men the administration expects to be out of jobs.

About $67,000,000 of the program was authorized by legislation before 1934. Most of the contracts already let are out of this sum. Last June congress added another $65,000,000.

UPTURN IN CASH CORN FEATURES GRAIN TRADING

Futures Reach New Peaks for Season.

Steadily increasing strength in cash corn dominated a drab session in grain futures on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday. Irregularly higher prices marked closing trades, with corn and rye showing the greatest gains. Volume was light, however, and activity was listless in all pits throughout the session.

December corn rose to a new high for the season at 85½ cents a bushel, while July also touched a fresh top for the crop year at 84⅛ cents. The May future, at its maximum of 85⅝ cents, came within 3¼ cents of the best figure attained for the crop on Aug. 10.

In the Chicago cash market a car of old No. 2 yellow corn changed hands at 89½ cents a bushel, a premium of 4¼ cents over the December future, while old No. 2 white corn was sold at 98½ cents, a premium of 13½ cents and the highest price since September, 1930.

Dollar Corn at St. Louis.

Dollar corn became an actuality at St. Louis with the sale of a car of No. 1 seed corn at that figure. This is said to be the first sale at this figure in any terminal market. The dollar mark for white corn in the Chicago market was freely predicted before the end of the current week by spot brokers.

Country reports continue to emphasize the persistent demand for corn from truckers, who pay prices that leave little attraction in terminal market values. Only 68,000 bushels were booked to arrive here yesterday and a considerable amount of this was reported to have been obtained from another terminal market. Winnipeg reported that American truckers are coming into Canada for feed grains and hauling it back over the border, paying full duty.

Wheat Prices Irregular.

At the close here wheat futures were ⅛ cent lower to ¼ cent higher, the May delivery finishing at 99⅞ cents. Corn rose ¾ to 1 cent, oats were ⅛ cent lower to ⅝ cent higher, with May ending at 50⅝ cents. Rye improved ⅞ to 1¼ cents, while barley was nominally unchanged to ¼ cent above Saturday. Some sympathetic strength was imparted by Liverpool, which erased an early loss and closed ⅛ to ¼ cent higher. Winnipeg followed the trend here, rising ⅛ to ⅝ cent in quiet trading.

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	*Week ago.
Wheat	$1.01	$1.01¼	$1.00
Corn	.85¼	.84⅝	.79⅞
Oats	.53⅝	.53	.51¼
Rye	.73½	.72½	.70

*Quotations for Saturday, Nov. 10. Monday, Nov. 12, was a market holiday.

As had been expected, visible supplies of wheat and corn again declined, wheat falling 2,348,000 bushels and corn easing 1,418,000.

Visible supplies of the five leading grains now total only 199,377,000 bushels, compared with 272,893,000 at this time last year, a decrease of 27 per cent.

SUPREME COURT AGREES TO UNITE FOUR GOLD SUITS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—The United States Supreme court today granted the request of Solicitor General Biggs to consolidate the four suits that have been filed contending that the statute which abrogated the payment in gold clause in past contracts is unconstitutional. This makes possible a decision in January or February.

A ruling by the highest court against the government in these cases would upset treasury calculations and force a change in monetary policy. The department of justice estimates that 100 billion dollars of private and governmental debts is involved.

Argentine High Court Rules Meat Law Is Constitutional

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 19.—The supreme court ruled today that the Argentine meat law is constitutional, and rejected the meat packers' objections to it. The court also ruled that fines imposed on packers for noncompliance with the order to exhibit their books were valid. International packers, including Armour, Swift and Wilson of the United States are affected by the law.

The Future

Statistics invite a backward glance. They record history. They are available to everyone. Statistical analysis alone however is inadequate. A study of the future proves of greater value to prudent investors. Field-research into favored industries, promising companies, a knowledge of obscure economic trends, and understanding of political factors, national and international—these are essential to the correct approach to efficient money management. These we provide and interpret.

Am. Telephone Dividend Now Market Focus

The interest of the financial community is centered on the American Telephone and Telegraph company, the directors of which will decide tomorrow on the dividend to be paid. The action of the directors will be watched with more than usual interest since the telephone company, possessing the largest number of stockholders of any corporation in the world, is one of the pacemakers of the stock market.

While the prevailing belief is that the directors will decide to continue the $9 annual rate, which has been in effect since 1922, a number of new factors have entered the picture which make such a course less certain. Foremost is the fact that the company has not been earning its entire dividend requirements, making up for the deficiencies in 1933 and 1932 by dipping into its surplus.

Earnings Rise; Still Insufficient.

While there has been an upward tendency in the company's business recently, the earnings are not sufficient to meet the dividend requirements. Per share earnings for the first nine months of 1934 amounted to $4.83, compared with $5.43 in the like 1933 period.

Second, there is the general national movement to extend federal control over utilities. This is exemplified in the recent launching by the newly formed communications commission of an inquiry into the affairs of the huge organization. The avowed purpose of the inquiry is to determine whether congress should take further action to control the activities of A. T. & T. as well as those of other utilities. Other factors include action taken by various local bodies seeking to reduce the rates of services rendered by the various operating companies.

Chicago Rate Refund Factor.

Among such adverse actions was the decision of the United States Supreme court upholding the city of Chicago in its fight to get refunds for subscribers on telephone service. This decision cost Illinois Bell Telephone some $20,000,000, which, of course, is reflected in the earnings of the parent company.

The net income of the parent company for 1933 amounted to $137,457,000, compared with $145,907,000 in 1932. The net income for 1933 was insufficient by $30,504,000 to meet dividend requirements, while the 1932 insufficiency was $22,048,000.

With these considerations in mind, a section of the financial district feels that A. T. & T.'s directors may adopt a conservative course and reduce the dividend rate for the next period to an amount more commensurate with earnings.

WILLARD DENIES THAT RAILROADS ARE "DECADENT"

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Declaring that until business and manufacturing recover the railroads will require an increase in freight rates and will have to bring about additional economies, Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, today denied that the American railroads constitute "a decadent industry as is sometimes alleged," and that despite economic difficulties they may look forward hopefully to the future.

Speaking of the Association of American Railroads, Mr. Willard said, "I do not know of any other large industry in this or any other country, that has set up so complete and effective an organization to deal with the common problems of industry as the railroads have set up in Washington. I do not hesitate to say that, in my opinion, it will be the means of bringing about by the railroads as a whole substantial economies and other benefits."

The Baltimore and Ohio, he said, on the basis of present operations, probably will show gross earnings of around $135,000,000 for the current year, but operating income will fall short of providing the road's full needs by about $3,000,000 after charging depreciation of $7,500,000. Last year the road had a net profit of $204,772.

Treasury's Latest 182 Day Bills Are Oversubscribed

Heavy oversubscription greeted the latest offering of 182-day treasury bills, dated Nov. 21, 1934, and maturing May 22, 1935, which were offered Nov. 16. Applications totaled $208,855,000 of which $75,168,000 was accepted. Excluding four small tenders totaling $17,000 accepted bids ranged from 999.909, equivalent to an annual rate of 0.18 per cent on a bank discount basis, to 99.890, or 0.22 per cent. The average price was 99.895, or 0.21 per cent.

BELGIUM'S LOAN VIEWED AS U. S. STABILITY MOVE

BY HOWARD WOOD.

News that the federal reserve banks had extended aid to the Belgians to tide them over their currency crisis this month yesterday made a decidedly favorable impression in money and banking circles. Bankers were cheered by what they regarded as indication that the administration at Washington had swung around in the direction of currency stabilization.

Briefly, the story is this: People with money in Belgium, becoming frightened by rumors of impending currency debasement, began to send their funds abroad, chiefly to the United States. In order to transfer funds from Belgium to the United States it is necessary to buy dollars. This is done by shipping gold to the United States in exchange for dollars. But the shipment of gold requires a few days. The demands in Belgium for transference of funds to the United States came so thick and fast that the Belgian authorities couldn't wait for the gold to reach the United States.

Reserve Banks Rush Aid.

In this emergency the twelve federal reserve banks rushed to the aid of the Belgians by lending them $25,000,000 on that amount of gold as security. This gave the Belgians immediately the necessary dollars to effect the transfers of funds to the United States. Also it enabled the Belgians to do a little "window dressing." Instead of showing a sudden drop of $25,000,000 in their holdings of gold they could spread the figures over three or four weeks, thereby giving the world the impression that there was no panic but rather a gradual outward movement of funds. When people in any nation get the jitters over their currency all such psychological cushions are helpful in easing the shocks.

Prof. Melchior Palyi of the University of Chicago, who recently returned from a several months' study of the economic situation in Europe, said yesterday that the news that the United States had rushed to Belgium's aid in her hour of need would make a very favorable impression not only in Belgium but in France, Holland, and Switzerland as well.

U. S. Attitude Misrepresented.

People in these remaining "gold bloc" countries, said Dr. Palyi, have been told by propagandists and have believed that the United States cared little whether they remained on the gold standard and would do nothing to aid them.

On Sunday Belgian officials were still denying that the United States had extended the $25,000,000 credit, but yesterday these denials were nullified by dispatches from Washington telling of the admission of federal reserve officials in Washington that the aid had been given.

Although the American reserve banks took no risk in making the $25,000,000 loan and are getting quick payment in gold, the fact remains that they went out of their way to be helpful to Belgium in an emergency which might have led to her being forced off the gold standard.

Removes Bar on Capital.

On top of this is the action taken by the United States treasury department a week ago in removing restrictions on the export of American capital, a step which, according to well informed sources, was taken to ease the pressure on the gold standard countries by creating a "better feeling" in foreign exchange.

Also there have been many rumors to the effect that the treasury department has been using the two billion dollar stabilization fund to bolster up

STOCKS RESIST FURTHER DROP IN UTILITY LIST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 19.—In the face of a renewed selling attack on utilities other stock divisions bore up well in fairly active dealings on the "big board" today.

While further selling continued to undermine the power and light section on the strength of overnight news, the general list opened strong and made further progress on the upside until late in the afternoon, when profit-taking sales checked the advance. Early gains ranging to as much as two points later were sharply reduced and in some cases replaced by fractional net recessions. Total transactions were 982,000 shares.

Bulls Held in Leash.

It was evident that any strong bullish sentiment, however, was being held in leash by selling of utilities, although the market showed improvement in its ability to resist attacks in that sector.

Coming on the heels of recent investigation moves against the utility industry, President Roosevelt's recommendation in speeches in the south yesterday that the Tennessee valley power project be emulated elsewhere in the nation toward the end that rates might be lowered, furnished a new unsettling influence on utilities. Under steady pressure several power and light shares tumbled to new lows for the year. Among such issues were Public Service of New Jersey, American Power and Light, Electric Power and Light 6 and 7 per cent preferreds, National Power and Light and Public Service 5 per cent preferred. United Gas was an especially weak spot. However, there was fractional recovery just before the close.

The statement of President Walter Gifford of American Telephone that his company was not worried over the impending federal inquiry into its financial structure and contracts apparently made traders feel better toward American Telephone, for the stock netted an advance of 1¾ points on the day.

Steel Issues Improve.

A new rise in the steel industry's output stimulated interest in steel shares. National Steel was the leader in point of gain—two points on the day—with fractional improvement in activ etrading for Bethlehem, Republic, and U. S. Steel.

Rejuvention of retail and wholesale trade spurred activity in merchandising shares under the leadership of Montgomery Ward and Sears-Roebuck, with chain store and farm implement stocks taking up the pace.

A strong building group depended for leadership on Johns Manville, but late realizing sales made inroads here, as elsewhere. Speculators liked du Pont's extra dividend and worked it up fractionally.

Fractionally higher prices also were the rule for tobaccos, foods and motor accessory shares, and chemicals were strong. Mining shares did little more than hold their ground.

TRIAL OF BANK HOLDING FIRM'S OFFICERS HALTED

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 19.—(AP)—The Minnesota Supreme court today temporarily halted legal proceedings in Clay county District court against 16 Northwest Bancorporation officials and directors, charged with swindling and fraud.

The high court in an order signed by Chief Justice John P. Devaney ordered District Judges Carroll Nye and Anton Thompson to show cause why they should not be forced to require copies of preliminary proceedings, now in the hands of state representatives, to be turned over to corporation counsel.

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Generally lower prices prevailed throughout the listed bond market today. Declines of 1 to 3 points occurred in a number of domestic corporation issues in fairly active trading. United States government bonds were mostly 1-32 to 5-32 point lower. Home Owners' Loan corporation and Federal Farm Mortgage corporation issues which manifested considerable strength last week were the principal losers today.

Speculative Rails Weak.

In the domestic corporation list, speculative railroad issues as a group were weak, with few utility issues able to make much headway as the aftermath of President Roosevelt's statement regarding the future of public ownership of utilities. News of New York City's proposed increased taxation for utility companies did not come until after the close of the market.

Foreign Loans Uneven.

Foreign loans showed considerable irregularity in quiet dealings. Most of the net changes for the day in German issues were fractional, as was the case with Austrian, Belgian, and Australian government issues. However, Polish government loans broke fractionally to more than 4 points, and Royal Dutch 4s dropped 2 points. French government 7s jumped 4¾ points and Panama railroad 5s, due 1963, advanced 4 points. Colombian and Argentine government loans were among the strongest of the South American group.

Owens-Illinois Glass.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give me information as to Owens-Illinois Glass?—Mrs. J. D.

Answer: Owens-Illinois Glass company is the largest manufacturer of bottles and glass containers in the United States, turning out about 40 per cent of the country's requirements. Prior to April, 1933, output was for the drug and proprietary trades, foodstuffs, milk, and general purposes.

In April, 1933, manufacture and sale of beer was legalized and the company experienced a rush of orders from breweries. By the time their demand had been filled and the output for the beer trade was placed on a replacement basis, sale of wines and hard liquors was authorized.

This resulted in another rush of orders. Since bottles for the wine and distilled liquor trade are used only once, the business is of a recurring type.

For the 12 months to Sept. 30, 1934, net income was $6,085,000, or $5.07 per common share, against net income of $4,952,000, or $3.86 per common share, for the preceding 12 months.

Net income for 1933 was $6,032,000, or $4.86 per common share, against net income of $2,068,000, or $1.62 per common share, for 1932. Net income for 1931 was $2,744,000, against $2,739,000 for 1930.

At the close of 1933 current assets were about 6½ times current liabilities, a satisfactory position. There is no funded debt. The preferred stock was retired in 1933. Capitalization now consists of 1,200,000 shares of $25 par common stock. Effective Nov. 15, 1934, the dividend rate on the common was increased to $1 a quarter from the previous rate of 75 cents a quarter. Dividends in 1933 totaled $2.50 a share.

The stock is rather high grade.

Whisky Dividend.

Investors' Guide: Last January I bought some National Distillers stock. [1] Am I entitled to their warehouse receipts entitling me to a case of whisky for every five shares of stock? [2] If so, do I get the receipts from the broker or do I have to write to the company?—H. L. J.

Answer: [1] No, the dividend of a warehouse receipt for one case of whisky for each five shares of stock held was payable only to those stockholders who were listed on the company's books on Oct. 2, 1933. It was originally contemplated that the payment would be made to holders of record of Sept. 15, 1934, but the record date was moved back approximately a year on July 12, 1933.

RFC ALLOTMENTS ARE 211 MILLIONS DURING OCTOBER

Nearly Half Assigned to Market Farm Stuff.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Authorizations and commitments of $211,354,527 by the Reconstruction Finance corporation in October, the largest item being $100,000,000 allocated to the Federal Commodity corporation to aid in the orderly marketing of agricultural products, were reported to congress today.

In addition, $210,000,00 was transferred to the federal emergency relief administration, under the emergency appropriation act of 1933, which provided that not more than $500,000,000 of unobligated balances of the RFC could be so used in the discretion of the President. On Oct. 31, there were outstanding $3,548,150,166 of the corporation's notes.

Loans to Going Banks Small.

A feature of the October report was that only $309,982 in new loans was extended to going banks. In all, the loans of $26,534,086 were authorized for banks but of this $26,224,103 was to aid in the reorganization of liquidation of closed institutions.

During October applications for $7,845,051 in loans authorized were withdrawn or canceled. The loans authorized were three aggregating $529,000 for New Jersey banks, $480,000 going to one bank in receivership; four loans aggregating $5,081,500; seventeen in which the RFC participated with banks, $1,227,650; one agreement to participate in loan, $16,000.

Roads Get 21 Millions.

Railroads appeared in the RFC picture more prominently than for some time, loans of $21,095,000 being authorized to four systems as follows: New York, New Haven and Hartford, $6,000,000, Chicago and North Western, $4,188,000 and $7,357,000; Litchfield and Madison, $800,000, and Lehigh Valley, $3,000,000.

Of the loans authorized during October, $65,000 went to the receiver of a building and loan association; $5,922,009 to mortgage loan companies; $341,888 to a regional agricultural credit corporation; and $42,500 to a corporation engaged in the fishing industry.

ALL LARD DELIVERIES SELL AT NEW HIGH FOR SEASON

Strength in corn stimulated buying of lard futures yesterday with all deliveries selling at a new high for the season. The close was at the top with net gains of 5 to 7½ cents. Packers were credited with hedging on the advance, and the limited shipments out of the local market in the last few days also attracted attention. The latter is said to be a reflection of the higher freight rates which went into effect on Nov. 15.

Bellies were unchanged to 10 cents higher. Demand for cash meats was reported as slow, with the market showing an easy undertone. Cash lard was quoted at 10.52 cents; loose, 10.27 cents; leaf, 10.25 cents, and bellies, 14¾ cents per pound. Prices follow:

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 19.—Worsted manufacturers who had not been buying wool for many months came into the Boston market near the close of last week and took sizable quantities of the finer territory lines. An improved tone in the market resulted from this buying and prices showed a firming tendency. Estimated receipts of domestic wool at Boston, reported to the Boston Grain and Flour exchange during the week ending Nov. 17, amounted to 1,559,800 lbs, compared with 1,297,000 lbs during the previous week.

WARM WEATHER, HEAVY RECEIPTS CUT HOG PRICES

Unseasonably warm weather and the pressure of receipts drove hog prices 10 to 25 cents lower yesterday. The break was the sharpest in almost a month and came rather unexpectedly in view of the strong undertone of recent sessions. Light new crop hogs led the decline, with the sharpest downturn recorded in hogs weighing less than 180 pounds.

Packers paid up to $8.25 for prime 240 to 330 pound butchers, including the $2.25 processing tax. This was steady with Saturday and compared with $8.40 last Friday. Yesterday's average declined 10 cents to $7.95, tax included, the first time the packers' droves have averaged under $8.00 in twelve days.

Cattle prices reached the widest spread of the season as the few lots of well finished beef steers maintained a firm position while all others ruled weak to 25 cents lower.

Steers averaging 1,397 to 1,428 pounds topped the list at $9.90, within 10 cents of the highest mark in a month, while some of the poorer classes of canning stock sold near the record lows of the last summer.
